Businessmen, Council Meet

Merchants OK Proposal For Parking Meter Tokens

A proposal to use tokens as well as coins to operate downtown parking meters in shopper lots drew an endorsement yesterday from downtown merchants.

The proposal — which was discussed last night by the city council's parking, building and grounds committee — may lead to installation of parking meters at the new downtown Ellinwood Street parking lot.

City officials and merchants met yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce offices to draw up a parking plan for the lot which has been open free to shoppers for nearly two months.

The 125-car lot is expected to produce about $30,000 a year in city revenue needed to finance recent purchase of $225,000 in parking revenue bonds.

"We explained the difference between a validation system (where merchants hand customers free parking tickets for use in a monitored lot) and a token system to about 15 to 20 merchants," said Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st), chairman of the council committee.

"THE MERCHANTS favored a token system," he said. "The concept is easiest for the city because it will save book-keeping and hiring of a guard for the lot."

By changing meters to accept tokens

— probably throughout the city — merchants will be able to purchase tokens and distribute them to customers and provide a form of free parking.

"There was even some talk of a merchant mailing a token to each customer on his list as an incentive to park downtown," Szabo said.

"It's a bit premature to expect a recommendation" from the committee to the council, he said. "We need to study this more."

The merchants also argued for a change in meters at the Park Place parking lot. The lot currently has two- and five-hour meters.

"We're going to put in a row of five-hour meters in the south section of the lot," Szabo said. One, two and five-hour meters in the Jewel lot on Graceland Avenue will remain the same.

Szabo predicted that meters in the Ellinwood lot will be of both the one- and two-hour variety.

THE MERCHANTS rejected a suggestion that "free" parking come from cash handouts to their customers. "They want something personal, something they can give the customers, compliments of their store," Szabo said.

Two complaints of the merchants were use of downtown lots by theater patrons on Monday and Friday nights and overly aggressive enforcement of parking violations. "We're going to patrol the lots more at night to see that the one-hour limit on meters is enforced," Szabo said.

The discussion yesterday "appeased the merchants who have criticized last year's parking boost from five to 10 cents an hour," he said.

The Ellinwood lot was open in late November, despite an incomplete final surface and lack of parking stall markings. Mayor Herbert Behrel, who attended the meeting yesterday, recently said that lines in the lot will be changed from straight to diagonal parking because of drivers' complaints.

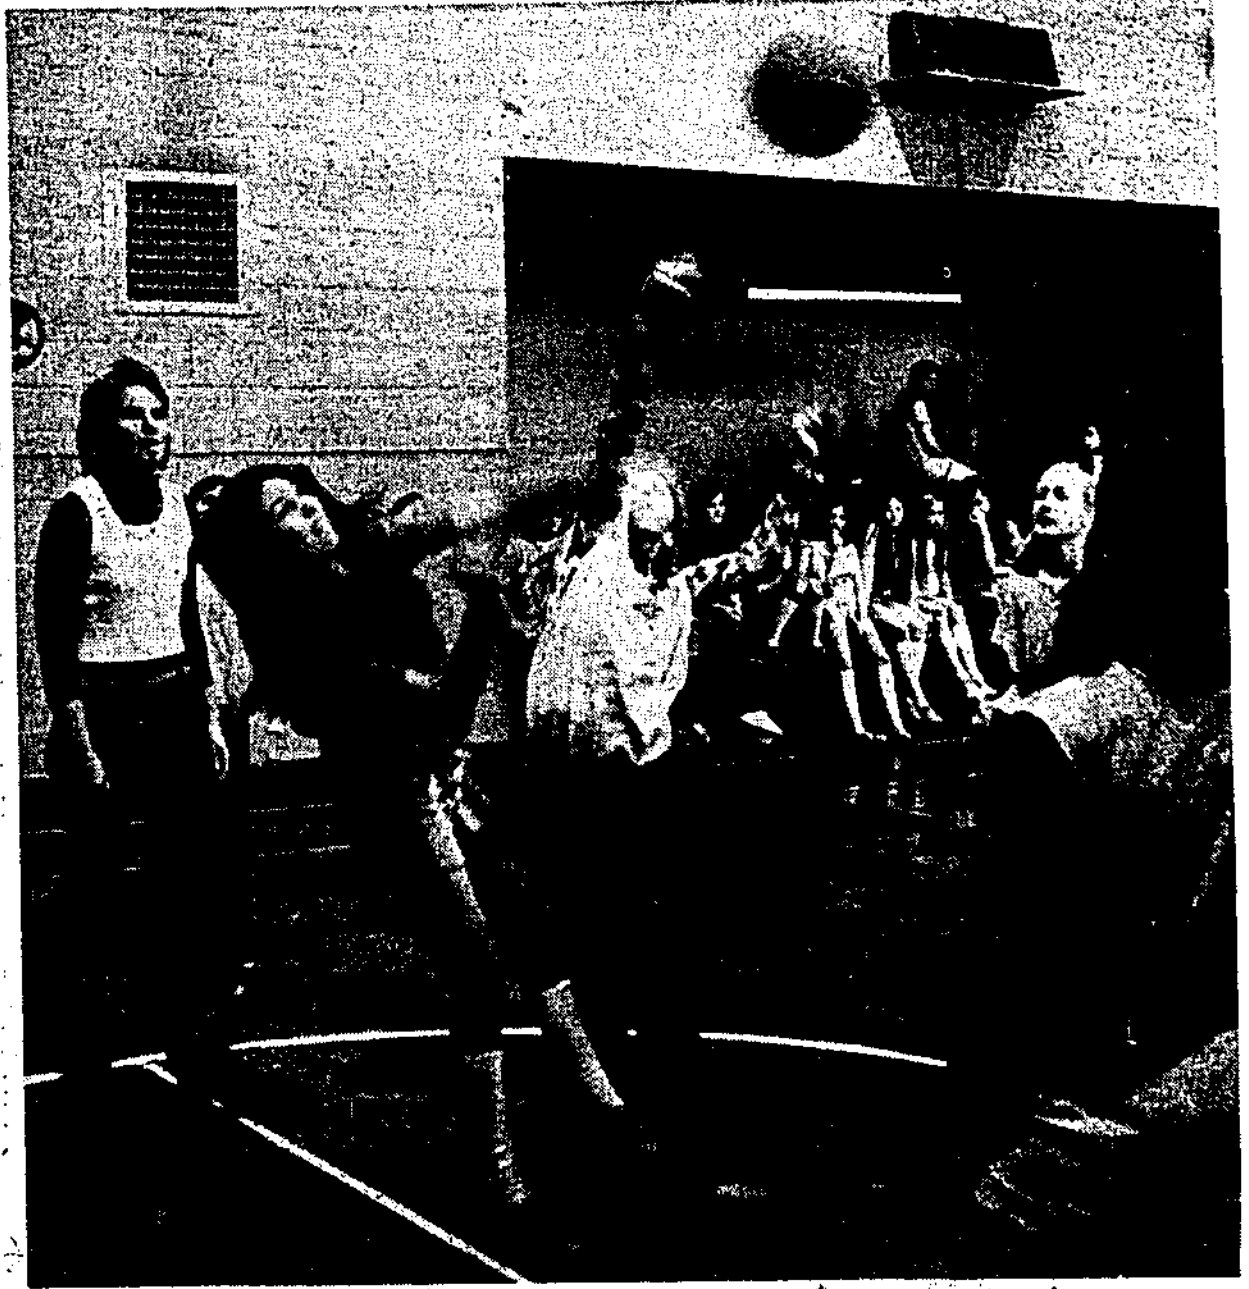

Behrel said "You're talking to the wrong man. No comment," after the merchants meeting, which was closed to the press.

BEHREL HAS said that "our first thinking is that we would like to avoid meters." He proposed a "monitored lot with free ticket parking to help downtown stores compete with free shopping center parking."

Behrel proposed that merchants balance the estimated lot revenue by paying the city on the basis of the retail sales area of their stores. He urged merchants to foot the parking lot bill of about $30,000 a year in order to advertise free downtown parking.

"I'm not against tokens but the idea lends itself more to counterfeiting — plugging of meters with slugs," the mayor has said.

Any final changes require city council approval.

Rand-Central Repair Plan Cost Up $140,000

An Illinois Highway Department plan for the improvement of the Rand-Central-Mount Prospect roads intersection would cost at least $140,000 more than the current proposal and calls for relocating Rand more than 25 feet to the east.

The plan is only tentative, and some Mount Prospect officials have expressed reservations over the proposal. They point out the state plan is more costly and involves the use of more right-of-way than the proposal drawn up by Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

Village Eng. Leonard H. Dicke said the local plan to improve the intersection, including the nearby Central-Mount Prospect roads intersection, is estimated to cost $220,000. But he said the state plan would cost about $360,000 for construction alone, plus whatever would have to be spent to buy the necessary right of way.

No date for a meeting on the plans has been set.

"WE'RE WILLING TO go along with it, but not the additional cost," Dicke said. He indicated that every attempt would be made to have the state pay any extra cost between the state's plan and Mount Prospect and Des Plaines' proposal.

The intersection improvement project is to be built under the TOPICS program in which the federal government pays 50 per cent and the state and local governments each pay a quarter of the cost. One corner of the intersection is in Des Plaines, and that community has offered to pay 17 per cent of the local government share.

Dicke said the state plan is concerned mainly with a steady flow of traffic on Rand Road, a state highway. Mount Prospect, he said, is more interested in keeping the Central and Mount Prospect roads cross traffic flowing smoothly.

The state wants to shift Rand Road to permit more room for stacking east-bound Central Road traffic that want to turn north onto Rand Road. But Dicke said, "The stacking problem can be circumvented by sequential signalization."

GEORGE MARCH, of Alost and March, the firm that has done the engineering for the project, said he is not all that sure if the state really intends to move Rand Road.

"I don't know if they are truly recommending this," he said yesterday. He said he feels they were just offering what they considered a better plan than what his firm had proposed.

A true TOPICS project, March said, is a remedial plan, but the state's proposal is more far-reaching. When asked, he said he was unsure whether the state proposal would still qualify as a TOPICS project.

It is now up to the two communities, acting through March, and the state to come up with a plan agreeable to all sides. In a sense, the state has the final say because nothing can be done without its approval.

Ex-Ald. Wagner To Seek Election

Former Ald. Corvin Wagner announced candidacy for aldermanic election in the 6th Ward yesterday.

Wagner, 58, of 1743 Farwell Ave., was a six-year representative of the 8th ward before losing a reelection bid to Ald. Arthur Erbach (5th) in 1971.

"I've circulated my petitions. I'll probably file in the next day or two," he said.

"I've had many calls. I have the time, and that's important," Wagner, a truck driver, said.

Television, Cash Taken From Home

A portable television valued at $335 and ten Kennedy silver dollars were taken from the home of Ralph Wilson, 1036 Walnut in Des Plaines, police reported Monday.

The burglar apparently entered the house by forcibly opening the rear door of the house, police added.

Attorney Rafael Del Campo filed 5th Ward aldermanic candidacy petitions yesterday.

Del Campo, 51, of 2149 Westview Dr., will run for the seat of Ald. Lois Czuba-kowski (5th), who is not seeking reelection.

Another Chicago attorney, Wayne Andersen, also announced yesterday his candidacy for 4th Ward alderman.

DEL CAMPO IS a graduate of John Marshall law school and has lived in Des Plaines for 13 years. He is former president of the Lakeview Towers Civic Assn.

Andersen, 27, of 519 Harvey Ave., is an honors graduate of Harvard University and the University of Illinois law school. He was legislative aide to State Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Park Ridge, for two years in Springfield.

"I've learned a lot about the legislative process," he said. "I enjoy politics. I'm convinced that legislative bodies suffer when their members aren't oriented toward accomplishment and are only concerned with politics. I'm not going into this with the idea of being a bull in a china shop."

If Andersen, who needs a minimum of 52 residents' signatures, files petitions, he could oppose either Ald. Robert Hinde or Ald. Daniel Kisslinger.

Kisslinger, who is seeking a four-year term, has filed petitions and is opposed by Ray Ischer, 45, a former car salesman. Ischer, of 781 Warrington Dr., filed petitions last week.

Hinde, running for a two-year term, currently is unopposed.

Explosion Shatters Windows Of House

An explosion, apparently set off by vandals, shattered two windows and did $50 damage to the home of George MacDonald, 310 8th Ave., Des Plaines police reported Monday.

Police believe the explosion was triggered by fire crackers and B-Bs taped to the window by the vandals.

Former President Johnson Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th President of the United States, is dead.

Johnson, thrust into the presidency by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the man who won the White House with one of the greatest landslide in American politics, died of an apparent heart attack Monday.

A spokesman said Johnson was stricken at his ranch in Central Texas and was flown to Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. George McGranahan.

JOHNSON'S WIDOW, Lady Bird, was notified at her offices in Austin and she immediately flew to San Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending.

tleman rancher in the hills of Central Texas where he was raised.

The man who hitchhiked to college, ran for his first elective office 35 years ago and rose to lead a nation and the world had suffered three previous heart attacks.

He suffered his first 17 years ago when he was a U.S. senator, and two years ago was hospitalized for two weeks with angina pectoris — a blockage of blood flow to the heart. He suffered a third attack in Charlottesville, Va., April 7, 1972, while visiting his daughter Lynda and her husband Charles Robb.

AFTER SPENDING less than five days at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville he was brought back to Texas and the Brooke Hospital.

Johnson, robust at 63 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success.

He gave it in two words: "Hard work." But he was finally stricken during a life of ease away from pressure politics.

"These are the days and nights I choose to have," he told friends on the first anniversary of his retirement from public office. "This is something I've never been able to do before. I do just what I want to do."

Johnson, then vice president, became the 36th president when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

A YEAR LATER the former Senate majority leader and vice president won the presidency in his own right. He received 61 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson chose not to run for a second full term and was succeeded by President Richard M. Nixon.

Lost Jet After It Landed: Controller

by RICH HONACK

Two air traffic controllers on duty at O'Hare International Airport the night of a two-plane collision, testified yesterday they believe visibility was below the legal quarter-mile limit.

William Gratzke and Lloyd Eastburn, the controllers, also said the Airport Surface Detection Equipment (ASDE) gave them "no confidence."

As board members questioned Eastburn it was pointed out that he and Gratzke disagreed with the amount of visibility available at the point he gave the North Central flight clearance to take off.

The two controllers concurred that by their standards, visibility was only one-eighth of a mile. However, their supervisor disagreed, saying visibility was one-quarter of a mile, which is legal for takeoff.

THE TWO controllers said it was hard to judge if the ASDE equipment was always in working order.

Both men were testifying before the National Safety Board of Inquiry. The board is in its fourth day of hearings into the cause of the crash between a Delta Convair 880 and a North Central DC-9 on Dec. 20.

Ten persons were killed when the DC-9 struck the tail section of the Convair 880 during takeoff in the fog.

Gratzke, in charge of landing the Delta plane, told the board he lost the jet on the ASDE equipment shortly after it landed. He said he hardly ever uses the ASDE equipment that is supposed to point out every moving aircraft on the ground at O'Hare.

"I usually use it until they finish their landing, and then I use visual sightings to guide them," said the controller. Because visual contact was not able to be made in the fog, however, the controllers had to depend on the ASDE equipment the night of the crash.

At this point, the most important thing for the board and investigators from other agencies was that the equipment did not work properly Dec. 20.

"After Delta flight 954 touched down and was rolling, I looked at the screen and could not see it," Gratzke said. When asked if he reported the disorder to anyone, he answered "No sir, this is nothing new." Gratzke said the usual operating procedure for the equipment is poor. He added it is not normal to report the deficiencies.

THE O'HARE controller of 3½ years said: "The equipment is generally bad during inclement weather. It's nothing that hasn't happened before. Some times you can't see anything on the screen," said Gratzke.

Capt. Lewis McNair of the Airline Pilots Association (ALPH), asked if Gratzke had "ever" informed his superiors of the problem. He also asked if the controller informed officials of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers organization (PATCO). Gratzke answered yes to both questions, but that it was never done in writing.

The ALPH investigator also asked the controller if he had trouble with any other jet landing that night.

"Yes, a TWA flight that followed Delta on runway 14 left was lost as was flight 954," answered Gratzke.

Eastburn, a resident of Schaumburg, was in charge of giving clearance to the North Central jet for takeoff. He told the board he did not notice Delta flight 954 on his ASDE screen.

EASTBURN ADDED, "I was not looking for him." He concurred with Gratzke's testimony that the ASDE equipment is not reliable. Under questioning by the Federal Aviation Administration, for whom the controllers work, he admitted it is not always necessary to use the ASDE equipment. He said the ASDE is used more as a backup system.

Delta officials asked Gratzke how much he had been trained on ASDE. He said, they told me "this is the equipment, this is what it does, and this makes it light or dark according to your liking."

When the Delta official again asked how much training he had, he said "as long as it took me to say that sentence for you." Gratzke further said he had to learn most of the operation on his own.

Controller 'Didn't Hear Jet's Location'

by RICH HONACK

The air traffic controller in charge of guiding Delta Flight 954 on the ground prior to its collision with a North Central DC-9 airliner testified yesterday that he did not hear the location of the Delta jet at the time he said he was clear.

Patrick O'Brien testified before one member of the technical committee of the National Transportation Safety Board. He will be questioned further this morning.

Under questioning by John Scott, air safety investigator, O'Brien said he did not hear the pilot of Delta Flight 954 say that he was inside the bridge. "Inside the bridge" is a phrase indicating he was heading south on the bridge taxi area.

O'Brien said he thought flight 954 was immediately pulling off of runway 14L therefore he gave the direction "Pull onto 32L" not indicating whether it was 32L or 32R.

"I anticipated that flight 954 would go on at 32R," said O'Brien. "I did not know where he was at the time of that transmission."

O'BRIEN SAID he thought that after giving that direction flight 954 had pulled onto pad 32R and was waiting for a gate opening. However, as earlier testimony has shown in the hearing, because of the plane's location, the pilot continued to taxi toward pad 32L, where, while crossing an active runway, his craft was struck by the North Central plane.

O'Brien said that he would never have sent the Delta plane to pad 32L. "It is an inconvenience to me and because of the number of aircraft on hold, there was no necessity for him to go to that pad."

When asked by Scott if he had tried to locate the plane on the ASDE (Airport Surface Detection Equipment), O'Brien answered "No," further explaining that he hardly ever uses the ASDE.

When asked why, he said the equipment is erratic; "At various times in various areas, it will be working fine, and a half-hour later it won't be working at all. It's a very unusual piece of equipment." The ASDE equipment is a radar system that shows all moving aircraft on the ground at O'Hare.

Unlike the testimony of an earlier air traffic controller O'Brien says weather does not affect the ASDE. He did say, though, that it is not a trustworthy piece of equipment. "I don't use it unless I absolutely have to use it."

O'Brien is considered a developed mental controller, meaning he is still in training. However, he is qualified for the position of ground controller. He had come onto the job that day as ground controller only a half hour before the accident. When asked by Scott what he considers to be the primary means of control of airplanes on the ground, he said he felt pilot reports were the best directions and ASDE was secondary.

Center Campaign Nears $5,000 Goal

Two $100 donations Monday pushed the Herald Center Fund near its minimum goal of $5,000 set for Jan. 31.

The Christian Church of Arlington Heights, 333 W. Thomas Ave., and Honeywell, Inc., 1500 W. Dundee Rd., Arlington Heights, each contributed $100 to the fund being sponsored by the Herald in an effort to help the financial plight of The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center.

The donation from Honeywell was forwarded by A. R. Bartolini, personnel manager, who praised the center program and the "very worthwhile things it is doing to help suburban people."

In addition to its cash contribution, the Christian Church is sponsoring a benefit concert Friday night which will seek to raise funds for the counseling center and Northwest Opportunity Center.

The concert features radio personality John Doremus and the University of Tulsa Modern Choir. It will be held at 8 p.m. in First United Methodist Church, Euclid Avenue and Prindle Street, Arlington Heights. Tickets are $2.50.

The fund also received two memorial contributions.

A Prospect Heights resident who asked to remain anonymous made a donation in memory of a neighbor who recently passed away.

A donation also was made by Mr. and Mrs. Allan Schreier, 1914 Eastwood Dr., Arlington Heights, in memory of the late Fred Howard Evans, father of Margaret Evans Huster, 527 W. Eastman, Arlington Heights.

A TOTAL $4,925 has been contributed to the fund thus far. With one week remaining in the campaign, center officials were hopeful of exceeding the minimum goal of $5,000.

Proceeds from the fund will be used to help defray the center's operating deficit for 1972 and ensure its ability to maintain service to Northwest suburbs.

As an agency of The Salvation Army Family Service Division, the center receives the bulk of its financing from The Salvation Army and United Fund campaigns. As with most independent social

Guardsman Drum And Bugle Corps, Keeps Kids Busy

by MARY HOULIHAN

Seventy-six trombones! Color guards, drum majorettes in short skirts, horns blaring out the tune: the electric lure of the marching band.

Few have not felt it. But sadly, few ever have a chance to be a part of the excitement of a John Phillip Sousa-esque marching band. Lack of musical training tends to crush such aspirations. Unless you can twirl a baton, or you like carrying a flag through a parade, there's not much chance of getting into a band without any musical training.

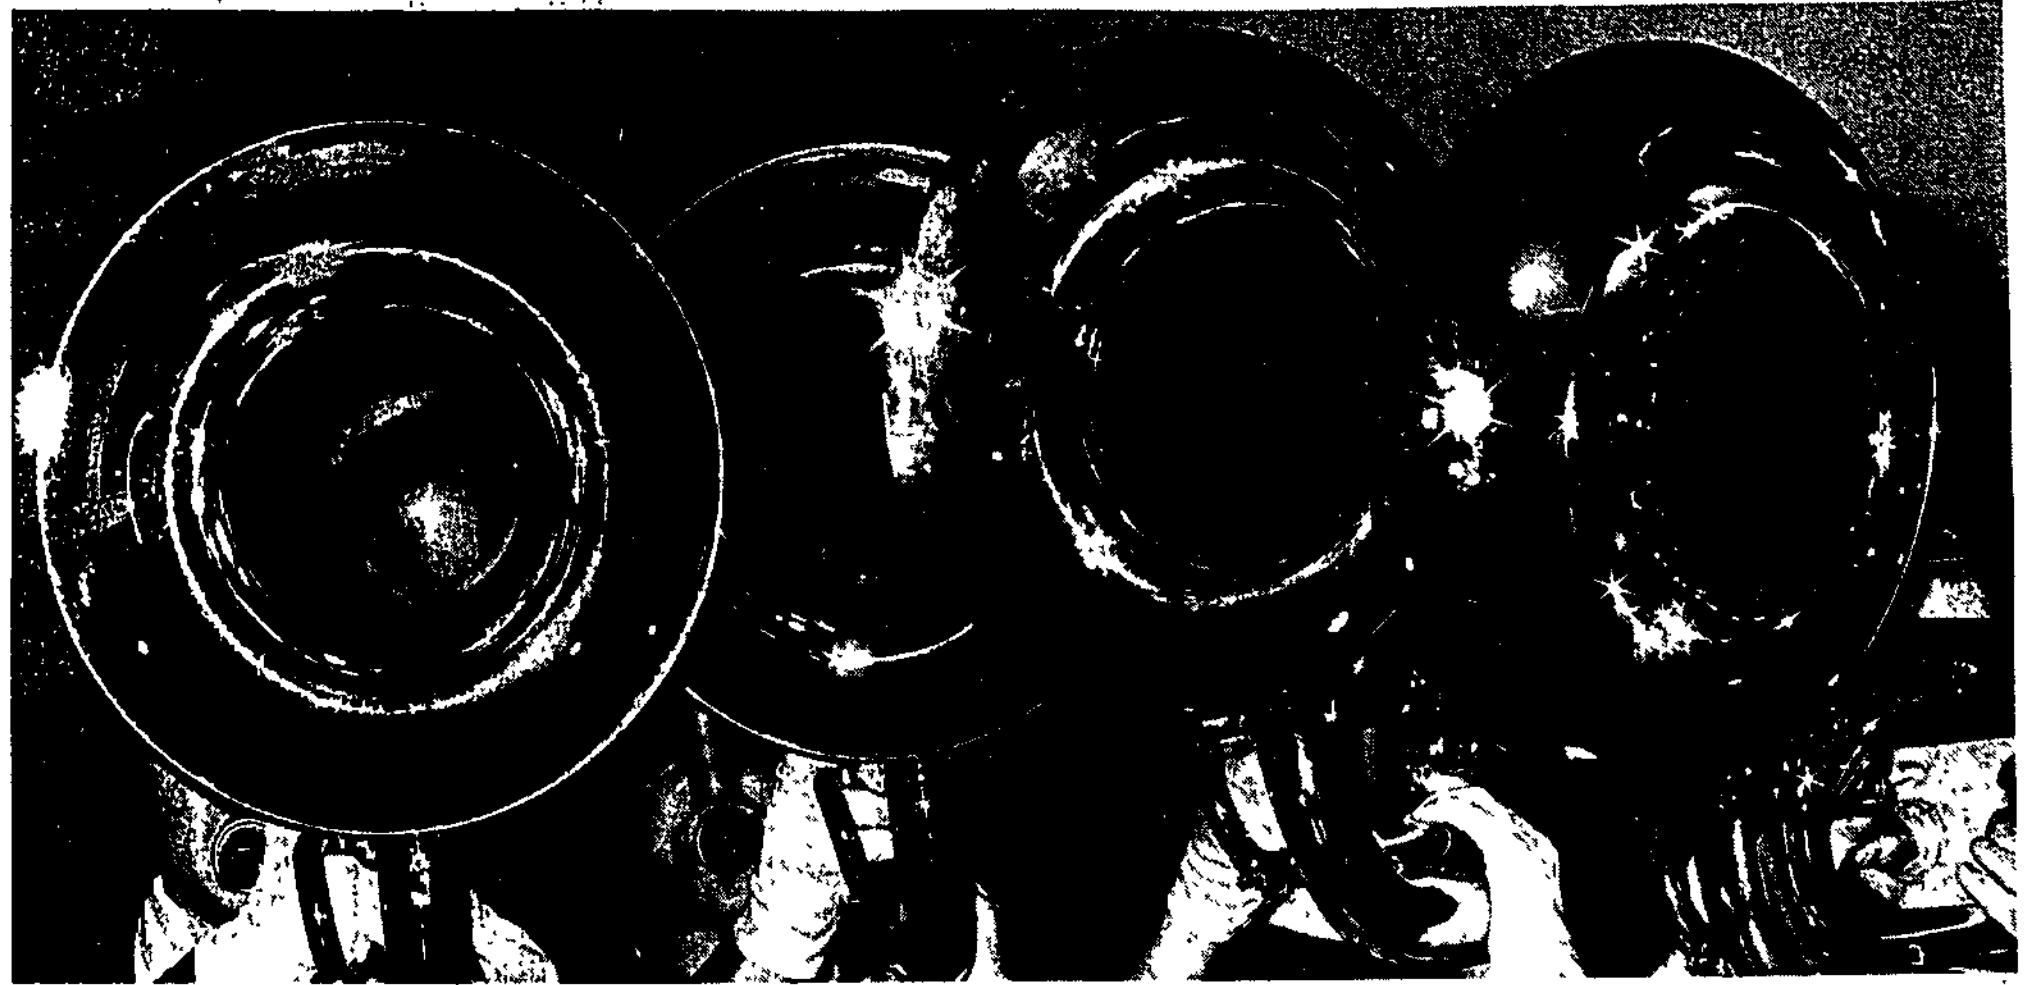

That is, there wasn't much chance until about 10 years ago, when the Guardsman Drum and Bugle Corps was established. Made up of youths from nine junior high and eight high schools in the Northwest suburban area, the Corps was formed in 1961, "to provide a constructive program for the youth of the Northwest suburbs."

Richard Ledig of Des Plaines is manager of the group.

"MUCH HAS been published about the youth of our communities and the concern they have caused their parents and other adults," explains the Guardsman information brochure. "Generally, lack of adequate constructive activity is blamed. We believe the youth that generate such publicity are in the minority. However, all youth need activity and the Drum Corps provides a wholesome, active and broadening program for today's youth who are preparing to become tomorrow's adults."

The incentives the Corps offers to young people are many. Primarily, youngsters need absolutely no musical training to join. "You don't need any musical background at all," explained Rosemarie Thomas, public relations chairman for the corps. Instead, those interested in joining are given a six-week introductory course. They are trained to march first. Learning to play an instrument, which is taught by the Corps, takes a little longer.

Mrs. Thomas' own children joined the Corps after her son, Frank, who was eight at the time, heard about it from a friend. Because the minimum age for joining was nine, Frank had to wait a year before he could join the Cadets, a training unit for the older "A" Corps.

Though Frank had to wait, once Mrs. Thomas heard about the Corps, she decided to talk to her two older children, Denise, 15, and Pam, 13, about joining.

"I KEPT encouraging them because of what it could do for the kids," said Mrs. Thomas. But it wasn't hard to convince the girls of the advantages once they'd started attending meetings.

First among these advantages is that Corps members have an opportunity to travel throughout the United States during the summer — places like Miami Beach, Boston, New Orleans and Colorado, and to compete in drum corps contests and parades. Many times on trips, the Corps management also arranges special side trips. "I've met thousands of people from all over," said Denise. "The Blue Knights in Colorado held a picnic for us on top of Lookout Mountain last summer. And we also went to visit the Naval base in Denver."

Also, there is the opportunity to work with young people of many different ages in a common effort. As Denise explained, "There's no age difference between people. They don't treat you like you're 15. But the older ones look out for the younger ones."

And many friends are made, they remain friends for a long time. "It's not something you join for six months and then go on to something else," said Denise. During holidays, former Corps members come home to visit with friends made in the Corps in prior years. "It gets under your skin," Denise explained. "Now I wouldn't quit for the world."

BUT IT'S NOT only the kids that get involved in the Corps. "All the parents help with whatever talent they have. The fathers drive the buses and the other parents follow them around on weekends and cheer," said Mrs. Thomas. "When you look around and see all the problems of the world and then see your kids, you want to work for the Corps. They learn to get along with all kinds of people, all religions, all races, all creeds. It's a great experience for them, even for their adult life. And for the money it costs, it sure beats bailing the kids out of jail," she said.

The charge for joining the Corps is $5 a month. There is a $50 travel fee for trips in the summer, but this is a small price when you consider that the Corps will make trips to New Orleans, Denver, St. Louis and Toronto to compete in contests this summer.

To raise money, the Corps Parent

Booster Club holds fund-raising activities throughout the year. "We beg, borrow and steal," said Mrs. Thomas. "We have tag days, we sell cookies, Christmas trees and candles. We also have a big banquet once a year to commemorate the whole year before. We also have an ad book."

The Corps also receives prize money from competing in the various contests, but none of this goes to the individual members. "It all goes back to pay for things," said Mrs. Thomas. "It all works in a circle."

Though Corps members have very little time to themselves, they don't seem to mind the long practice hours. "Our whole life is planned around it. It becomes so much a part of your life. The kids don't feel like they've missed anything," said Mrs. Thomas.

Community Chest Hopes To Meet Goal

The Des Plaines Community Chest closed its 23th annual fund drive last week with a prediction by officials that the chest will meet or pass its $33,000 goal this year "with a few additional followups on donations."

At its annual meeting, the Community

Chest also honored John W. Heddens, Jr., 1972 Chest president, who received an outstanding service plaque presented by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel.

Among others honored were Mrs. Louis Wright, one of the Chest founders and Mrs. Edward Coussens, Mrs. Harvey Deering and Mrs. Robert Sebastian, who for several years have volunteered extensive help to the Chest office. Appreciation was also expressed for the help of General Telephone Directory Company, the City of Des Plaines, the Chamber of Commerce, the local newspapers and Mills, Fife & MacDonald, Inc., advertising agency that handled the fund drive donations.

Chest officials announced at the meeting, held Monday at the Elk's Club, that the Chest has collected and allocated $1,476,812 to local service agencies since it was formed in 1949.

The following 1973 officers and new additional directors were also named at the meeting: Artist V. White, President; Milton Cully, 1st Vice President; Miss Ruth Wendt, 2nd Vice President; Joseph J. Sommer, 3rd Vice President; John W. Heddens, Jr., 4th Vice President; Thomas W. Tate, Treasurer; and Mrs. James Safford, Secretary.

New directors are: Mrs. Charles Triphax, Robert Armstrong, Jr., Clifford Boxleitner, Mrs. L. E. Copeland, George F. Olen, Wm. C. Skibbe and G. Rex Wilson.

Correction

In a story last Friday, the Herald incorrectly attributed several statements in support of expanding the city's plastic garbage bag program to Ald. Spencer Chase (3rd).

The comments, which listed reasons for the proposed $600,293 city-wide program, were in fact made by Ald. Daniel Kisslinger (4th), chairman of the city council's sanitation committee.

Chase, who voted two years ago to begin plastic bag test routes in Des Plaines, now opposes the program. In a Dec. 10 letter to 80 residents petitioning to stop the program, he said "I voted for the tests in the belief that the (tests) would be more economical and would save the taxpayers money."

"We're still talking about a saving of only about $55,772 per year. I am now strongly opposed to changing the system on anything other than a voluntary basis. I would vote 'no' to a proposal for more test funds."

MSD Trustee To Speak To Cumberland Group

Joanne Alter, Metropolitan Sanitary District trustee, will speak today to the Cumberland Terrace Civic Club at 8 p.m. in the Cumberland Terrace Lodge, Washington Street and Warrington Road, Des Plaines.

She will discuss Weller Creek, the proposed MSD sewage treatment plant at Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road and area flooding and pollution problems. Aldermen Robert Hinde and Dan Kisslinger also will attend. All interested citizens of the area are welcome. For further information, call 299-5917.

Teachers Told: Quit Smoking, Set Example

Teachers should quit smoking and give up their smoking lounges as an example for students, a doctor told more than 200 teachers at a health education workshop in Park Ridge yesterday.

"You can save more lives than we can," Dr. Harold Levine, physician at Hines Memorial Hospital in Hines, told the educators at Maine South High School in Park Ridge.

"We deal with the burnt-out ashes of cigarette smokers," he said, but teachers can stop smoking among students before it becomes a health problem. Teachers should work together to quit smoking and give up their private smoking facilities if they want to make health education programs effective and turn down student demands for their own smoking facilities, Dr. Levine said.

Dr. Levine, chief of pulmonary disease at Hines, and professor in the medical school of Loyola University, was one of the six guest speakers who talked to health education teachers on smoking, drug abuse, and alcoholism during the day-long workshop.

HIGH SCHOOL health education teachers from throughout the Chicago area attended the workshop sponsored by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and the Chicago Lung Association.

In welcoming teachers to the workshop, Cook County Superintendent of Schools Richard J. Martwick, reaffirmed his statement against student smoking facilities in local high schools. He said schools should do whatever they can to discourage student smoking.

The board of education at Dist. 207 held a public hearing on the smoking issue last week. Student smoking is prohibited at all four Dist. 207 high schools but students smoke illegally in the school washrooms which are difficult for teachers and administrators to supervise. Last summer students asked the board to allow student smoking in a confined area on the school grounds because student smoking in the washrooms was becoming a sanitation problem.

Dr. Levine said he is opposed to smoking for anyone, students and teachers alike, and reminded teachers that they do serve as an adult example for many of their students. Dr. Levine also cautioned school administrators against equating smoking with immorality. "I wish you would look at this as a health and education problem without religious or moral overtones," he said.

IN CONTRAST to many other countries, the life expectancy of the population is not rising in the United States, but has leveled off in recent years, said Dr. Levine. The cause of this leveling off is lung cancer which is caused by smoking, he said.

"Smoking doubles your chance of getting a heart attack," said Dr. Levine, and the student who smokes is twice as likely to have a heart attack by middle age as a student who doesn't smoke. While other forms of cancer are causing fewer deaths due to earlier detection, lung cancer deaths are still increasing and are reaching epidemic proportions, he said. More Americans will die of lung cancer in 1973 than died in Indochina since 1962, said Dr. Levine.

Tom Janeway, director of the Illinois Department of Health Education, told

Adult Ed Program Enters Second Year

The Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult and Continuing Education Program (MONACEP) begins its second year of operation next week. The winter term, offering more than 500 courses, is designed to provide learning opportunities for persons in the Maine and Niles Township areas.

Monday evening classes begin Jan. 29 at Maine West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines; Maine South High, 1111 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge; Niles North High School, 8800 Lawler, Ave., Skokie; and Niles East High School, 7701 Lincoln Ave., Skokie.

Tuesday classes open Jan. 30 at Maine East High School, 2601 W. Dempster St., Park Ridge and at Niles West High School, Oakton Street at Edens, Skokie. Wednesday classes start Jan. 31 at Maine West and Niles North. Thursday classes at Maine East, Maine South, and Niles West begin February 1.

More than 5,000 persons have been registered in the winter program. Additional sections of some of the popular courses have been organized.

Whenever classes are still open for enrollment, registrations will still be accepted up to the opening time of class. With some exceptions, most classes meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., and students should go to the school where the class is to be held at 7:00 p.m. in order to register for classes starting that evening.

The MONACEP district offices, 604-3600 or 966-3830 can supply further information on classes, tuition, and registration procedures.

Katz Expands Proposals For Reforms

Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Glencoe, whose 1st District includes the portion of Wheeling Township north of Palatine Road, will make further proposals for reforms in the legislative process in the Illinois House of Representatives at a press conference in Chicago today.

Katz, the recognized leader of a coalition of 16 "independent" Democrats from the Chicago area, initiated a growing tide of reform agreements when he announced his candidacy for speaker of the House at a press conference in December.

Republican W. Robert Blair of Park Forest, reelected to the speakership, countered with his own list of reforms prior to his reelection. Subsequently, Blair and Rep. Henry J. Hyde, Blair's chief Republican opponent for the speakership, agreed to a handful of proposals which would in effect limit the discretion of the speaker on some procedures.

From the three sources, various reforms have been proposed in 22 specific areas, 18 of them originally brought up by Katz. On only one, however, did all three proposals agree. That item would reduce the number of votes required to override the speaker to 89, a simple majority, from the 95 votes, a quota established by Blair in his first term as speaker.

Blair's proposals coincided with the Katz suggestions on two other points. Those would require committees to hear all witnesses who appear to testify at scheduled hearings on bills, and would require recording of votes of committee members in the House Journal.

On seven other points, Blair proposed reforms similar to those of Katz, at least two of which seemed to be more far-reaching.

Katz has proposed that committees be required to set hearings on bills within 60 days to keep them from being tabled (corresponding to a recommendation of the Commission on Organization of the General Assembly). Blair would reduce that time limit to 45 days.

Katz also suggested that the House "strengthen safeguards" against bypassing committees, foregoing the opportunity for public testimony on legislative proposals. Blair spelled out the proposal that bypassing committee should require a two-thirds vote of the House (107) rather than a simple majority (89).

REP. EUGENIA S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will meet Saturday with her newly-formed Education Advisory Committee to report on education bills to be proposed in the 78th General Assembly. Also to be heard is a report on the State Bilingual Center in Mount Prospect and the services it offers to teachers and children.

The committee is headed by Robert Haskell, principal of Elk Grove High School. It includes Kathy Mleko, Michael Scarpelli and Dr. Donald Strong of Arlington Heights; Gene Artemenko of Des Plaines; James Klein and Mrs. Brenda Pulla of Hanover Park; Mrs. Mary Stenbridge of Mount Prospect; Mrs. Jan Bone and Dr. Richard Koize of Palatine; Joel Meyer of Rolling Meadows; and David Wilson of Schaumburg.

SEN. BRADLEY M. Glass, R-Northfield, has been appointed vice chairman of the Industry and Labor Committee of the Illinois Senate.

The freshman senator, who served one term in the House of Representatives, was appointed by Sen. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, president of the Senate. He served on the Education and Judiciary committees in the House and is co-chairman of the Commission on Urban Education.

Glass said that among the leading issues which will come before the Industry and Labor Committee in the current legislative session will be collective bargaining for public employees.

Elrod Praises King's Work

by BARRY SIGALE

Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod said he has always had high regard for the life and work of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the ideals which he imparted to the black people of the nation.

Elrod characterized Dr. King as a man who "humbly and effectively showed us that social and racial justice can be realized without violence."

The chief law enforcement officer of Cook County, Elrod was one of several speakers Saturday night who gave a personal and historical version of the life and times of Dr. King. The occasion was a dinner at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel sponsored by the suburban division of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

SCLC members, businessmen and students heard Elrod describe Dr. King's role in society as a "cornerstone in the house of peace."

"HONORING THE memory of Dr. King, I believe, will help us reach this goal (of equal rights and equal justice for all) for his words and his achievements are a cornerstone in the house of peace which I hope we can complete," Elrod said.

Elrod, praised by SCLC suburban division president Clyde Brooks for providing the opportunity for blacks to become involved in the top policy-making and decision-making process of the Sheriff's office, continued to pay glowing tribute to Dr. King.

"Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. lived and struggled during a period that will go down in history as a time when man and his society faced their greatest test to determine whether we will continue to be a nation of dual justice or truly a democracy of equal rights and equal opportunity."

"Admittedly, this struggle is far from over. There remain injustices in the land today. But at least we have struggled out of the dark ages of racial oppression and are continuing to move toward an enlightened society."

"YES, THE progress has been too slow. But consider the years and decades when no progress was made at all. Consider the generations of black people who had no little dignity allotted them in a white-dominated and oriented society."

"Future history books will probably warn that our nation was on the brink of a great civil war unparalleled in any society. It would have been a blood bath of black brother against his white neighbor. Some extremists still say this tragic confrontation is imminent. I disagree. I think that Dr. King demonstrated that non-violence is the answer."

"The tremendous understanding and compassion of this man is vividly apparent in his speech of Dec. 11, 1964, in accepting the Nobel Peace Prize. While many of his people urged more violent action in obtaining the long-awaited and long-denied rights due our millions of blacks and oppressed, Dr. King pleaded for a peaceful approach with these words, as appropriate today as eight years ago:

"Non-violence is the answer to the crucial political and moral questions of our time: the need for man to overcome oppression and violence without resorting to oppression and violence. Man must evolve for all human conflict a method which rejects revenge, aggression and retaliation. The foundation of such a method is love."

Many Income Categories Not Taxable

Editor's Note: This is the second of five articles with tips on How to Figure Your 1973 Income Taxes.

Not all income necessarily classifies as taxable income. Many taxpayers, the Commerce Clearing House points out, receive income which is not taxable. Some of these items are:

Accident and health insurance proceeds, unless reimbursing previously deducted medical expenses; annuities, to the extent of investment; bequests and devises; board and lodging at place of employment for the convenience of the employer. For the value of the lodging to be tax-free, the lodging must be accepted as a condition of employment;

Damages recovered for personal injuries or sickness; disability payments, but not for loss of wages; dividends on unmaturing life insurance policies; dividends, up to $100; employee's death benefits, up to $5,000; gifts and inheritances; INTEREST ON bonds of a state, city or other political subdivision, excluding certain municipal bond issues; lessee's improvements, value of, to lessor; life insurance proceeds paid on death of insured; old-age and survivors benefit payments under the Social Security Act or Railroad Retirement Act; scholarships and fellowships, limited where recipient is not a candidate for a degree;

Sick pay, limited to $75 or $100 per week depending upon percentage of regular pay;

Stock dividends or stock rights, unless disproportionate, or in lieu of money, or on preferred stock; tax refunds, state or federal of taxes not previously deducted; unemployment benefits under Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act or state unemployment compensation laws; veteran's disability pensions, and Workmen's Compensation Acts payments.

Expenses, not the length of time, generally determine the "over-one-half support" requirement for a dependent on federal income tax returns.

It has been shown, for instance, that the total cost of a two-week stay in a hospital, including surgeon's fees, may exceed the cost of maintaining a person, especially in advancing years, for the other 50 weeks of the year.

"SUPPORT" includes expenditures for providing food, shelter, clothing, education, medical and dental care, transportation, and similar necessities. If lodging is furnished, the fair rental value amount that can reasonably be expected to be paid by a stranger — of the room, apartment, or other dwelling may be counted toward support. In the case of the cost of food for the entire household, a proportionate share of such expenses that cannot be attributed to a particular individual may be allocated to the dependent.

A dependent who is born or dies during 1972 entitled the taxpayer to the full $750 exemption for the year, provided the taxpayer furnished over one-half the support for the part of the year in which the dependent was alive.

Before you can claim an exemption for a dependent, the dependent must have lived under $750 in gross income in 1972, unless he is the taxpayer's child and either is under 19 years of age or is a student.

IN ADDITION, the taxpayer must have furnished over half the actual amount used for the dependent's support in 1972. However, if more than half the support cost was divided among two or more persons and one contributed more than half the support, one may claim the exemption if he furnished more than 10 per cent of the support and the other 10 per cent or more supporters file a written agreement not to claim the exemption for that year.

Special rules apply to find the dependency exemption for children of divorced or separated parents. The parent who has custody of the child for the greater part of the year will normally be entitled to the dependency exemption.

What Must Taxes Pay For?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Gerard M. Brannon, former director of the Treasury Department's Office of Tax Analysis, is director of the Tax Analysts Division of Tax Analysts and Associates, a public interest law firm which helps promote public understanding of tax policy issues.)

(Second in a Series)
by GERARD M. BRANNON

WASHINGTON — Do we need a tax increase in the next two years? As President Nixon keeps saying, it is a matter of how much government spends.

For fiscal year 1973, (which ends in June, 1973), the President is trying to hold expenditures down to $250 billion. This will mean a federal budget deficit of about $25 billion.

Two serious budget studies, done outside the administration, predict that legislation now on the books will bring federal expenditures to $300 billion in fiscal 1975, two years from now. Our present tax laws, even at full employment, in 1975 were expected to produce about $285 billion, a $15 billion deficit.

Apparently the present large deficit isn't going away. A deficit this year, with unemployment over 8 per cent, is not serious. A deficit at full employment in 1975 is more serious.

WE COULD JUST ignore the deficit, as we did in the early part of the Vietnam war (when we were at full employment). The result of that folly was the inflation that is only now coming under control. People who don't learn from history are condemned to relive it.

President Nixon says the answer to the problem is not to spend so much. A lot of people in Congress would tell you that this answer means cutting into programs of great social value. The fact is that in our system citizens don't have enough information to judge this (The able Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., says the Congress doesn't either.)

the figures for next year. The newspapers carry stories about so many billions of additions or cuts but there is very little news which puts these numbers in perspective.

SINCE OUR TOTAL output, as well as wages and prices, goes up every year, the useful way to look at these unimaginable numbers of billions of dollars is to see them as shares of the total public and private expenditures in the economy; that is, as shares of the Gross National Product (GNP).

The $300 billion forecasts see the defense, space and foreign aid budgets stabilizing at about 7 1/2 per cent of GNP, which is about where it stands this year.

As wages and prices go up even a small defense program can mean rising defense expenditures. The question is, how much increase?

In the cold days of the cold war in the 1950s the defense cost ran 8 to 10 per cent of GNP; in the early 1960s it drifted down to 7 1/2 per cent. During Vietnam it was back to the 9 to 10 per cent. Hopefully, it will fall below 7 1/2 per cent as we throw SALT on the cold war ice, but this will take determined efforts. The pressure for new programs seem unending.

The other expenditures are now about 12 1/2 per cent of GNP, which brings all federal expenditures to about 20 per cent of GNP. The forecasts have this nondefense expenditure rising to about 13 1/2 per cent of GNP which will put the federal total at 21 per cent. (In the first article we said the current tax bill was 31 per cent of GNP. This includes about 11 per cent for state and local taxes.)

The big increases are expected in income security (Social Security and welfare) health, education and revenue sharing. The four areas of social expenditures were only 3 per cent of GNP in 1965 and had gone up to 8 per cent in 1972. They have been going up for a variety of reasons. There have been new programs as well as significant growth of old programs, such as Social Security and welfare. For the next few years big question will be how these programs are pushed.

Don't Overlook Fire Protection

If local government performs no other service for its people, it should provide fire and police protection.

In this day of high mobility and transiency, persons and families move from one community to another, generally secure in the thought they are protected by police and fire departments.

While the degree of that protection may vary greatly, most people assume it exists — especially in such a highly metropolitan, modern area as Cook County, Illinois.

We were surprised and saddened to learn that is not the case — that there are areas and residents of Cook County who cannot rely on fire protection.

That void was noted recently in an unincorporated area of Elk Grove Township, where about 170 families in a mobile home park have, in effect, no one to call should their homes start to burn.

Until recently, the Elk Grove Fire Department had been providing fire protection to the park through an oral agreement with the owner of the park. That person, however, died two years ago, and the new owners have recognized neither the contents nor the existence of the agreement.

Unable to reach a new agreement with the owners for contracting for service, the Elk Grove Fire Department decided to discontinue the protection at midnight, Wednesday, Jan. 3.

The potential impact of that decision was made clear when, less than two and a half hours prior to the deadline, a home in the park was destroyed by fire.

The fire, however, did not change the position of the Elk Grove Fire Department.

Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the department will perform only emergency evacuation services to rescue persons from burning homes, but will not fight the fire nor provide ambulance service.

While that decision may seem almost callous on first glance, we agree fully the village cannot continue, indefinitely, to provide protection without some agreement with the owners. For about two years the village has continued that service despite an apparent absence of concern on the part of the owners.

The taxpayers of Elk Grove Village, certainly, should not be asked to carry the financial burden of protecting the property when the owners have been unwilling to even correspond with the village on the matter.

Their complete absence of concern stands in the way of a simple solution to a potentially catastrophic situation. To provide the service and live up to their moral obligation to the residents of the park, the owners have only to contract with the village for the service.

Those persons endangered by the void are powerless to remedy the situation, however. They cannot force the owners of the park to provide the protection, nor can they contract with the village on their own.

The frustration those residents are experiencing is compounded by the fact they, unlike most residents of unincorporated areas, are not within the protection area of any rural fire protection district.

Two governmental units, we feel, should be concerned intensely with this situation — that of Elk Grove Township and that of Cook County.

With the frequent attacks on the worth of township government in recent years, various township representatives have insisted that level of government is the most accessible and responsive to the people.

If that is true, it is the responsibility of those in Elk Grove Township government to champion the cause for these residents.

Cook County, at the same time, should guarantee all its residents are afforded this very basic service.

It is intolerable to permit such a threat to human life to continue, and we urge the Cook County Board to consider immediately prohibiting any dwelling in the county from being occupied unless at least minimal fire protection is available.

Such a move should be taken now, as a result of sound thinking, instead of later, as a result of human tragedy.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Senior Housing Backed

This is an answer to a letter written by Mr. and Mrs. John Bowers of Mount Prospect on Jan. 10.

I certainly disagree wholeheartedly, that it is ridiculous to build an apartment on the Central School property. I happen to be a senior citizen, age in the seventies, and when the article appeared in the Mount Prospect Herald last fall that our very kind Mayor Teichert was considering building a 13-story building for us, right in the heart of our wonderful city for the convenience of all senior citizens of Mount Prospect, I and many of us thought, at last, someone was considering the needs we require when we reach 65 years and over.

Some folks cannot drive a car or cannot afford one, so if they live in a home or an apartment away from town, they must depend on relatives or friends to help them when shopping is necessary.

If this lovely apartment building is built on this school property, in the heart of this lovely town, then we could walk to all stores, post office and to the church of our choice. And those who are unable to drive a car will always know that we who do drive will be most anxious and willing to help the others to go places of their choice, be it to visit friends away from town or go shopping at various shopping centers.

No doubt you both, Mr. and Mrs. Bowers, are still very young so cannot see how necessary it is to have someone consider the needs of our older folks. Someday you will be old, too, and would appreciate someone to consider your needs and comforts.

The letter you wrote that this central area be given to us is ridiculous; I think you are very inconsiderate, very unkind and extremely narrow-minded. I only hope our kind mayor and the citizens of Mount Prospect see the need of this apartment building built on the Central School Property.

This should have been considered a long time ago, being old is a handicap in itself, without some folks trying to shove us in a corner like an old shoe, showing no consideration of our needs.

There are many old folks who helped build this suburb to make it a wonderful place to raise a family and have the luxuries we did not have, so I plead with our officials and citizens of Mount Prospect to start building this apartment building as soon as possible.

Mrs. A. Erhard
Mount Prospect

SS Premium Blasted; Termed 'Excessive'

To Senator Charles Percy:
I have just received news of the new Social Security Program.

1. I feel that my premium is excessive.
2. Social Security should be set up so that the average individual will at least "break even." At present "break even" would seem to be age 75 or after, whereas mortality tables indicate age 65 is all I can expect.

3. All F.I.C.A. Tax money received goes to the General Fund. Since it is not earmarked for Social Security only, the recent $163.20 per year increase is clearly an increase in the federal income tax. This is an increase I might add to which no deductions apply and which catches virtually all workers.

4. Social Security (Insurance) participation is mandatory. It should be voluntary.

5. Unless action by the Congress reversing the above four problems occurs before you come up for re-election you will not receive my vote.

Paramedics Lauded

We would like to express publicly our praise for the new paramedics who have been incorporated into the local fire departments. These men have had training in emergency coronary care and provide an invaluable service to their communities.

We have a particularly valid reason for being grateful to these men. Early Thursday morning, our father suffered a severe coronary. Within minutes, two paramedics from the Arlington Heights fire department arrived, and when, after they were here, Dad's heart failed, they quickly went to work administering resuscitation methods for which they had been extensively trained. It was because of their quick thinking and skill alone that our father is still alive today.

Words cannot express our gratitude to Mr. Art Christiansen and Mr. Jerry Culligan for carrying out their job so calmly and skillfully. Please accept our thanks and our hope that the entire community becomes aware of the value of the paramedic program in a less critical way than we did.

Cash Donation Hit

Schools, not Hospital, yes! This seems to be the current attitude of the Schaumburg village government with respect to the Dunbar Development.

Mayor Atcher has asked the developers of Dunbar to donate $150,000 to the proposed hospital fund, instead of this donation going to the school district.

It is common knowledge that developers, building within a school district, donate funds to the school district based upon bedroom count. This money aids towards the construction of new schools in the area.

It is also common knowledge this is an expense the developer passes along to the home buyer in the cost of the house. Why should the residents of Dunbar get a free ride?

Their children will need schools. What does the mayor want — double shifts to accommodate these children in existing schools? Possibly bus these children and overcrowd schools in more stable sections of the district? Or maybe add unnecessary expense to our already overburdened taxes to pay for new schools?

There is room in our community to pay for new schools and a hospital. Let the mayor fund the hospital from a separate source.

I challenge Mayor Atcher to explain his actions.

Richard J. Block
Hoffman Estates

Each year my taxes increase. I have noticed from the newspapers that the school district cut their tax rate last year. Now I notice also that Mayor Atcher is trying to take money that would normally go to the schools and use it for something else. It looks to me like this will increase my taxes.

If the schools are decreasing their taxes and my taxes are increasing, am I really being taken care of the way the mayor talks me in? Maybe the mayor should look at the schools to see how to manage his area.

Bernard A. Casale
Schaumburg

It was certainly discouraging to read last week in the Herald that the Schaumburg Zoning Commission may allow the Dunbar Construction Company to donate $150,000 to the controversial proposed hospital Mayor Atcher insists must be located near the intersection of Roselle and Schaumburg Roads rather than direct said builders to make a suitable donation to our school district according to the guidelines set up by the school board. Several sound objections have been raised against that hospital site and much ill-will generated already. Now, to add salt to the wound, the village of Schaumburg would permit money sorely needed to provide education for the children of Dist. 54 to go toward the financing of the hospital.

EDITORIAL: The wheel tax — off the track.

Where's The Tax Man?

The tax man cometh, and the tax man goeth away.

Northwest suburban residents accustomed to the convenience of an Internal Revenue Service office in their midst may have discovered by now that the convenience is gone.

The IRS office on Lee Street in Des Plaines has been evacuated, to be replaced by the Social Security people.

The new suburban IRS office is at 4849 W. Golf Road in Skokie, across from the Old Orchard shopping center in the Kenroy Office Plaza building. It's on the fifth floor, room 500.

We tell you that now, because it is the tax season, and it's a miserable drive for anyone living here, so consider yourselves forewarned. And remember the old maxim: When government does not come to the people, the people go to it.

A 'Nothing' Day Rips Columnist

According to my new Chase's Calendar of Unusual Events, January 16 was National Nothing Day — purpose, "To provide Americans with one day when they can just sit — without celebrating, observing or honoring anything."

On National Nothing Day I was home, sick. Well, maybe not exactly sick — like with Asian flu or the new London flu — just sick. Sick of working, sick of getting up when the alarm said so, sick of hurrying, sick, sick, sick. Probably what I had was Florida flu — everybody I knew flew to Florida right after the first of the year and I was sick of their getting-a-suntan-wish-you-were-here postcards.

So I stayed home from work and tried to honor National Nothing Day.

Only it didn't work.

First of all, I stayed in bed so long that my back hurt worse than the rest of me which ached in places I didn't know I had. When I finally eased out of bed it was too late for brunch and too early for supper, so I invented brupper and that was a mistake. It reminded my stomach to hurt, too.

Then I decided that reading would be a good way to forget my miseries and/or Nothing Day — but there was nothing in the house I hadn't read except the label on the cough drop box. And that didn't take long. Just long enough to make my eye brows ache from squinting to see the fine print which taught me that I was enjoying such active ingredients as dextromethorphan hydrobromide. It also taught me to leave at least one book unread for just such an emergency as this.

So I tried watching television and discovered that daytime television is nothing but serials, quiz shows and old movies left over from last night. It ought to be dedicated to National Nothing Day because it's a bigger nothing than reading a cough drop box.

Radio wasn't much better except the commercials were funnier.

Suddenly the phone rang and it scared me so bad that all my aches jumped up and started bumping into each other. It also caused a blister on my tongue because the call was a sales pitch for carpeting and I lied like a fiend about how we'd just had the whole house carpeted including the ceilings and we didn't need any thank you.

The blister got bigger when the phone rang again and I told an aluminum siding salesman that we'd just had the house silver-plated.

I'd forgotten that, next to the pay check, the best thing about working was avoiding those kinds of phone calls and that Mom was right when she taught me that telling lies makes blisters on your tongue.

The last thing I needed was a tongueful of blisters so when the phone rang a third time I didn't even bother to say hello, just "Whatever you have, I don't want any." It was the boss, wanting to know where I'd hidden something in my filing system and how come I didn't sound sick, only crazy.

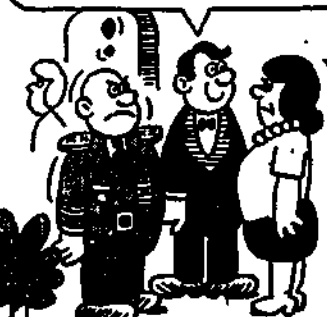

Next year for National Nothing Day I'm going to catch the Florida flu. Or maybe even go to work.

Business Today

by LEE MITGANG
NEW YORK (UPI) — The notice in New York City's subways says, "We're minding everyone's business."

The idea is to spread word about the city's 100 per cent nonprofit Executive Volunteer Corps, operating for the past five years under the Economic Development Administration.

In 1967, Mayor John V. Lindsay decided that anyone with guts enough to start a small business in New York City, or who had businesses that needed help, deserved free, expert advice. He appointed Sidney Kushin, 73, a retired and highly successful manufacturer and retailer of apparel, to form and head a volunteer group of retired and successful businessmen.

Apparently, word has gotten out about the program. Kushin said a Scandinavian Airlines pilot came to his office recently for help. "I asked him where he'd heard about the Volunteer Corp, and he said he'd read about us in a Swedish newspaper. I fell off my seat."

FROM A fairly small beginning, when the corps helped about 1,000 individuals with their business problems, Kushin says his group has lent a hand to 5,000 during 1971, and 6,000 this year.

"We're submerged with inquiries from all over: Miami, Los Angeles, Calcutta, Japan, Taiwan, Nassau, London. They're all interested in starting programs like ours," said Kushin.

"The Philadelphia National Bank just asked us how to start a program for their city. And a few months before, Chicago's Mayor Daley sent us Moe Spiegel of Spiegel Catalog to help plan a project for his city."

A person walking into the Executive Volunteer Corp office may draw on the experience and expertise of men who know business endeavors from engineering and real estate to food chains and cosmetics retailing.

The volunteers, besides being retired, must agree to work at least two days a week without pay. They can give any advice short of recommending specific lawyers or accountants for clients already in trouble.

OFTEN THE advice is of a subtler sort. "You've got to study human nature," Kushin says. "You must size up a person to tell whether he should gamble on a difficult undertaking. We are certainly not bashful about telling someone with no knowledge or experience he should wait a while before starting a business.

"We also meet many older businessmen whose profits have suddenly run dry. Often we tell them to get rid of their old inventories, take their losses gracefully, and live on their stock. What are you going to do with stuff that's rotting on your shelf? Eat it?"

Kushin recalls one particularly gratifying case. A Puerto Rican man who had purchased a store in the upper West Side of New York asked for advice on how to start a Spanish record business. After finding out how much money the man had ($10,000), the corps called various record companies.

"We showed him how to build an inexpensive store, how to keep an inventory record. It's as simple as A-B-C, but people just don't know."

"This fellow became so successful, he wanted to get into mail order retailing. You need a license for that, so we told him where to get it, and all along we helped him, as we help others, to be aware of necessary tax and auditing forms."

"That's what we try to do," Kushin says. "Save people money and shoe leather."

Policy Expected To Change

Branch Banks Near Reality

by LEA TONKIN
Branch banking, the bugaboo that's been systematically sidestepped in Illinois for a number of years, is moving closer to reality.

The powerful Illinois Bankers Association (IBA), which has held out against the branch banking concept, will vote Thursday on proposed branch banking recommendations. The recommendations are included in a report of the IBA Committee on Bank Structure, as approved by the association's Council of Administration.

The policy turnaround, expected to gain approval at the IBA convention in Chicago, is an admission of changes already under way in the industry as well as heavy competition from savings and loan associations. The committee report notes the rapid expansion of the chain or group banking concept in Illinois and a liberalization by the state commissioner of savings and loans, John Lanigan, of policies for state chartered thrift associations.

Approval by the IBA would be followed by introduction of enabling legislation. Banks, including nationally chartered institutions, must go along with the state regulations in this area. State chartered thrift associations follow along the lines of the Illinois Banking Act.

A SURPRISE move by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (FHLBB) last week however, to allow branching applications by federally chartered associations as of Jan. 31, gives an extra boost to the IBA's branching proposals. Heavier competition with the associations for business is expected by the IBA, and the branch concept is a handy tool in this competition for customers.

The suburbs are shaping up as the major battleground for customers through the appeal of branch operations. This is indicated by the move to northwest and west suburban locations by a number of institutions under the recently relaxed policies effected by Lanigan.

But Lanigan is worried that the FHLBB jumped the gun in its branching announcement last week. He'd like to see all thrift institutions and banks doing business in Illinois on equal footing as the branching concept is effected.

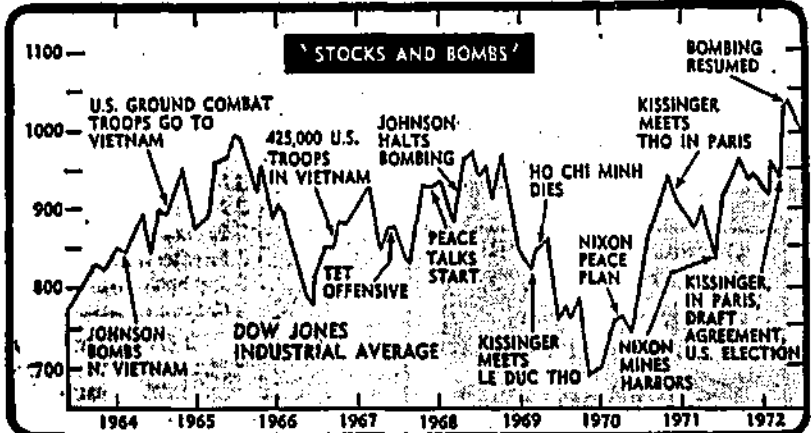

"In the last few months, we have liberalized the facility bill (covering state chartered associations) to allow more branch-type operations," said Lanigan last week. "But the FHLBB action gives the federally chartered associations a distinct advantage over the state chartered institutions." "Right now the only way a state chartered association can do this is by moving to a different location and keeping the old location as a facility. Banks can have a facility, but it has to be within 1500 feet of the main bank."

THE FHLBB PROPOSAL would permit associations one new branch for the first year within 100 miles of their headquarters. Illinois is the only state in which federally chartered associations have not been allowed branch operations.

The FHLBB justified the proposed changes with statistics on the pervasiveness of chain banking in Illinois. As of August, 1972, the agency said, there were at least 29 banking groups in the state controlling 130 banks through interlocking officers and directors. These groups asked for permission to organize another 22 banks. The FHLBB also noted the IBA finding that some 100 banking groups in the state control one-third of all Illinois banks.

Although Lanigan favors the branch banking concept as proposed by the board, he says, "My greatest concern is for the consumer. Whatever comes out on this issue should guarantee the greatest good for the consumer, as in competition and lower mortgage rates, etc." He adds, "The law should be developed over a period of time and should be fair. I'd hate to see the problem of a big association or bank gobbling up all the small institutions in the area. I hope we can have branching and still have competition."

LANIGAN will ask the FHLBB to de-

THE DOGS OF WAR are not exactly bulls on Wall Street. Chart, showing performance of the stock market in 1972 as measured by the Dow Jones Industrial Average, indicates that it is peace and rumors of peace that more often than not boost the market. Latest slide in December, after the market crossed the "magic" 1,000 mark, reflected investors' reaction to new bombing of North Vietnam.

Ask The IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. How can I tell if I'm eligible to use the short form 1040A?

A. Basically, the short form 1040A may be used if all your income was from wages, salaries, tips and not more than $200 in dividends and $200 in interest and you do not plan to itemize deductions.

If you receive the short form in the mail, it was sent to you based on the return you filed last year. If you did not receive a short form 1040A in the mail and want to use it, a copy may be obtained at any Internal Revenue office and most banks and post offices, or you may use the order blank in the form 1040 package to obtain a copy.

Q. Is every taxpayer who is eligible to use the short form 1040A required to do so?

A. No. Use of the short form is optional. If you had sizable expenses for such items as medical and dental care, interest, taxes, contributions, alimony, child care, etc., it may be to your advantage to itemize deductions. This can only be done on Schedule A of your Form 1040 and not on the short form.

A formula for determining whether or not you should itemize deductions is found in your tax form instructions.

Q. I should receive a refund when I file my Federal income tax return. Can I still designate $1 of my tax towards the Presidential Election Campaign Fund?

A. Yes. Every individual (other than a nonresident alien) may participate in the Presidential Election Campaign Fund if he has a tax liability of $1 or more ($2 or more for joint return filers).

In addition, completion of Form 4875 in your tax forms package to designate the check-off will not change any of the figures on your Form 1040 or 1040A.

Q. Have the filing requirements for older taxpayers been changed?

A. Yes. If you are unmarried and 65 or older, you do not have to file a return unless you have a gross income of $2,800 or more. For married persons filing a joint return, the filing requirement is $3,550 if either husband or wife is 65 or older, and $4,300 if both are 65 or older. However, if you are self-employed, you must file a return if you had net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more, regardless of your age.

Q. I'm retired and eligible to receive the retirement income credit. Will the IRS compute it for me?

A. Yes. If you elect to have the IRS compute your tax and you have a retirement income credit, the IRS will also compute this for you. Just follow the directions in your tax form instructions.

Q. How do I go about ordering free IRS tax publications?

A. Just fill in the order blank on the back of your tax forms package, choosing the form or free publication that you want from the list shown, and send it to the IRS office shown on the package.

Q. Are there any limits on how much you can deduct as a charitable contribution?

A. Yes. In general, contributions to most charities, such as churches, educational organizations, hospitals, etc., may be deducted up to 50 per cent of your adjusted gross income. However, contributions to certain private nonoperating foundations, veterans organizations, fraternal societies, and cemetery organizations are limited to 20 per cent of adjusted gross income. The organization itself can tell you which of the two categories it falls into.

There are also certain limitations on contributions of property, such as stock. For details, see IRS Publication 526, "Income Tax Deduction for Contributions," available free from your IRS district office.

Let's Talk Real Estate

GEORGE R.
BUSSE

George L. Busse

Did you know that $1 will support a purchase of $1,000,000 or more? A deed requires a certain consideration from the purchaser in order to be legal. The law calls a "consideration" any sum, large or small. Thus, you can bind yourself to pay for a piece of real estate worth hundreds of thousands with a mere $1 dollar bill. Of course, you have still bound yourself to pay the rest of the bill. To avoid leading authorities: "The slightest consideration is sufficient to support the most onerous obligation."

No matter what price home you are considering, GEORGE L. BUSSE & CO., 12 E. Busse Ave., 259-0200 will give you the same personalized service in meeting your real estate needs. We urge you to call us first with your listing; our membership in MAP, the leading MLS in the great Northwest Suburbs, gives you complete coverage with all of our member offices working to sell your home.

HELPFUL HINT:
The party selling property is known as a deed as the "grantor," and the party purchasing is known as the "grantee."

The Doctor Says

Facts Behind Dry Cereals

by DR. LAWRENCE LAMB

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read your daily column in the Alameda California Times Star and find it very interesting and informative. I would like to request the latest information on the nutritional value of packaged dry cereals.

Dear Reader — Much of the confusion about the nutritional value of dry cereals is based on failure to define terms. There are several different ways that foods can be measured. They can be measured by weight as in ounces or grams, or they can be measured by volume as by the cupful, or they can be measured in terms of calories. The question of nutritional value of dry cereals is directly related to the differences in measurement by weight as opposed to volume.

On the basis of weight there are no important nutritional differences between dry cereals and the basic natural product. For example, 3½ ounces (100 grams) of whole grain wheat contain from 10 to 14 grams of protein.

THE SAME WEIGHT of puffed wheat contains 15 grams of protein. However, by volume it takes a much smaller weight of wheat to fill a cup or bowl than it does with wheat grain.

Literally, the whole wheat grain has been diluted by puffing it, exactly the same as popcorn's volume is increased by popping it. This isn't particularly unusual in foods.

The food elements in meat are diluted by 70 per cent water because that's the way nature produces meat. About 80 per cent of the weight of fish is from water.

Milk also is a diluted food. If you took the water out of a quart of milk, there wouldn't be much volume left. Whether a food is diluted with water or air the effect is the same.

IF YOU WANT to be sure you're getting adequate amounts of nutrition from dried cereals, you want to consider the weight of what you're eating and not the volume. A big sack of puffed wheat may not weigh very much, any more than a large sack of popped popcorn would.

Of course, the nutrients in cooked cereals, such as oatmeal prepared at home, are also diluted by water by the time they are cooked, which tends to decrease their nutritional value per cupful just as air dilutes puffed wheat by the cupful. It takes only a small amount of dry oatmeal or rice to make a cup of cedary oatmeal or rice to make a cup of cereal cooked with water.

As far as the other nutrients are concerned, these change from time to time. The amounts of various mixtures of vitamins that are added to enriched breakfast foods change according to the recommendations of the Food and Drug Administration.

USUALLY, THOUGH, the vitamin replacement is such to make these products approximately comparable to the natural whole grain product, but they can be lacking in some elements of roughage (particularly flour) and possibly some other elements, such as the naturally abundant presence of Vitamin E.

In general, prepared breakfast foods or those you make at home or the whole grain products are all good nutritious foods. They are a valuable source of cereal protein, and these proteins include different amino acids than are found in some other foods. Therefore, a good balanced diet should contain an adequate amount of cereals as part of the daily fare.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First the good news: the federal government has begun drafting safety regulations for tri-cycles. Now the bad news: the new standards alone aren't likely to make much of a reduction in the 100,000 or so "tricycle-related" injuries that occur in this country each year.

It may be true that improved tri-cycling engineering would eliminate what the Bureau of Product Safety describes as "unstable performance . . . within normal operating range."

But anyone who knows anything at all about the problem will tell you the safest design in the world won't greatly curtail the tri-cycling accident rate unless it is combined with a better program of rider education.

In his book "Velocipedes in the Vestibule," Ralph Wobbleforth, the noted authority on three-wheel pedal-powered vehicles, concedes that instability can cause accidents, particularly capsize of the type known as "sunfishing."

A tri-cycling is said to "sunfish" when the front wheel turns abruptly and one of the rear wheels simultaneously levitates, destabilizing the rider.

BUT WOBBLEFORTH points out that in 61.3 per cent of all tri-cycling accidents the riders simply plummet from their mounts without any sort of destabilizing force except the pull of gravity.

"Such accidents are the result of faulty rider education programs," Wobbleforth writes.

"Although neophyte tri-cycling riders generally are adequately coached in pedaling and steering, all too often their trainers omit the most important instruction of all, which is: DON'T FALL OFF."

And that is not the only shortcoming in the typical tri-cycling training program.

Note the reference above to "tricycle-related" injuries. That term means the injuries are sustained by someone who is related to the tri-cycling rider — usually his father.

According to Wobbleforth, these injuries also are a result of poor communication between the trainer and the rider.

The trainer neglects to tell the rider: "And don't run over my foot."

"Next to admonishing the rider not to fall off, the most vital part of the training program is the warning against running over a relative's foot," Wobbleforth says.

With these two basic precautions, even unstable tri-cycles can be safely ridden. But be careful coming down the stairs.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Today's slam is easy to bid. It is almost as easy to find a way to go down at six hearts. All you have to be is a compulsive finesser.

The compulsive finesser leads a club to dummy at trick two and finesesses his jack of trumps. West scores his singleton king and when our finessing friend leads a second trump West shows out and East has a sure trump trick to set the hand.

A more careful player sees that he is in a mighty good contract and that it is up to him to take the safest line of play to bring the slam home.

He sees that he won't make it if West holds four trumps to the king or if either opponent holds all five trumps.

The hand is a clinch against any other trump combination except that if he finesesses and West scores a singleton king it will be all over.

Therefore, our careful player lays down the ace of trumps at trick two. The sun bursts through the clouds; birds sing; everyone is happy except East and

"HOW LONG DOES IT TAKE TO LEARN TO PLAY A MUSICAL INSTRUMENT?"

When we are asked this question we sometimes compare it to, "How high is up?" One of our teachers usually answers with, "Two lifetimes!" when asked, and that certainly is true if we think in terms of absolute mastery of an instrument.

On the other hand, our students can usually play simple melodies in a few months. Outside of music's mathematical precision this is perhaps its greatest charm . . . no matter how competent one becomes there are always more musical depths to explore.

This is why each of our students is required to learn music theory as well as technique. We want them to understand what they are playing while they are playing it, thereby insuring a lifetime of enjoyment from music rather than a temporary lifeless ritual.

Here is a rule of thumb outline of what you can expect a student to achieve with us when the required amount of honest practice time is invested. With additional practice it can be bettered. With less, music may not be a good investment for you at this time.

Our regular monthly progress reports to you will accurately reflect honest practice or the lack of it, so you need never be in doubt when studying with us.

PIANO:

3 Months: Play and read notes within the bass and treble clefs in five finger position. Play and read major, minor and seventh chords. Read off grand staff notes and the twelve major key signatures on flash cards. Know time values of eighth, quarter, half and whole notes and 4/4, 3/4, 2/4 and 6/8 time signatures. Transpose any learned melody to any major key.

6 Months: Learn arpeggios and 1, V, 7, 1 chord progressions in every key. Play and learn 12 major chord accompaniments in block, broken and waltz styles. Transpose the 1, V and IV chords with melodies. Repertoire includes with 1, V7 chord accompaniment.

12 Months: Begin 6 and 7 note melodies and write and play popular songs in both major and minor keys in waltz pattern. Add bass and black chords. Repertoire will include solo and duet melodies in major and minor keys with chord accompaniment of waltz, march and pop styles.

Undefeated Hersey Rules Mid-Suburban League Roost

Bounces Prospect, Glenbard North For 10th Straight

Gymnastics Editor

And then there was one — Hersey — who stood alone after all of the other Mid-Suburban League gymnastics teams had tasted defeat.

The Huskies appear headed toward the top of the dual-meet portion of the season, having already conquered prime-time contenders Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows. The conference meet, though, carries one-half the weight of the entire season and is still very much in doubt. Hersey still has two prominent goals to attain before the dual-meet season has expired. Head coach Don Von Ebers is searching for a score of 140-plus after having peaked for no less than three tallies better than 139.

And he'll probably need a couple of individual efforts of nine-points or more to cement his campaign to dethrone three-time defending state champion Hinsdale Central.

Only the illness of its second and third side horsemen prevented Hersey from surpassing the 139.50 it achieved in bouncing Prospect's 108.95 and Glenard North's 107.93.

Trampolinist Jack McLaughlin spearheaded the twin-win effort with a superb 8.6 on his specialty but was ably supported by Blake Frodin's 8.1 and Steve Schwabe's 8.05 in free ex. Bruce Freedman's 8.35 on side horse, all-arounder Joe Shepherd's 8.45 on horizontal bar and Tom Doczi's 8.1 on still rings.

Prospect's split was principally derived from its strong rings trio of John O'Connor (7.45), Paul Shively (7.2) and Mark Barba (6.65). Al Carlstedt headed the p-bars contingent with a 7.1, Bob McKee paced the tramp team with 6.95, and the high bar threesome with 6.5, Mark Hendershot the floor squad with 6.5 and Steve Schelbel the horsemen with 5.5.

GROVE CHALLENGING

Once-beaten Elk Grove remained in close pursuit of Hersey by hitting 134.59 and toppling Wheeling's 108.19 and Schaumburg's 81.88.

The Grenadiers' lofty production was spiced by horseman Bob Slemianowski's 8.55, Scotty Phillips' 8.6 on horizontal bar, Dave Khoshaba's 8.3 tramp routine, Jack Henry's 8.35 on rings and a 6.88 in all around by Phillips. Teammate Bill Bosslet, only a junior, also worked five events and contributed an 8.0 on high bar on route to a 6.52 average.

Wheeling rode George Olson's 7.8 and Gary Pagano's 7.4 on rings, Bill Harvel's 7.65 on parallel bars, Jimmy Styles' 7.0 on high bar and a 7.4 by Dave Peterson

JUNIOR GEM Bill Bosslet of Elk Grove worked five events to qualify for an all-around score Thursday and averaged a whopping 6.52. Bosslet is a three-time choice on this week's Honor Roll.

Heralded Circuit Captures 4-Of-5 Non-League Tests

The nationally touted Mid-Suburban League proved worthy of its ranking by winning four of five dual meet contests Saturday with outside teams.

The prosperous showing increased the conference's overall mark against non-league foes to an incredible 35-10 reading. Earning triumphs from the local loop were Conant, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, and Prospect while Arlington suffered the lone setback.

The Cardinals ran into a buzzsaw in state contending Evanston, 136.96 to 118.50. Mark Trippel highlighted the Wildcat bonanza with a superb 9.05 in free exercise.

The Cards had moments of glory, too, as their side horse team of John Golbeck (8.6), Geoff Rieder (7.95) and Nick Koehnke (6.9) combined for a robust 23.45.

Other standout performances came from Bob Flubacher (7.5) and Ray Herman (7.3) on tramp, Don Marquis (7.2) in free ex, Gary Glader's 6.45 and 6.5 on p-bars and rings, respectively, and Drew Parlee's 6.45 on the floor.

Conant used the 214 points from its parallel bars trio of Rich Newmann (7.55), Tom Gardner (7.05) and Tim Dorn (6.8) to help shade Glenbard East, 115.82 to 115.25.

All-around Gardner's 8.35 was tops for the Cougars in free ex while John Palacios (7.1) showed the way on rings, Tom Hall's 7.15 on trampoline and Dean Miller's 7.05 on high bar. Gardner added a 6.5 on tramp and Jerry Hawkson a 6.45 on horse.

Palatine had a breeze in whipping DeKalb, 119.18 to 51.81, but the lopsided triumph didn't stop the Pirates from achieving their best score in the school's history.

Palatine started fast with 20.3 on the floor as Bill Snyder hit 6.25, Bob Schergen 6.7 and Bob Gran a 6.35 and finished strong with a 22.85 on rings derived from Dick Alcino's 8.3, Scott Falkanger's 7.75 and Dan Flick's 6.8. Interspersed was the 7.55 by Ken Evensen on p-bars, the 7.3 by Snyder on tramp and the 6.7 by Gran on high bar.

Rolling Meadows hit an impressive 119.00 to overwhelmingly handle Maine North's 29.85. Meadows' total is worth noting since it accomplished the trick without the services of Mike Godawa — one of the top three all-around performers in the state.

Picking up the slack were Blaine Dahl's 8.35 on horse, Al Sabatka's 7.85 on tramp, Bill Brandstatt's 7.5 on rings, Dave Sundboom's 7.6 on high bar and Jim Locito's 7.0 on trampoline. Steve Gallis averaged 5.35 in Godawa's absence and coach Vic Avigliano brought up a couple of freshmen and sophomores for the competition.

Prospect fought incongruent scoring by the judges for a 106.51 to 100.38 win over Mundelein. Paul Shively's 6.85, John O'Connor's 6.75 and Mark Barba's 6.1 highlighted a 20-point effort on rings.

Al Carlstedt peaked with a 7.75 on parallel bars, Bob McKee notched a 7.15 on tramp and 6.8 on high bar, Steve Schelbel a 6.65 on side horse and frosh Doug Zahour a 7.8 in free exercise.

Little-Big Men At Hersey

Hersey's freshman-sophomore gymnastics team would do well at the varsity level of another conference. The "little" Huskies peaked to a new school record of 96.62 Thursday in a double-dual meet with Prospect and Glenbard North. It could be that Hersey is building a dynasty for years to come.

Local Grads Sparkle

Southern Throttles Iowa

Much to the delight of the many high school gymnastics teams on hand, Southern Illinois University tipped Iowa, 181.05 to 157.15 in a collegiate dual meet Saturday evening at Addison Trail High School.

Southern, a magnet for the top gymnastics graduates in this area, is the National Collegiate Athletic Association's defending champion and it was easy to see why.

Gary Morava, Hersey's all-around state champ in 1971, composed a masterful exhibition of versatility in hitting 9.3 in floor exercise, 8.6 on pommel horse, 9.35 on high bar, 9.3 in vaulting, 8.65 on rings and 7.65 on parallel bars for an astounding total of 62.85 points and an incredible 8.91 average.

Hersey's Jeff Farris, second in the state in 1972 in all-around, notched 8.55 on the floor, 7.25 on horse, 8.65 on horizontal bar, 8.45 vaulting, 8.55 on parallel bars and 8.25 on rings for a dazzling 8.21 average for six events of work.

Ed Hembs, still another Hersey product, specialized in side horse and mastered by the preps following the meet. They came loaded with questions and unbelieving eyes and had both requests fulfilled.

(Editor's Note — This is the third in an 11-part series featuring the coaches who have made the Mid-Suburban League what many consider the most fertile high school gymnastics territory in the nation. The coaches will appear alphabetically according to the schools they represent.)

Elk Grove head gymnastics coach Fred Gaines compares his specialty to any other in the high school athletic program.

"It's like any other sport," Gaines said. "You get out of it exactly what you put into it. No more, no less."

Gaines, in his 11th season at the controls of a team of strongmen (six at Elk Grove and four as an assistant at Prospect), acknowledges the individual aspect of gymnastics when he says, "I think it requires more disciplinary work and more time than any other sport. You don't carry anything over from say football or cross country. Gymnasts are kind of singular in that respect."

Like most other coaches, Gaines enjoyed success in the sport during his collegiate days. After prepping at Dupo, Fred became a gymnastics addict at Eastern Illinois University where he was a standout side horse and horizontal bar specialist.

He captained the EIU squad his final two years and captured both events as a senior in the Western Invitational where he scored to a nine-plus on high bar.

Married and the father of a 13-year-old daughter, Gaines can be proud of three exponents from his Elk Grove gymnastics teams that are now making their marks in the college ranks.

Prospect Lands State Meet

Prospect High School is breaking tradition but gaining another state gymnastics meet.

The Knights' spacious fieldhouse will be the site of the 1973 IHSA State Championships, according to Meet Director George Gattas.

Prospect hosted the spectacular event last year in upholding a pattern that has found the season-ending climax at Prospect in alternating years since 1964.

Gattas, in his 11th year in the Knights' organization, was ecstatic about bringing the event to the backyard of the dominant Mid-Suburban League.

"This will be my fifth meet," Prospect's Athletic Director beamed. "Willowbrook High School was originally chosen as the site of this year's meet, but they were unable to host it and we were lucky enough to get it again."

Three-time defending state champion Hinsdale Central walked off with honors again last year at Prospect, but the Mid-Suburban was represented by Arlington's second-place finish, Hersey's ninth, Elk Grove's 14th, Wheeling's 17th, Prospect's 20th, Conant's 22nd, Schaumburg's 32nd, Palatine's 35th, Fremd's 37th and Rolling Meadows' 38th.

The state meet is scheduled for March 16-17 following eliminating district and sectional competition.

Harper Gals Stay Unbeaten After Triangular Decision

The Harper Junior College Women's Gymnastics Team ran its two-year unbeaten streak to five straight Friday after conquering Waubonsee and Kishwaukee in a conference triangular.

The gals under head coach Martha Lynn Bolt have yet to lose in either dual or triangular competition and left little doubt of their overall potential this season by hitting a booming 79.95.

Waubonsee and Kishwaukee fought it out for the distant runnerup slot with Waubonsee earning the nod, 67.45 to 67.35. But the challengers couldn't touch the talented girls from Harper who swept the blue ribbon in three of the four events.

Kris Fredrickson earned the winner's top score when she mastered the uneven parallel bars to the tune of a splendid 7.65. Margaret Newmann added third-place support with a 7.15 while Martha Seltz hit 7.4, Pat Klewitz 6.9 and Lynn Pearson 6.85.

Lynn literally vaulted to the top of the vaulting competition with a 7.35 and highlighted a Harper event sweep when Pat Parnow contributed a 6.65 for second and Kris a 6.6 for third. Margaret added a 5.7 and Martha a 5.5 in the demanding test.

Martha displayed winning form on the balance beam in gaining honors with a 6.85 while teammate Pat Parnow finished third with a 6.45. Judy Kelly notched a 5.75, Lynn a 5.35 and Karen Anderson a 4.85.

In the only competition that failed to net Harper a gold medal, Kris was third in floor exercise with a 6.3, Martha achieved a 6.1, Kathy Oakley a 6.0, Pat McCurdy a 4.7 and Margaret a 4.65.

Martha was easily the meet's top all-around performer as she accumulated 26.5 points for a fine 5.3 average for four events of work.

On the next step up the ladder — the Intermediate Level — Harper's Sue Chips gained greater state-meet acclaim by fashioning a nifty 7.8 on uneven parallel bars, a 6.35 in floor exercise, a 6.2 on balance beam and a 5.1 in vaulting.

"We were much more poised during this meet," said Miss Bolt after watching her undefeated Harper contingent in only its second outing of the season. "I'm very proud of what the girls have accomplished so far and there is still a long way to go."

Harper's next scheduled meet is at DuPage on Feb. 2.

Larry Everhart

It's time for a few random observations on the general sports scene...

A post-Super Bowl story appeared around the country earlier this week that Miami Dolphins running back Jim Kilik wants to be traded. He feels he didn't get enough playing time this season. Or does he just feel he wasn't in the spotlight enough?

My first thought on this story was: Who does Jim Kilik think he is — Jim Brown or Gale Sayers? Sure, he's a good running back who would be starting for most teams and starting for many, including the Bears. And true, he didn't see as much action this past season as his teammate running backs, Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris. But why should he? Csonka is bigger, a better power runner, and Morris is faster, better outside and a more dangerous break-away threat.

And how can you second-guess using those two when the team went 17-0 from the beginning of the regular season?

I could agree with Kilik that he should be traded if he'd really been a benchwarmer, hardly ever getting into a game. But this wasn't the case at all. He played enough to gain over 500 yards before the playoffs, more than many No. 1 backs on other teams. He scored a touchdown in the Super Bowl and had nearly as many carries in that game as the other two.

Don Shula is right when he says the Dolphins have three starting running backs. You always need a third in case of injury.

All we can conclude is that Kilik is more concerned about his own personal glory than that of the team. Why else would he complain when the team was undefeated? And how could anyone possibly gripe after receiving a $15,000 bonus (which each Dolphin got for winning the title).

This play-me-or-trade-me story just gives one more of many examples of how self-centered many professional athletes are in this age. You don't see nearly as much of this on the college and high school level because money isn't involved, and that's why it's a pleasure to write about sports on the amateur level — not about the prima donnas. It's not necessarily more fun to cover the big time, as many people seem to assume.

On the game general point but on a much more positive side, it was a delight to see two separate examples recently of men putting pride, winning and the good of their teams ahead of personal acclaim and money.

On two successive days earlier this month, two highly-successful men were offered million-dollar packages to quit one job and accept another. One was Penn State football coach Joe Paterno, offered the million by the New England Patriots, and the other White Sox Player Personnel Director Roland Hemond (named baseball's Executive of the Year) who had the same sum dangled in front of him if he agreed to be the Baltimore Orioles' General Manager.

Both refused because they are loyal to their current employers and because they want to continue a job they have started so well even though it means less money. I have a feeling that Hemond will not leave Chicago until the organization reaches the ultimate — a world championship. This is extremely comforting to Sox fans — and therefore great public relations — because Hemond has been largely responsible for the sudden rise of the Sox with his astute trading.

Thanks, Roland and Joe, for assuring us that money is not yet the only thing that counts in sports — although it has become all too big a part of them. Now if guys like Bobby Hull, Derek Sanderson and Rick Barry would just get the message...

On a different note... why can't this exasperating Midwest weather ever do what we want it to?

If you're in the majority and hate the cold and snow of a typical Midwest winter, you might not understand. After all, it's been like spring lately. Cars have been starting more easily and we haven't had to risk frostbite in the last week just walking down the street.

But if skiing is your bag, you know what I mean.

I have become an avid enthusiast of this sport this winter more than ever, and I had such great plans for this week — the anticipation of which have been carrying me through many months of lousy weather. The wife and I were going to spend a few days of vacation time we saved from last summer to ski at Devil's Head near Baraboo, Wis. this week.

It's a delightful resort, probably the best skiing spot within a three-hour drive of this area, with nearly a 500-foot vertical drop and slopes as long as 4400 feet — much more appealing than you'll find anywhere in Illinois or southern Wisconsin.

But to ski, you need this essential item called snow. And to get snow — even to make it, which Midwest ski areas do — you need this other essential item called freezing temperatures.

So, the one time this winter when I was praying for winter weather, it's 50 degrees and raining. Sometimes you just can't win.

on side horse to its solid 100-plus output.

Schaumburg combined Jim Buckley's team-leading 6.45 and Rich Ninow's 5.45 in free ex with Asie Klemma's 5.7 on bar and 5.4 on parallel bars, Mike Indovina's 5.5 on rings and 5.25 on p-bars, but still miss all-around ace Manny Pendola who is sidelined with a broken arm.

MUSTANGS MISS BUT WIN

Rolling Meadows was far from top form Thursday night, but still parlayed its 118.05 to a double verdict over Palatine's 105.00 and Forest View's 102.68.

The Mustangs were still bolstered by superb individual efforts including Blaine Dahl's 8.35 on side horse, and 8.15 rings and 8.1 parallel bars routines by standout Mike Godawa who again exceeded the seven-point barrier (7.35) for five events of work.

Palatine earned its split with a strong finish in still rings that included Dick Alcina's 7.35, Scott Falkanger's 6.6 and Dan Flick's 6.4 Bob Gran added a 6.8 on the floor and a 5.8 on high bar while Bill Snyder hit 6.05 on tramp and Ken Evensen a 6.15 on parallel bars.

Forest View achieved an event-high 19.19 in opening floor exercise competition with Don Lanham notching a 6.8, Steve Rohn a 6.55 and Chet Szostek a 5.75. Kevin Harvey was tops on horse with a 6.15, all-arounder Lanham on high bar (6.35), parallel bars (6.1) and rings (7.1) and Szostek with a repeat effort on trampoline (5.55).

COUGARS IN TENSE TRIUMPH

Conant and Arlington waged the closest competition of the evening with the Cougars earning a double victory off a 118.71 to Arlington's 118.30 and Fremd's 101.85.

Conant made every fraction count as Tom Gardner soared to an 8.35 on free ex, John Palacios a 7.5 on rings, Keith Gamble a 7.0 on parallel bars, Tom Hall a 7.25 on tramp, Dean Miller a 6.55 on high bar and Jerry Hawkinson a 6.75 pace-setter on side horse.

Arlington's first loss of the conference campaign was hard to swallow especially after efforts like John Golbeck (8.65), Geoff Rieder (8.6) and Chris Freas (7.05) on side horse, Ray Herman's 7.15 and Bob Flubacher's 7.05 on tramp, Don Marquis' 6.95 in free ex, and Gary Glader's 6.85 on rings and 6.1 on parallel bars.

Fremd was in the heat of the battle most of the way, too as Don Knigge hit 7.6 on rings, Dale Burrow 7.25 in floor ex, Mike Baldocchi 7.1 on p-bars and Glen Stanford's 6.3 on trampoline. The Vikes' top event was parallel bars where Jay Benson's 6.5 and Butch Graf's 6.25 complemented Baldocchi's routine.

BUTCH GRAF of Fremd adds a difficult "L" during a cross on his still rings routine and it helped the talented Viking earn a 5.8 against Conant and Arlington.

Tech-Syn Captures Paddock Men's Crown

What does it take to win the Paddock bowling tournament?

Four over average and one right about on target.

That was the 1973 story Sunday as Tech-Syn Corp. wrapped up the coveted first prize in the men's meet at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights.

Four of the five Tech-Syn bowlers were over average as the representative of St. Raymond's League from Striking Lanes stroked out a 2584 actual and 3100 with handicap.

That handsome 3100 total was good for a comfortable 61-pin margin over runnerup Twin Grove Service.

vice of the Buffalo Grove Recreation League from Striker Lanes.

Rolling in the 2:55 p.m. squad Sunday at Beverly, Tech-Syn marched through three steady games of 847, 852, and 885. Individually, the big contributor was Bob Mathews, a 136-average bowler who picked the right time to unload a big series.

Mathews opened with a 199 and then knocked out a 169 and 183 for a 551 series, 143 pins over average.

Teammate Greg Smoron also enjoyed a sharp over-average performance with a 584 (71 over) and he hit games of 181, 199, 204. Smoron came in with a 171 average.

Tom Nitch (139 average) was 33 over with his 450 and Bob Wlodarski (174) was five over with his 527. Rick Ulbrich was just about on target with his 472 series.

The new Paddock champs bowl on Tuesdays at Striking Lanes, and Wlodarski also rolled on the league entry in the 1972 tournament. The winner will take home $234.91 in prize money, team trophy and individual trophies.

Tech-Syn needed a strong effort because there were some definite threats down the line. Twin-Grove Service, which bagged runnerup honors, also rolled in the 2:55 squad Sunday and finished with a 3039 with handicap.

Bill Smith was the pace-setter for the Buffalo Grove entry with a 570 that featured a 223 finish. Bill took a 159 average into the tourney.

John McDonald (162 average) followed with 565 and Bob Quid had a 553. McDonald opened at 214 and Quid closed at 209.

Rounding out the runnerup effort were a 488 by Joe Leo and 467 by Ron Gozdecki. They cashed for $117.46.

Schipski of the Wednesday Night Men's Handicap at Hoffman finished third with 3036. D. Niggeman was high with a 554. Schipski cashed for $117.46.

Rounding out the top 10 teams were Jake's Pizza ($90.35), Two-W's Blacktop ($72.28), Coskey Construction ($63.25), Tioga VFW ($54.21), Missouri Envelope ($45.17), Action Plating ($31.62) and Sander's Decorating ($31.62).

High game out of the money went to the Burkitt's Boozers with 966.

All results in the men's tournament are unofficial, pending verification of averages, and prize money will not be distributed for about 10 days.

Although there were 87 teams in competition, only three 600 series were rolled over the weekend.

The individual leader on a scratch basis was Barry Stjernberg of Des Plaines Ace Hardware, the Paddock Classic entry. He boomed out a big 678 with games of 247, 226, 205.

B. Ritch of the Elk Grove Bowl Snack Shop League had a 618 with steady games of 203-202-213, and R. Mazzula of Crawford's Shoe from the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center League had a 610, closing at 266.

The men have had their turn now, and the women and mixed leagues roll into action this weekend, Jan. 27-28, at Thunderbird Lanes in Mount Prospect.

PRESSING Arlington guard Bob Bunn is Jim Brown of Conant with Dick Southworth at right. Both teams played tight defense all night, showing why they are the stingiest units in the Mid-Suburban League, as Arlington won 53-47. The Cards stayed unbeaten in the North Division with a two-game lead on the strength of their fine outside shooting.

Fun-And-Shoot Cubs Keep 'Em Laughing

(Ed. Note: Don Friske, a student at Rolling Meadows High School, covered the recent visit by the Chicago Cubs for an exhibition game with the Mustang faculty. These are his observations.)

by DON FRISKE

The Harlem Globe Trotters are a group of men, basketball players, who have delighted the heart of many a fan with their unusual antics on the court.

It takes two basic qualities to be a part of this team, basketball skill and showmanship.

Ferguson Jenkins, ace pitcher for the Chicago Cubs and ex-Globetrotter, has both these qualities.

Jenkins, with some of his Cub teammates, visited Rolling Meadows High School to defeat the Meadows' faculty, 85-63, on the basketball court.

"We usually play about twice a week to keep in shape and visit with some of the guys," stated Billy Williams. "We try to win, but most of the guys just play for fun."

The Cubs, who led throughout, play about 20 games in the off-season against faculty teams around the Chicagoland area. They are now in their third year of this activity and even though most of the players stay in the Chicago area during the off-season, there are some exceptions.

"I travel back and forth to Canada," stated Jenkins, "and I'll be going back this weekend."

Paul Popovich provided most of the Cubs offense with 18 points and after that it was pretty well balanced. Rick Monday put away nine with four others scoring eight apiece.

Mike Nisen of the Meadows faculty led the scoring with 28 points. Mike Frase scored 10 for Meadows but he ended the game with 12 as he took a pass from a Cub and put it through the Cubs' basket. Jenkins' antics didn't really start until the second half. In the jump at the beginning of the third quarter, Jenkins fell into the hands of Monday. When he got up, he produced a deodorant can for the faculty's center. The official needed some too, so Fergie obliged.

At 6:33 in the third quarter, Fergie committed a foul and a faculty member went to the line for two shots. First the left sock came down, then the right and, after the first shot had been missed, Fergie dropped the shooter's gym shorts. The near-capacity crowd went wild when it was revealed that the free-throw shooter was wearing pink bikini panties under his shorts.

"We're out there to score but we also get in a little fun with some skills," said Fergie.

Fergie went out to the ref with a handful of shaving cream and proceeded to wipe it all over the official's pants. These refs travel with the Cubs basketball group so they know what to be prepared for.

Fergie then went into the stands to get two other people with his shaving cream, one being the brother of Larry Everhart, Paddock sportswriter.

Fergie also announced the game for awhile, played catch with the fans, and played "strip basketball" with a youngster from the stands.

"We have fun when we play," explained Glenn Beckert. "We also try to keep in shape and keep our weight down."

"I'd say we go about 75 per cent when we play these basketball games," commented Williams. "This is not our game. It's just something for us to do during the off-season."

"We don't play by any set offense. We usually just play fun-and-shoot basketball," stated Jack Aker.

The Cubs only have a couple of games left before they prepare for spring training. They play baseball pretty good, too.

Top Woman Pros To Play At Arlington

Preliminary matches in the Virginia Slims of Chicago women's tennis circuit will be played March 5, 6, and 7 at Arlington Indoor Tennis Club, 1350 North west Highway, Palatine.

Quarter finals, semi-finals, and finals are scheduled for the Lake Shore Racquet Club, 1320 W. Fullerton, Chicago, beginning the night of March 7 at 7:30 p.m. and continuing through March 11. The purse is $25,000, with $8,000 for the winner.

Billie Jean King, Margaret Court, Rosemary Casals, Nancy Gunter, Francoise Durr, Bonnie Logan, Kerry Melville, Wendy Overton — all are signed with the Virginia Slims women's tennis circuit, as are most other top women tennis players. The tournament opened in San Francisco Jan. 15, and will continue through 13 cities with $415,000 in total prize money.

Qualifying matches at Arlington are at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Matches at Lake Shore are at 11:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday, and 7:30 p.m. In the evenings Wednesday through Sunday. Ticket information available at 929-8920. Prices range from $1.00 and $2.50 for youths to $6.50 for the finals Sunday night.

Officials are: Jack Miller, tournament director; Helen Shockley, referee; Jackie Jones, assistant referee; and Patti Ingersoll, committee chairman, umpires.

Rough Weekend For Area Gym Teams; Four Setbacks

by MIKE KLEIN

It was a complete shutout. Going the wrong way.

That's all that can be said about week-end gymnastics problems experienced by the Des Plaines area Maines.

Glenbrook North, scoring 96 points each time, handled East on Friday night and West the following afternoon.

Maine North lost in conference action to Niles North on Friday evening. The Norsemen dropped a non-conference meet Saturday to Rolling Meadows.

Maine West, losing 96-31 to 80-57 to Glenbrook, dropped its ninth dual meet and hasn't won yet this season. East, a 96 to 84.9 loser, now has a 2-8 record.

Sid Drain's Warriors pulled out to a 28.7 to 22.2 lead after two events against Glenbrook. That came from a 14.8 in free exercise and 13.96 on side horse.

Mark Schudt gave West a 5.8 in free exercise. Ken Heller had 5.65 and Ken Henderson 3.35. West's side horse total came from Bill Lump 7.15, Steve Nyberg 2.6 and Bob Farrell 2.93.

But Glenbrook's Spartans, led by Robins' 7.4 in horizontal bar, led that event 17.8-12.8 and began overtaking West.

They didn't lose another event, winning trampoline by five points, parallel bar by eight and still rings by four.

West's horizontal bar scorers were Steve Taylor 5.2, Phil DaPrato 3.9 and Farrell 3.75. On trampoline, it was Heller 4.45, Schudt 4.4 and Henderson 3.85.

DaPrato topped West's parallel bar team with a 4.5. Heller scored 3.4 and John Aniol 2.0. DaPrato also led on rings (3.6), followed by Heller (3.95) and Taylor (3.0).

East also started quickly against Glen-brook North, piling up a fine 19.05 score in free exercise. The Demons were led by Steve Slaw's 7.0. Bill Yedor (6.6) and John Jurica (5.45) followed.

Specialist Steve Stein (7.7) paced East's 14.45 effort on side horse. Newcomer John Giovenco recorded a 4.3, followed by Jurica's 2.45.

Trailing 33.5 to 21.6, Glenbrook began making its big move in horizontal bar where East had to compete without Joe Darby, ailing from flu.

Consistently near five points in that event, Darby was replaced by Mark Russ who came up with a 2.1. Dan Dahl in scored 4.4 and Jurica 2.15 as the Demons tallied only 8.65 in horizontal bar.

Glenbrook's just average score of 15.5 gave it a substantial gain in the comeback. The Spartans went ahead for good by outpointing East, 18.1 to 10.8, in the fourth event, trampoline.

Scorers for East were Jurica 4.2, Yedor 3.53 and Dahl 3.05. Glenbrook had two six-point scorers, Behrens 6.6 and Bechtold 6.0, plus Shaheen's 5.5.

A 7.3 by Pomerantz in parallel bar helped the winning Spartans to a 17.10 event total. East accumulated 12.35 points behind Russ 5.05, Jurica 4.10 and Scott Miller 3.2.

Glenbrook also won still rings competition, 16.7 to 14.6. East's Jurica got the high score in that event, a 6.85, that was closely followed by Dahl's 6.35. Russ, substituting for Darby again, scored 1.4.

Maine North didn't enter two events and failed to put together full lineups in the other four while losing to Niles North and Rolling Meadows.

The Norsemen had no entrants either meet in horizontal bar or trampoline.

Joel Lechner was coach Art Wildner's only free exercise entrant. He scored 5.75 against Niles and 5.10 versus Rolling Meadows.

The Norsemen had Bob Rodriguez (2.95 and 2.9) plus Jim Andrews (3.55 and 3.8) in side horse. Parallel bar entrants were Gary Conrad (2.55 and 3.25) plus Brad Stridde (4.5 and 5.4).

Andrews (2.8 and 3.55) plus Roger Scarola (5.6 and 5.85) were North's entrants both meets in still rings.

In upcoming meets, Maine East will host North at 7 p.m. Friday. Saturday, West travels to Niles West and East will be at Deerfield. Both meets are set for 1:30 p.m.

Norsemen Drop Road Tilt, 66-55

GURNEE — Maine North High School of Des Plaines almost won its first varsity basketball game of the season but was outlasted, 66-55, by Warren Township here Saturday night in a non-conference game.

The visiting Norsemen recorded their tenth loss this year and 15th straight since defeating Warren last season. That triumph, 64-60, has been Maine's only varsity basketball victory in two years of competition.

Here Saturday night, Maine North trailed by three points, 58-55, with six minutes remaining before, "We just reached a cold streak shooting wise," according to coach Jerry Nelson.

The visitors' offensive attack was paced by guard Mickey Drewes, 20 points. Sophomore forward George Kaufman scored 19 points.

"It was by far his best game ever," Nelson said of Drewes' effort. "I can't recall him ever scoring 20 points in any game over three years."

"Kaufman had a nice game too. He has good moves inside and is going to be a nice ballplayer."

Drewes fashioned his best effort ever on 10 field goals and no free throws. Before this game, he had scored only 13 field goals all season.

The visitors were hampered extremely when starting center Derrick Brown and forward Willie Vall failed to score. Reserve center Mike Wilson had just two points.

Vall, usually Maine's leading point-maker with a 10.5 pace, did secure 12 rebounds, high for the Norsemen.

"Vall rebounded as effectively for us as in previous games," Nelson said. "But he, Brown and Wilson didn't give us the needed punch inside."

Holding off Maine meant Warren avoided its tenth defeat of the season. Warren has won six games.

Maine North returns to conference play Friday night by hosting Glenbrook South, co-holder with the Norsemen of the Central Suburban League cellar.

'Y' Handball Finals Open

After 14 weeks of tough handball competition in the Chicago-area YMCA Metro 'B' Handball League, not one, but two Northwest Suburban Y teams have won their way to the championship finals.

Both teams now eagerly await the showdown championship match Tuesday, Jan. 23 at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy. in Des Plaines. The first match is scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m.

Captained by Marv Heifner and led by their number one singles player, Graham Waltz, the north team first captured their section title, and then won play-off matches with West Suburban YMCA of LaGrange and 111th Street YMCA of Chicago. Graham was capably teamed with the newly formed doubles pair, Jon Keasling and Dick Fitzgerald.

Rounding out the starting five were Frank Hausen and Bob Peters. This was a team effort, though, and throughout the season important league wins were also scored by the other team members, Dick Cashmore, Roy DeMeyer, Don Magnuson, Ed McMahon and Bill Smithburg.

The Central section team captained by Bob Decker finished a very close second to title winner 111th Street Y in the regular season. They convincingly demonstrated their readiness for playoff competition by soundly defeating the section winners on the final night of regular league play, winning all but one of the four matches.

In handball play, the doubles team is the key to most victories and certainly none were tougher than the one fielded by Northwest's Central representative. Throughout the regular season and into the playoffs, Bob Decker and Mark Schaffner consistently won the "big" ones. Mark's left court shooting was the perfect partner for Bob's steady right court play. Add to this, strong singles support from Jay Bulaw, John Courtney, and Marv DeFauw. They, like their North section counterparts, had capable support throughout the season from teammates Harry Brown, Tom Ersham, Dan Finn, Ken Lewinski, and Ron Masakalunas.

Visitors are welcome and admission is free.

Set Dates For Fourth Turkey Season

Illinois' fourth wild turkey season is scheduled for two successive weekends, April 13, 14, and 15, and April 20, 21, and 22 in Alexander, Jackson, Pope and Union counties.

The Department of Conservation will issue 1,600 permits to hunters, 200 in each county during each of the two week-end hunts.

"As in the past, only gobblers, or male turkeys, will be hunted," said Jim Lockart, supervisor of the Division of Wildlife Resources for the Department. "First, a gobbler season provides the best biological use of the flock as turkeys are promiscuous breeders and the loss of gobblers will not affect the population."

"Secondly, this is the period when the female birds are nesting and they are less likely to be shot, as they will not be moving around during this time of the year."

Calhoun pointed out that the gobblers take on a very colorful appearance in the spring; while the female bird's feathers become duller in appearance.

As during last year, shooting time will be one-half hour before sunrise to 12 noon. Shotguns not larger than 10 gauge nor smaller than 20 gauge will be allowed, with no. 4 shot size, or smaller. Live decoys or electronic calls are illegal, and hunters must have signed permits in their possession, along with valid Illinois hunting licenses.

After a turkey is bagged it must be taken to the check station which is designated on the hunting permit. A successful hunter can remain with his companions, but without a gun.

Use of dogs, horses, automobiles, aircraft or other vehicles, or use of bait of any kind is illegal, as is shooting gobblers on a roost.

"I would recommend prospective hunters scout the areas and learn to use a turkey call effectively before the season begins," Calhoun said. "After you have an area picked out to hunt in, don't camp near it, as that will move birds from that area faster than anything you could do."

Applications for turkey permits will be accepted by the Department on a first come, first served basis beginning Feb. 13. All applications received before that date will be returned. Over the counter applications will be accepted at the Springfield office; however, they will be processed after the day's mail.

The permits will sell for $5 and are not transferrable. They are good for only the county specified, and no refunds will be made by the Department.

Not more than two applications may be submitted in the same envelope. The applicant should give his name and address, his first and second choices of counties in which he wants to hunt and the choice of seasons (first or second), and send the application, along with a $5 check or money order to: Department of Conservation - Turkey, 400 South Spring Street, Room 613, State Office Building, Springfield, Illinois 62706.

Further information can be obtained by calling Don Bethemann at 715-382-6946 or by writing Hodag 50, P.O. Box Snowmobile, Rhineland, Wis., 54501.

Snowmobile Registration

Registration will end at 8 p.m. Friday for the ninth annual snowmobile Rhineland Hodag Marathon and Sprints slated for this weekend.

A special $3,000 Triple Crown purse will be offered. Spectator attractions will consist of family snowmobile games, trail rides and displays at the park.

Further information can be obtained by calling Don Bethemann at 715-382-6946 or by writing Hodag 50, P.O. Box Snowmobile, Rhineland, Wis., 54501.

Husband Mollifies Critic

'Airline Column Was OK'

Tom Wellman's Jan. 9 column about the Dec. 22 trip to Cleveland via United (and back again by bus) kinda riled me — since you apparently aren't aware of what goes on behind the scene when foul weather moves in and the airlines can't function on schedule.

You see, we just put in a couple of months of late meals, stale lunches brought back home because my husband was too busy to eat same, hours of overtime because husband couldn't leave work, short of help, just plain busy — late for Christmas Day family dinner and on and on.

You see, my husband works most holidays — almost always Christmas — while you are finally with your family in Cleveland. But that's not the point.

My husband came home, read your article and said, "The man has a legitimate gripe." The airlines sell service — and during the Christmas holidays they didn't do a very good job — due to the weather all across the country — crews running out of time, end of the month, all sorts of things that under good weather conditions and normal loads can be compensated for.

While I sputtered and reminded him of his late hours, meals missed, dates broken, etc., he said the paying passenger is interested in getting to his destination, more or less, on time and safely and really couldn't care less about what goes on behind the scene to accomplish this. He said that's what I'm being paid for and since I like my work and like to do a good job of it while I'm there, I really think Mr. Wellman should be apologized to and hope his other flights to Cleveland (whatever airline he chooses to take in the future) will be more pleasant. So, I'm apologizing, Mr. Wellman, for the weather, for the unfortunate situation you had to put up with, and for my quick reaction to your article.

I do sincerely hope you had a pleasant

Mandy Mudlaff Isn't Forgotten

Over a year ago the Herald printed the story of a former Arlington Heights family whose three-year-old daughter was suffering from fatal neuroblastoma, and in need of financial help for mounting medical expenses. The response from area residents was most gratifying — little Mandy died just before Christmas in 1971 — but her memory lives on in the work the Mudlaffs are doing with funds from the "Money for Mandy" endeavor. This Christmas I received a note and newspaper article from the Delavan (Wisc.) paper which describes the work the "memorial fund" is doing — I felt your readers might find this follow-up story as heartwarming as I did, although I, too, never have had the pleasure of meeting this wonderful family.

Mrs. Calvin Maurer
Arlington Heights

EDITOR'S NOTE: The article reports that Mandy's parents, former residents holiday with your Cleveland family and in my last letter to you, when I suggested you take a bus next time, I swear I had no idea that's what you'd have to do!

As for the "bottleneck" at O'Hare and the lack of facilities — I think you have to go to his Honor the Mayor of Chicago for that.

The airlines only pay rent for the space they occupy and boy! it's a bundle. The City of Chicago maintains the airport. Correct me if I'm wrong.

May 1973 be good to all of us — and keep your columns coming — I love 'em!

Mrs. Margaret Johnson
Arlington Heights

EDITOR'S NOTE: Columnist Wellman reports he has no axe to grind with United Air Lines as the difficulties encountered were handled as well as possible under the circumstances — and he also empathizes with airline employees who must put up with impossible weather conditions and equally impossible passengers. He reports he will take a chance with the Friendly Skies of United when he goes to Cleveland again.

Oakton Board Needs Ability First

I have read Katherine Boyce's series of articles on Oakton Community College in the Des Plaines Herald with interest.

In your fourth article in the series, you wrote about the OCC District 535 Convention of which I am chairman. Particular emphasis was given to the question of geographical representation on the college board of trustees.

As a member of the District 535 Convention, I would like to state my own personal opinion on this question and try to put it in a broader perspective.

I believe there are three basic criteria to be considered in the selection of a candidate for the college board. The first is the individual's capabilities and qualifications. The second is the needs of the board itself (does it need someone strong in finance? knowledgeable in real estate and construction? well-versed in educational curricula and administration?). The third is geographical balance.

In my view, the candidate's capabilities and qualifications are the most important. I would not vote for a less qualified person just to give the board geographical balance. Nor would I vote for a less capable individual just because he happens to have some knowledge or experience in a particular field.

If two candidates appear to be relatively well qualified, however, then I would look at the other two selection criteria. All other things being comparatively equal, geographical balance could be the deciding factor.

I would like to emphasize that I am expressing my own opinion and not the views of the Convention delegates. However, I have discussed my ideas with several delegates from both townships and found their thoughts similar to mine.

Thank you for the in-depth reporting you have done on the college. We all need to keep up to date on what is happening and what is being planned for the future.

'Bury Your Indoor Ice Facility'

Many years ago I had a dog whose name was "Fetch." No one in our family was ever quite sure what kind of dog Fetch was. This never made any difference in the way we felt about him, because we knew that whatever he may have lacked in distinguished ancestry, he more than made up for it by being good with children, and dutifully sounding off whenever intruders came around the house. Fetch was always eager to please.

This eagerness to please was how Fetch got his name. Every time anyone in the family would lose something, Fetch would find it and fetch-it-back. But one rather bothersome thing about this compulsion of Fetch's was that he just couldn't seem to tell the difference between articles that had been lost and those that had been thrown away. Sometimes this was embarrassing because he would fetch back discarded overshoes, umbrellas, and ladies' purse. Once or twice he even fetched back the garbage. On those occasions we would just be patient and say to him, "No Fetch, take it out and bury it." And with a puzzled expression on his little face he would obey. I'm sure he never really understood the mysteries of the human mind.

My old friend has been gone for nearly forty years now, but I was reminded of him when I read the front page of the Herald of Wednesday, January 10. It said, "Village Will Get Indoor Ice Facility."

I can only say to the promoters of this indoor ice facility, the same thing I used to say to my poor old Fetch: No no, gentlemen, the voters overwhelmingly rejected what you are now proposing; they rejected it by a four to one margin.

'Improve Hoffman Road Hazard'

I write concerning a traffic hazard which directly confronts the resident of Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg and which will persist until corrective measures are taken. I am referring to the corner where Grand Canyon Road intersects with Higgins Road (Route 72).

During one of our last big snowstorms, within 30 minutes I witnessed at Grand Canyon and Higgins, three separate, costly accidents involving six cars and over a dozen people. Following is a description of how the accidents occurred and will recur unless...

Cars driving East on Higgins slow to turn right on Grand Canyon. Brakes are applied, tires lock, the car skids, and smashes into the auto attempting to enter Higgins from Grand Canyon. Incidentally, in the initial accident, the auto which totally wiped out the left side of a late model car, had studded snow tires. Too fast for conditions? Perhaps, but let's consider the steep decline prior to the turn and the abruptness of Grand Canyon corner.

I urgently recommend that an engineer study this precarious situation and remedy it perhaps by installing a yellow flashing light prior to the turn, or rounding out the turn, or perhaps by making Grand Canyon a one-way street. Otherwise the only grand associated with Grand Canyon will be the grand paid for auto repairs and hospital expenses.

Unless something is done, there will be costly, unnecessary collisions and misery for several families at Grand Canyon and Higgins Road during the next icy road conditions.

What guarantee is there that all the prisoners of war were taken and kept in North Viet Nam? There are rumors that some have been taken to China and put in detention camps, and others are held South of the 20th parallel. Are they to be included in the agreed on release?

It is my prayer that we should give full support to any attempts to negotiate a just peace that will guarantee the right of the South Viet Namese to self determination of how and by whom they shall be governed, and that all N.V.A. and Viet Cong will withdraw from Laos and Cambodia as well as from South V.N. Let reason rule our actions.

Divorce's Dirtiness

I was a secretary for a divorce lawyer. Had to quit after two months as I just couldn't take the dirty end of it. I'm still trying to wash my hands of the hurt, lies and cheating that went on in the office.

In a divorce, just the ex-husband, wife and kids should be involved, no judges or lawyers. They just make matters worse. Keep them out of the picture.

Miss Sue Accuff
Chicago

P.S. After reading Mrs. Angellotti's letter, I just had to stick my two cents in.

Red Atrocities 'Unrecorded'

When I hear the newscasters and read the views of columnists, I have to wonder how they reach the conclusion that in order to have peace the U. S. must stop the cruel(?) bombing raids of military targets in North Viet Nam.

Why are they not condemning the North Viet Namese and the Viet Cong for their many atrocities against the villagers of South Viet Nam, and taking captive those who do not "cooperate." Silence only condones such action.

There are too many such actions to relate in detail, and which you do not ever see given publicity in any form, but I must relate one in human atrocity: At Crescent Beach, not far from DaNang, is a leprosarium orphanage and school. Certainly none of these could be considered as involved in any military action. Yet it happened. Skulking Viet Cong terrorists bombed the generator at 1:30 a.m. Then they exploded satchel charges in front of five of the duplex houses in which the lepers were quartered, wrecking the buildings beyond repair. Then they bombed the T.B. ward, killing one woman and wounding many others. The clinic-dispensary went next. A missionary friend of ours in describing it said: "Medicine, bandages and equipment were strewn all around, mingled with the blood of the wounded." At 9:15 a.m. a time bomb exploded in the school building — aimed at killing the children and teachers — but fortunately classes had been cancelled due to the prior bombing.

Why do we not hear the "doves" in Congress, and the anti-war activists condemning the Communists for this? Do they not realize that the atrocious acts of the Viet Cong and the N.V.A. have made retaliation necessary in an attempt to halt further penetration of South Viet Nam? Why are our acts of defense labeled criminal, when the offensive acts of the Communists are winked at? Why are not our Viet Nam vets asked to relate the atrocities they have seen? I talked with one just yesterday and he confirmed what I have stated here. Why then tie the hands of our negotiators, and by various means gag them to prevent them from obtaining a just peace for all? Such actions only serve to give the enemy an indication that if they stall long enough, they can win their point.

As you well know, it is not only the Viet Namese in the South who are the victims in this conflict, but in Laos and Cambodia as well. Most of all the acts of aggression are against the Christians and the leaders in the villages, who are ruthlessly slaughtered when the villages are overrun by the Communists. Some are buried alive up to their necks and then cruelly tortured until they die. Not a very pretty picture, is it?

Birth Help Draws Plaudits

A note of thanks to the personnel at Penney's in Woodfield Mall, two Schaumburg firemen and the attending and delivery room nurses of Northwest Community Hospital. I can not personally say thanks, as some names I have forgotten and others I never knew. I only hope those involved read this publication and realize we appreciate their compassion and skills.

Do Aldermen Care?

In your Jan. 10, 1973, article on redistricting, you quoted Rolling Meadows Alderman Dan Weber (4th) as saying, "Apartment dwellers don't care about local politics."

I have lived in a Rolling Meadows apartment for six years, am a registered voter and I don't like being classified as a second class citizen because I'm not a home owner.

Not once in six years has a local candidate bothered to knock on doors in our complex to let us know his views. The most any candidate has done is drop pamphlets on our doorstep.

Mr. Weber, we do care about local politics. Do your aldermen care about us?

Dick Massa Criticizes John Flood

In the January Wheeling Herald, John Flood offered various statements concerning my actions, etc. From his statements it is apparent that he is not well informed on these matters, but rather has relied upon hearsay. To qualify this statement, he has not participated, nor could he, in any WHIP meetings, plans, etc. His only connection with WHIP, to my knowledge, is that of an invited speaker who, in my opinion, offered nothing of value in his presentation. Therefore, it is apparent that he has merely relied upon what he has read coupled with what may have been communicated to him by the officers of WHIP. As a commentary, I would say his offerings are one-sided and at best unreliable on the following grounds:

First, I never stated that a candidate possess previous government service. Generally, candidates without such service qualify themselves on the basis of their background, reputations and experience in their past and/or present endeavors.

Second, certainly I am entitled to my personal opinion as to a candidate's qualifications. Flood's statements that I had set myself up as a judge is "out-of-line." He now assumes the position of judging me for what I have previously said and in so doing, again I say he is without right and "out-of-line."

Third, Flood's statement that I was offered the opportunity to be slated by WHIP is totally untrue. I was never asked by WHIP to be slated, or anyone else for that matter. My letters December 21 and December 27 sent to your paper clearly sets forth my statements regarding this issue. I speak from first hand knowledge as a former member of WHIP, fully knowledgeable of their internal factions and apparent agreed coalitions. Unless you are of the "chosen ones" you find yourself on the outside looking in, without a choice as to who will be slated as a candidate.

In my humble opinion, I believe Mr. Flood has offered no contribution to Wheeling. Either as a former resident or former employee of the village. To carry this further, it is apparent that he contributed to the strike of the Wheeling police officers, which virtually caused the village to find itself without police protection and the necessity to call upon citizens and other law enforcement agencies for this service. In addition and according to past Herald newspaper articles he attempted to intervene on behalf of a Wheeling police officer: who had been suspended and who was scheduled for a hearing before the Wheeling Police and Fire Commission. In my opinion, he attempted, by means of seeking political "clout" to interfere in the "due process" which was scheduled to be afforded to the officer at that time. I emphatically reiterate that WHIP is a "closed corporation" and should appropriately be renamed the Wheeling Inaccessible Party. I offer this statement on the grounds that the WHIP officers hand-picked those persons slated without regard for the members of WHIP.

As for Mr. Flood and whatever his motives, I suggest that he take interest in his community of Prospect Heights, and desist from interfering in the business of our village by means of printed offered statements which merely act as advertising for the police association of which he states is the president thereof.

I respectfully request your consideration that my rebuttal be printed in the Wheeling Herald.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I keep reading about children becoming ill through getting into dangerous medicines or household products. Seems to me our government officials talk big and produce zilch. Isn't there anything we can do to make manufacturers adopt better and safer packaging practices?—Victoria Becklund

Only thing I know is to keep writing congressmen and state legislators. Consumer pressure on the manufacturers might help, too. The Food and Drug Administration has been pressuring for childproof containers, but there seems to have been a lot of foot-dragging by packagemakers and manufacturers. I'd like to see the government as active in this field as it is being with the automakers on pollution emissions.

Dear Dorothy: I've heard that certain foods have a minus caloric value because of the energy required to chew and digest them. Celery has been one of the foods mentioned. Is this so?—Cathy Wood lories. A 110-pound person expends about 0.3 calories a minute while eating. The way I measure means that stalk of celery would have to be chewed for 16 minutes to be of no caloric value.

Dear Dorothy: You've become too cautious about printing all the good baking soda hints because of the razzing you get. But why not be frank and admit it's the only thing that works with many items? My continuous cleaning oven is a good example. It's fairly effective in regular use, but big spills take a long time to clean up. You can't use scouring powder because it will damage the surface. So you can imagine how happy it made me to find that baking soda on a damp sponge works beautifully.—Marilyn Thomas

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Dr. Gloria Kinney

Education's Her Sphere

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Gloria Kinney wasn't at all sure she wanted to go on to college after high school. Now a Ph.D., she is executive director of Northwest Educational Cooperative with its offices in Palatine.

Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC) is a group of 10 area school districts that work together to develop and provide a variety of educational programs and practices for communities in this area. Through pooling financial resources, cooperative planning, NEC provides programs such as those offered by Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO) Instructional Systems and Data Services, Samuel A. Kirk Developmental Center, Bilingual Services, Diagnostic Learning Center and others, according to Dr. Kinney.

Dr. Kinney works with area school administrators, and with local school board members, the ones responsible for setting policy. A former teacher, Gloria likes staying involved in education "at the active level my position provides."

Both capable and feminine, busy Gloria Kinney earned her way to her present job. She first worked as a quality control specialist for Bell Telephone Laboratories. It was this work experience that prompted her to attend college.

SHE STUDIED at Northwestern University for two years, then attended Moser Business School in Chicago. She worked as a sales correspondent for a cosmetic firm and as secretary for an insurance broker before she and husband John, a C.P.A. were married.

John's job took them from the Chicago area to Colorado and then to Texas, Gloria's home state. Here son John, 22, who now attends the University of Texas, was born. The family next moved to the Philippines where daughter Katherine, 21, a coed at the University of Chicago, arrived. Their younger son, Robert, 18, a student at Southern Illinois University, was born after the Kinneys returned to the United States.

When her children were small, Gloria decided she wanted to teach and began attending night classes at Northwestern's downtown Chicago campus. "When Robert was graduated from kindergarten, I was graduated from college," she recalled.

After she earned a B.S. in secondary education with a major in math, Dr. Kinney started instructing sixth grade students at Grove Junior High in Elk Grove Village. She decided she'd rather teach math and later became District 59's math consultant. At the same time, she commenced working nights, Saturdays and summers to earn a master's in mathematics at Northwestern.

ABOUT THIS time District 59 began developing a program for gifted children, and Gloria subsequently was offered the job as director of demonstration for gifted children. She worked in that position for two years.

Dr. Kinney's next job challenge came when she accepted a six months assignment as director of program planning for what became the Elk Grove Training and Development Center. And when the federal government accepted these plans and funded the new program, Gloria directed the program from 1968-69. She also began work at Northwestern on a doctorate in educational administration which she completed in 1970.

Under Dr. Kinney's guidance, the Elk Grove Center, a cooperative program comprised of eight participating school districts, set up 12 model programs.

"We identified outstanding educational programs, let teachers see them in action, then helped them adapt the programs to their school," Dr. Kinney explained.

The Center conducted demonstrations, seminars and workshops with many universities for teachers and administrators, she added.

DURING THIS time a four-township study committee was organized locally to study area education. This committee of superintendents and school board members considered — among other things — the eventual demise of federally funded educational programs, Dr. Kinney said. They began looking for ways to provide local support for programs such as those initiated by the Elk Grove Center, the Diagnostic Learning Center in District 25, Instructional Resources in District 214 and the Community Education Program in District 21, for example.

The Northwest Educational Cooperative, founded in June, 1969, emerged from this study. (School districts in the cooperative are: 15, 21, 23, 25, 26, 54, 57, 59, 211 and 214.) Dr. Gloria Kinney assumed leadership the following September.

Commended by friends and co-workers for her friendly manner and capable leadership, Gloria enjoys her family life, likes to read, travel and to play the piano when she is not working.

"But whatever I choose to do, I have fun!" she remarked with a pleasant smile.

NOW A PH.D. in educational administration and director of Northwest Educational Cooperative, Dr. Gloria Kinney worked right after high school and then decided she wanted more schooling.

A Romance Of Four Years

Robyn Hoes and Michael Hadley have been dating since they were juniors at Arlington High School and on Dec. 29 they repeated their marriage vows in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights.

The newlyweds honeymooned for eight days in Acapulco and then stayed in Arlington Heights until leaving for Tulsa, Okla., where Michael is a junior at the University of Tulsa. Both Robyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Hoes, 802 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, and Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Hadley, 702 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights, are 1970 graduates of Arlington High School. Robyn studied two years at the University of Tulsa. She has been employed by Multigraphics, Mount Prospect.

For the 6 p.m., candlelight, double ring service Robyn chose an Empire gown of ivory satin appliqued with re-embroidered Alencon lace and pearls. The gown featured a sheer lace yoke on a lace bodice, and lace panels and appliques followed the A-line skirt. Lace scalloped finished the hemline and silk organza and lace formed the long, lantern sleeves.

HER CHAPEL-LENGTH satin train was also appliqued, and her matching mantilla was edged in the lace and dotted with lace motifs. She carried a colonial bouquet of white floral buttons, statice, baby's breath and white roses.

Her attendants were in sapphire velvet gowns with high, round necklines, long, straight sleeves and three tiers of ruffled ivory lace edging the bell-shaped cuffs. The girls carried blue star flowers, baby's breath, German statice and fresh Christmas greens.

Karen Morris, a sorority sister from

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hadley

St. Louis, Mo., was Robyn's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Kris Hoselton, Sioux City, Iowa; Caren Dukstra of Englewood, Colo., aunt of the groom; Tammy Franque, a cousin of the bride from Moline, Ill.; and Karen Wilson, Jan Cockran and Colleen Guilfoill, all of Arlington Heights.

AMY ARNESON, 4, Arlington Heights, was flower girl wearing a sapphire blue velvet gown with puffed sleeves and sat in Peter Pan collar. She carried a basket of the same flowers carried by the bridesmaids. The bride's 9-year-old brother David was ring bearer.

Bill Heffernan, a fraternity brother of the groom from Arlington Heights, was best man. Groomsmen were Kent Quakenbush, Clarendon Hills; Roy Genevich, Brad O'Berry, Mac Ramseur and the bride's brother Steve, all of Arlington Heights; and Mark Ellis, Tulsa.

Ushers were the bride's cousin, Gary Franque, and, Blaine Hemphill, Tom McNamara and Ken Sigmom.

A dinner reception for 200 guests was held at the Black Fox in Rolling Meadows.

Beauty Operators See '73 Fashions

New hair styles and the fashion look for Spring '73 were unveiled in Champaign this past weekend when the beauty profession gathered for the winter hair fashion festival, "Champaign Show Stopper."

Hair fashions were presented by the Illinois Hair Fashion Committee of the Illinois Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The weekend included class lessons, contests, educational programs, a fashion luncheon and a queen contest. Among area hairdressers attending were Carol Brooks, Ray Raines and Veronica Ventrice of the area ICHA chapter.

Armand Gentile, Ruth Montgomery and Betty Shapiro were among chapter members in attendance at the national seminar held the weekend of Jan 13-14 in St. Louis.

St. Mary's Plans A Theater Party

Reservations are due Feb. 1 for the matinee theater party to be sponsored by St. Mary's Woman's Club, Buffalo Grove, on Feb. 25.

A chartered bus will take the group to the Candlelight Playhouse to see "Fiddler on the Roof." Cost is $10 per person which includes dinner, the play, the bus trip and tips.

Reservations, limited to 40, are being taken by Shirley Hermes, Route 1, Box 18B, Prairie View, and Judy Jaeger, 760 St. Mary's Parkway, Buffalo Grove. Checks may be made payable to St. Mary's Woman's Club.

Roberta Fisher Agency Slates Gala Open House

Roberta Fisher Travel Agency Inc. is celebrating its new location at 14 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, with a gala open house Friday and Saturday. Doors will be open from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Friday and from 10 in the morning until 3 p.m. Saturday, according to Mrs. Roberta Fisher, general manager. "We'll have fresh pineapple from Hawaii and special door prizes," says Mrs. Fisher. Persons attending the open house can register for two exotic travel prizes being offered as part of the agency's special grand opening promotion.

First prize, according to Mrs. Fisher, is a free five-day trip to Acapulco, Mexico. "The winner will receive round trip air fare, accommodations for four nights, all transfers and a yacht cruise," says the travel agency head. Second prize will be accommodations for two persons for two nights at the Sheraton Hotel in French Lick, Ind. Persons may register for the drawings all this week at the travel agency's office as well as at the open house Friday and Saturday.

Jamaica Package Tours Ready

Northwest suburbanites interested in private villa or apartment accommodations in Jamaica can contact their travel agents about the series of package vacations being offered by Creative Leisure Vacations and Air Jamaica for the winter season.

Effective to April 15, all packages include round-trip economy air fare, air-conditioned villa or apartment with pool and/or beach for eight days and seven nights, fully-staffed villas or apartments with daily maid service, round-trip transfers from and to Montego Bay Airport, and special rates for children under 12.

Included in the program are Ironshore Villas in Montego Bay, Turtle Beach Condominium Apartments in Ocho Rios, and North Coast Villas in Discovery Bay, Runaway Bay and Ocho Rios.

AT IRONSHORE VILLAS, rates are $308 from Chicago, with a minimum of six persons. The program includes a home with air-conditioned bedrooms, full-time cook and maid to prepare and serve all meals, fresh-water swimming pool, use of private white sand beach, and use of Ironshore Golf and Country Club with lounge and restaurant.

The program at Turtle Beach provides centrally air-conditioned apartments, each with living-dining room, fully equipped kitchen and private balcony-terrace; white sand beach, fresh-water swimming pool, daily maid service, restaurant, coffee shop and bar. Water sports are available, as are full-time cooks, at an additional charge. Program rates are $322 per person from Chicago. There is a four-person minimum.

North Coast Villas offers homes in choice locations, all with air-conditioned bedrooms, full-time cook/maid, private fresh-water pool and/or beach facilities. Rates for the program are $336 per person from Chicago, with a minimum of six persons.

Program departures from North American points are on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays only.

Costs of food, staff gratuities and U.S. and Jamaican departure taxes are not included.

MAKE
PART OF YOUR DAILY LIFE

by DON FRIFELD
PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico — Golden girls in bikinis — a fringe of writers and artists — the first trickle of film stars seeking privacy... the ingredients are all here.

And so — this isolated fishing village on Mexico's Pacific coast, with its verdant hills, white beaches and cobblestone streets is now becoming the Mexican Riviera.

Touted as the next Acapulco, now that it has passed through the "discovered" state, Puerto Vallarta still has a relatively unbothered and uncluttered atmosphere.

THE ARRIVAL OF the "jet set" has triggered significant changes in the picturesque Indian village. Scant years ago, you had to walk the street by flashlight and dine by candlelight or kerosene. Today, the jeep and Volkswagen filled one-way streets are flooded with light bearing down on ancient cobblestones.

Prices have started to climb, but Puerto Vallarta still remains one of the best tourist bargains around. Some of the town's quaint hotels will rent rooms for as little as $8 a night.

New, and at the top end of the gringo super-hotels, are the resort operations of Posada Vallarta, and the Playa de Oro, north of town, and the Camino Real, Del-fin and Garza Blanca, south of town.

Moderately priced hotels located in the downtown area are the Posada de la Selva, the Oceano, Las Campanas, Rio Tropicana and The Rosita. Some of the quaint and older ones are the Central, Posada del Pedregal, Hotel Cuernavaca and the Chula Vista.

A TRULY LUXURIOUS vacation can cost amazingly little by renting a private home. Most of the part-time residents are only too willing to rent their casas... most of them with breathtaking views of red-tiled roofs and sparkling blue bay. Such a villa will include guest house, garden, oodles of tile and terrace, a cook, maid and houseboy, and a colorful jeep to negotiate the steep streets.

There are many new apartments in town. Even the least expensive will include a kitchenette and twin beds and, usually, a terrace.

The beach, which probably has the most action, if not local color, is the broad, white, Playa del Sol. It used to be called Los Muertos (Beach of the Dead), but with tourists and all, a more felicitous name was adopted. This is where the beautiful "in" crowd hangs out in front of the various snack stands and beer pavilions, taking time out from basting themselves in the warm sun to water ski, scuba dive and parakite.

On the beach in front of La Garza (the white Heron), on the road to Mismaloya, you can ride up to the bar on a rented burro, which is great fun as long as you stay sober.

Burros are put to another use at the luxurious Posada Vallarta Hotel. Late afternoons on some weekends they play a sport called "Burro Polo" on the beach. From the lethargic stance of the burros it's more of a drag than a sport to them, but their riders whoop it up trying to whack a basketball-sized ball along the sand with broom-sticks. Guests are invited to participate.

ON SATURDAY NIGHTS, the Posada Vallarta has a Mexican fiesta, replete with tortillas, tacos and exotic Mexican dishes, mariachis and dancers and salt-rimmed margaritas. By the time the festival ends, you're half Mexican! Evening entertainment features excellent and popular Mexican musical groups.

For shopping, there are numerous boutiques and shops that run the gamut from gimcracks to pottery to Taxco silver, and the finest resort fashions. Generally, prices are reasonable and, in some cases, quite inexpensive, except in the artsy-craftsy shops. Featured are the native designs of Rodellada, Nelly, Josefa and Luz. Slacks are made to order overnight and handcrafted sandals can cost as little as $3.

At mealtime you are hard put to find Mexican dishes on the menus, which lean heavily to continental favorites. The town's atmospheric new restaurants offer a good selection of steaks, pork, fried chicken, excellent varieties of fish and lobster or shrimp in a basket.

You can get a lovely dinner at El Patio, in very pleasant surroundings, which is located on the colorful Malecon, the main street along the waterfront, or a wonderful choice of continental selections and a fun evening at the popular O'Briens — also located on the Malecon. The meeting place for the American Colony is popular "Tonys" Restaurant that features excellent steaks and filet mignon dinners for less than $3.

HOW WILL YOU spend your days in Puerto Vallarta? You may enjoy lazing on a beach, edged by blue water and ringed by a lush growth of palms and flowers, drink a coco-loco or margarita under the coolness of a palm-thatched grass hut, dine on turtle steaks, artichokes and lobster at one of the quaint hotels, or on soup and tacos at a waterfront shed, ride horseback into the jungle, infested with exotic birds, try surf casting or deep sea fishing for sail and marlin, water ski, swim, snorkel, hunt deer, wild boar, ducks, doves and wild pigeons, sail, skin dive, spear a manta ray or just plain relax and watch the vividly colored birds of the parrot family dart about.

Nightlife in Puerto Vallarta is good but still a far cry from the riot of discotheques in Acapulco. A great place to start the evening is at La Margarita restaurant, where you eat excellent Mexican food in a patio. On a raised stage, chefs labor in full sight, within a typically tiled Mexican kitchen over quiet cauldrons. Around 9 p.m. the colorful mariachis come on.

In the same building, there's a discotheque — Margarita's A-Go-Go, which is a natural stopover to dance away some of the enchiladas. Some other spots are La Isla, Los Lobos, and The City Dump, each with entertainment, dancing, and a slight cover charge.

If Puerto Vallarta gets too grown up for you, there's a sturdy launch to take you on a day long sightseeing excursion down the coast to Yelapa. This Indian village, whose name means "place of reunion" in local dialect, is very picturesque and so primitive that there isn't even an American community there yet.

There are no streets, only rocky pathways shared with chickens, donkeys, cows, pigs and dogs. Behind the village is waterfall and behind the beach a fresh water lagoon, to which a small river empties during the rainy season. There are only about 300 Mexicans, Indians, Mestizos in the area, and a dozen foreigners.

Family Diving Becoming Popular, Too

Florida Keys: Paradise For Thousands Of Scuba Divers

by GLENN COUVILLON

The coral-studded Florida Keys, once known only to bolsters buccaners, devious rumrunners and treasure-laden Spanish fleets, is today's colorful underwater environment for thousands of skin and scuba diving enthusiasts.

Like a string of gleaming white beads, linked together by the Overseas Highway, the Keys offer the diver one of the most versatile underwater packages in the world.

The Sunshine State's top diving attraction, John Pennkamp Coral Reef State Park, off Key Largo, contains much of the only living coral reef in the continental United States.

Drifting through a coral maze, the diver is surrounded by a kaleidoscope of red streaks, gold splashes and violet streaks that highlight the brilliant aquamarine sea.

ON PLANTATION KEY, the diver changes from fins to sandals for a tour of McEe's Museum of Sunken Treasure. The museum houses an impressive collection of rare treasures and relics recovered from ancient shipwrecks on the reefs.

The Coral Gardens at Islamorada, nature's underwater canvas, is a masterpiece. Striking reef formations covered in multicolored coral heads, rise within two feet of the ocean's surface.

Divers swim among vibrant red sponges and purple sea fans that sway to the rhythm of the current. Here, one might catch a glimpse of the sea clam, with its blue and black marbled flesh bathed in the sun's rays that beam through crystal clear waters.

The Sombbrero Lighthouse area, five miles off Marathon, offers the diver maximum depths of 30 feet with moderately deep sand chasms scattered among high cliffs of coral. Yellow sponges and black branched sea fans share the tranquility with schools of blue gregories, blue and yellow striped angel fish and the Florida lobster.

THE ISLAND of Key West is completely surrounded by water and reefs and, with the Gulf Stream passing nearby, offers one of the world's most dazzling diving areas.

Divers explore coral canyons, caves and ledges, viewing a variety of coral. The formations of fine elkhorn, staghorn and brain coral are laced with rainbow-hued tropical fish.

Shell fanciers may collect queen, horse, pink and milk conches, as well as starfish and seahorses.

Family diving is becoming more and more popular and the Florida Keys provide excellent inshore diving for novices and young divers.

Scallops, cowry shells and doughnut sponges seek refuge in the grass and rocks of the shallow inshore areas. The novice can collect starfish, tropical fish, and seahorses and, if lucky enough, old bottles from pirate and rumrunning days. The sandy ocean floor holds many treasures for the young diver.

THE STATE of Florida is eager for everyone to enjoy its underwater scenery, and therefore restricts spearfishing and artifact collecting. Divers should consult local dive shops for information on the areas in which diving is planned.

At Pennkamp, Long Key and Bahia Honda state parks, diving-camping enthusiasts can swim, picnic and camp in year-round temperatures averaging in the middle 70s.

Florida's fabulous Keys, nature's aquatic coloring book, is a perfect vacationland for tropical fish collectors, shell fanciers, marine photographers and underwater sightseers. Its legendary mysteries await discovery beneath the surface of the sea.

SHELL FANCIERS can collect queen, horse, pink and milk conches, as well as starfish and seahorses in the diving areas around the island of Key West.

Travel Briefs

"AMERICAN EXPERIENCE"

American Airlines, in cooperation with Holiday Inns and Avis Rent-A-Car, is launching a major new fly/drive tour program called the "American Experience."

The low-cost program offers seven-day tours to areas including California, Arizona, Texas, Mexico and the East Coast.

Up to four persons can take advantage of the one special price for a week's rental of a car and six nights lodging in the vacation area they choose. The amount of air fare, based on a special tour rate, depends on distance traveled.

Full details of the "American Experience" tours can be obtained from travel agents.

THREE CHAIRLIFT AT SKY LINE

A triple chairlift, the only one of its kind in the Midwest, is now open daily at Sky Line Ski Area, Friendship, Wis., and more than doubles the uphill capacity.

The ski lift serves both an intermediate and a beginner slope. In addition, skiers may wind back and forth among the towers of the new lift, where about 23 per cent more skiable terrain has been added this season.

Thursday is "Ladies Day" at Sky Line, and it's "Student Night" every Friday with reduced rates for skiers 17 and under. For $5, skiers receive two hours of instruction, plus supervised skiing with the ski school staff, rental equipment and lift tickets. No advance registration required, but students should be ready for the lesson by 8:30 p.m.

OLD DETROIT

Visitors can stroll through three generations of life as it was in early Detroit in the "Streets of Old Detroit" exhibit at the Detroit Historical Museum.

The streets represent three historic periods, including the 1850s with cobblestone streets and wooden sidewalks, the 1870s with cedar block pavement and the 1895-to-1905 streets of brick and cement.

The streets are lined with authentically-equipped stores of those times, including replicas of a Kresge and Wilson five-and-ten, a drug store and the Casino modeled after Detroit's first nickelodeon movie house.

Sample The Superb Bistros That Line The Byways Of The Riviera

A host of quiet but genuine gastronomic experiences back on the Riviera. Bistros without fail line the byways between Saint-Tropez and Menton. The little village of Chateaufort-de-Contes, in the hills behind Nice, is where one finds the Auberge Antoine. Perfectionist chef Antoine is likely to be snipping herbs from his garden for the succulent lamb. Be prepared for a two- or three-hour lunch. It's worth the time.

At the entry to Nice's Grand Corniche stands La Pignata d'Or, a cafe-tabac with a cordon bleu surprise in its tiny dining-room. Specialties range from homemade "ravioli aux cepes" to rabbit in port wine. Once inside, the gourmet understands why advance reservations are required.

Well hidden among the rocks is La Pinede, at the tip of Cap-D'Ail, awash by the Mediterranean. Here, a simple but delicious meal, under the stars and the pinet, caps a visit to this uncrowded section of the coast.

For travelers to whom atmosphere is second to cuisine, unpretentious Aristide is a must-stop in Theoule on the Route Nationale. Bouillabaisse, by special order, and flawless "loup" (white fish) demonstrate Aristide's very special talents with fish.

Antibes boasts a celebrated fish market and closeby is the Restaurant l'Oursin, equally famed for the freshness and variety of its fish and fruits de mer. In nearby Biot, Les Terralliers offers hearty cuisine in a vaulted 16th Century decor. At these and many other bistros tucked in along the coast, memorable meals can be had at modest prices.

Winter schedules off, thru April 28, 1973.

You Can Jet To Florida, Ship Your Car

"Jet to Florida and ship your car there by rail" is the latest inducement being offered winter vacationers from the Chicago area, in a combined new service now offered by the Chessie System (C&O/B&O railroads) and Delta Air Lines.

Under the new plan, vacationers may drop the family automobile off at a convenient Chessie System receiving point in Chicago for shipment by rail, while they, themselves, fly to vacation destinations on a Delta jet.

For the trip south, automobiles are loaded on the same type multi-level rail cars used by auto manufacturers for the shipment of new cars.

In Florida, automobiles are delivered, cleaned and washed. The jet-rail plan spares vacationers the fatigue of long driving, and affords more time in Florida for the winter holiday.

Chessie System and Delta officials say the public's reaction to the new service has been enthusiastic. It has special appeal for vacationers planning extended stays in Florida resort areas, with the added convenience of having their own cars with them.

The Delta-Auto-Trans service is provided between Chicago, Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami in both directions. Cost of transporting automobiles is $225 each way.

Enjoy Delta's Total Service nonstop to Florida.

Reservations Sales Agent Nancy Palmer. Another Delta Air Lines professional.

Total Service starts with your reservations—confirmed in three seconds. And it doesn't end till your baggage is delivered—in an average time of seven minutes after you land. The Delta professionals go all-out the way to Florida to give you the best trip ever.

Total Service means new menus on Delta's meal flights, created just for the festive, hang-the-calories winter season. In Tourist the food is just sumptuous—in First Class, Royal Service is out of this world.

Total Service means a big choice of nonstops from Chicago to Miami/Ft. Lauderdale, including great 747 superjets. More nonstops to Tampa/St. Pete/Clearwater. Still more to Orlando/Walt Disney World and Jacksonville. Thrifty Night Coaches too, for 20% less than the Day Tourist.

Delta accepts all major general-purpose credit cards. For full information and reservations to Florida this winter, see your friendly Travel Agent. Or call Delta at 346-5300. And have a nice trip! DELTA The name run by professionals.

TRAVEL LORE

by Clare Wright, TRAVEL EDITOR

What do you think of when you think of Miami? Collins Avenue — conventions — the Orange Bowl — Hialeah — Jai-Alai? Maybe you never thought of this fun-in-the-sun spot as a major cruise capital.

Last year 878,394 passengers embarked from the Port of Miami, making it the largest port for cruise traffic in the United States.

"Some of the world's best cruises start here on Dodge Island just minutes from the heart of Miami and Miami International Airport," a representative of the Miami Tourism Department told us recently.

AND WHAT a variety of choices for sailing off to the wild blue yonder! You can put out to sea for a short-but-sweet two-night cruise to Freeport in the Bahamas — or "shoot the works" on a glamorous three-month odyssey in the Far East. There's a ship from Miami to fulfill every voyager's dream, pocket-book or available time.

Thirteen ships continuously depart from the Port of Miami, with five others making frequent calls. Nine cruise lines provide passenger service from there.

Norwegian Caribbean Lines operates four ships from the Port of Miami, and these cruises are tremendously popular with Northwest suburbanites.

"IT MAKES A nice 'extra' on a Florida vacation," said Mrs. Harold Seligmann of Arlington Heights, who sailed on Norwegian Caribbean's M/S Southward with her husband a few months ago.

The 302-passenger ship departs Miami every Monday for a four-day cruise to Freeport and Nassau and leaves Friday afternoon for three-day excursions to Nassau.

Jamaica is the destination for the ship-line's M/S Starward. Every Saturday afternoon this sleek floating resort hotel leaves Miami for Kingston, Montego Bay and Port Antonio, with a stop at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, along the way.

Another seven-day cruise is aboard the M/S Skyward to Cape Haitien, San Juan, St. Thomas and Nassau.

DO YOU HAVE two weeks to spare? Norwegian Caribbean's M/S Southward departs alternate Saturdays for Curacao, Caracas, Grenada, Barbados, Martinique, St. Croix, San Juan, St. Thomas and Nassau.

Royal Caribbean Cruise Line has three ships offering one and two-week trips out of Miami.

The M/S Song of Norway visits Nassau, San Juan and St. Thomas every week, and the Nordic Prince and Sun Viking leave the Port of Miami every other weekend for two-week cruises to Nassau, St. Maarten, Martinique, Trinidad, Grenada, Barbados, Antigua, San Juan and St. Thomas.

The M/S Boheme is the Commodore Cruise Line entry in the seven-day excursion category, visiting Puerto Plata, St. Thomas, San Juan and Cape Haitien.

ANOTHER seven-day cruise is offered by Carnival Cruise Lines' TSS Mardi Gras, which leaves Miami every Saturday for San Juan, St. Maarten, St. Thomas and Nassau.

You travel Italian-style when you go aboard Costa Line's T/S Flavia and sail to Nassau on a three-day cruise or to Freeport on a four-day journey.

Eastern Steamship presents a similar package with its two ships, the S/S Emerald Seas and the S/S Bahama Star.

It takes even less time to Freeport and Nassau on Freeport Cruise Lines' M/V Freeport. The ship, which accommodates 1,500 passengers, leaves Miami on two-night cruises every Sunday and Tuesday, with a Freeport-only cruise leaving on Friday.

WE'RE REALLY sold that these abbreviated cruises are the perfect answer for the harried suburbanite who could use the relaxation of an ocean voyage but is short on time and money.

Of course, you CAN go on long trips too. Sun Line's M/S Stella Oceanis has three-week winter cruises scheduled from Miami to Cape Haitien, San Juan, St. Croix, Martinique, Grenada, Curacao, San Blas, Cristobal, San Andres, Santa Tomas, Puerto Cortes and Cozumel.

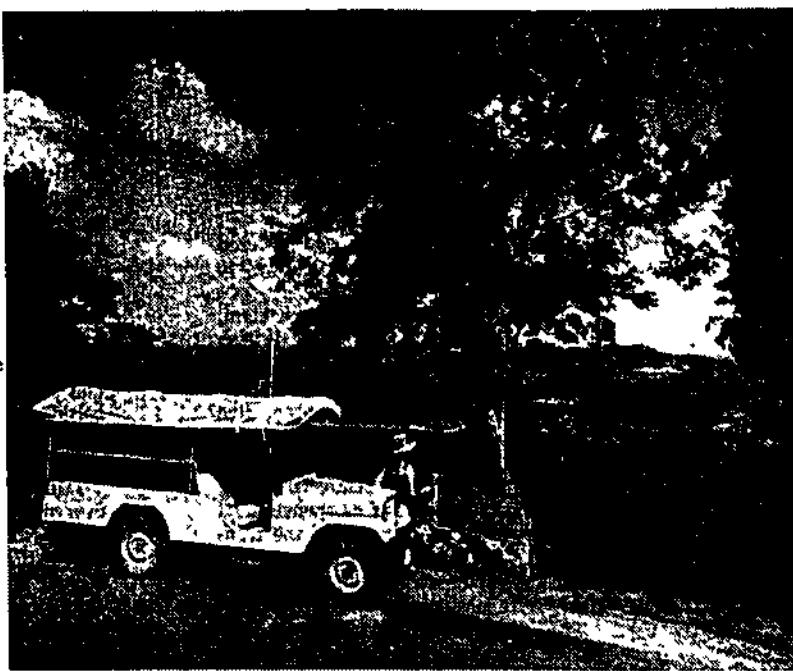

If that isn't long enough, Oriental Overseas Line has 45 and 90-day cruises departing every month from the Port of Miami. The three-month excursion is entirely by ship with return by plane for the shorter tour.

What does it cost? Three-day cruises begin around $95 with four-days from $115. Sailing away for a week begins around $250 and two-weeks is from $500.

Your travel agent has the details — and some wonderful brochures that tell the whole story.

An Elusive Kind Of Peace

CARIBBEAN TRANQUILITY — You catch a good bit of that elusive kind of peace when you stop by Kongo Vey of Centerline Road on St. John, Virgin Islands. Here you see a sweeping view of deserted beaches and hills uninhabited since the Carib Indians were driven off by exploring colonists. Today, over two-thirds of St. John is under the protection of a U.S. National Park.

Airline Personnel Go 'Above And Beyond' Their Duties

The Jacks (And Jills) Of All Trades...

by MURRAY J. BROWN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Milking a goat, cutting hair, repairing shoes and sewing pants is what you would expect of a farmer, barber, cobbler and tailor.

But they also happen to be some of the extra services performed by American Airlines personnel along with their regular duties, according to Bill Hunter.

Hunter, a former Dallas newspaper editor of AA's employee newspaper Flagship News, recently compiled a list of "above and beyond" assistance provided customers in emergencies. Here are a few:

A FLEET SERVICE clerk at O'Hare Airport milked the goat. An Oklahoma City woman had bought a Great Saanen goat to ensure a supply of milk for an ailing son who needed it as part of his daily diet. The goat was delivered to the AA freight terminal at O'Hare just after the day's last departure for Oklahoma City.

That meant an overnight stay for the animal. It also meant, the owner said, that the goat would have to be milked that night and the next morning or it could stop giving milk. Barrie McCauley volunteered to lend a hand and the day — and the milk supply — was saved.

Maria Elias, a passenger service representative at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport, didn't have anything against long hair but she took the passenger into AA's baggage room to trim his locks. The young man had no objections, either. Seems he was on his way to National Guard summer camp and planned to have his hair cut in the airport barber shop but it was closed.

So he asked Miss Elias if she would trim his hair enough for him to pass inspection. Miss Elias is now a stewardess and is based in New York.

IT WAS A stewardess — unidentified — who came to the aid of a passenger flying from New York to Chicago who split the seat of his pants. He finally mentioned his plight to Tony DeSocio, the flight service director on the DC-10. DeSocio suggested the man retire to a lavatory, remove his pants, hand them out to DeSocio and wait there until a stewardess made the repairs. The stitches in his britches, the passenger said, saved him further embarrassment.

AND THEN THERE is Lou Cadorette, an AA ticket salesman at Newark Airport. Five minutes before a flight was to leave for Chicago, an elderly woman shuffled up with her daughter and asked where it was boarding.

The plane was leaving from the departure gate farthest from the counter. Cadorette did some fast mental calculations and decided she would never make it on time without emergency action.

So he grabbed a wheelchair, put the lady in it and dashed for the gate with the daughter running behind. They made it but when the farewells began, Cadorette realized he made a mistake.

It wasn't the old lady who was going to Chicago — it was her daughter.

Gold Rush Days In Arizona Soon

WICKENBURG, Ariz. — Behind the whiskers and frontier garb, there's real Old Western fun — with real gold, too, for ambitious tourists. Indeed, this town's annual Gold Rush Days — Feb. 9-11 — is a colorful and authentic recreation of the pioneer mining days.

That's appropriate, too, for this dude ranch locale some 50 miles northwest of Phoenix, capital of the Valley of the Sun's year-round resort area. It began its existence when prospector Henry Wickenburg discovered the Vulture Gold Mine, one of the richest of the Old West. Its surface workings and "ghost town" can still be seen a short drive southwest of town.

To many of the thousands of visitors who converge on town for Gold Rush Days, the big lure is gold-panning in the Hassayampa River (which tends to flow underground and has a streambed that's more often dry than wet). Gold-bearing gravel is hauled in and spread down the streambed. Then for most of the weekend, tourists make like old prospectors. Some stay there and neglect other events — since they're more intent on recovering the gold (any found can be kept without charge).

'Top Of Europe' Makes A Top Vacation Spot

There's nothing like feeling "on top of the world" — unless it's being there! Scandinavian Airlines' "Top of Europe" tours make it possible to enjoy a family vacation in some of the largest tracts of virgin land in Europe — the 110,000 square miles north of the Polar Circle.

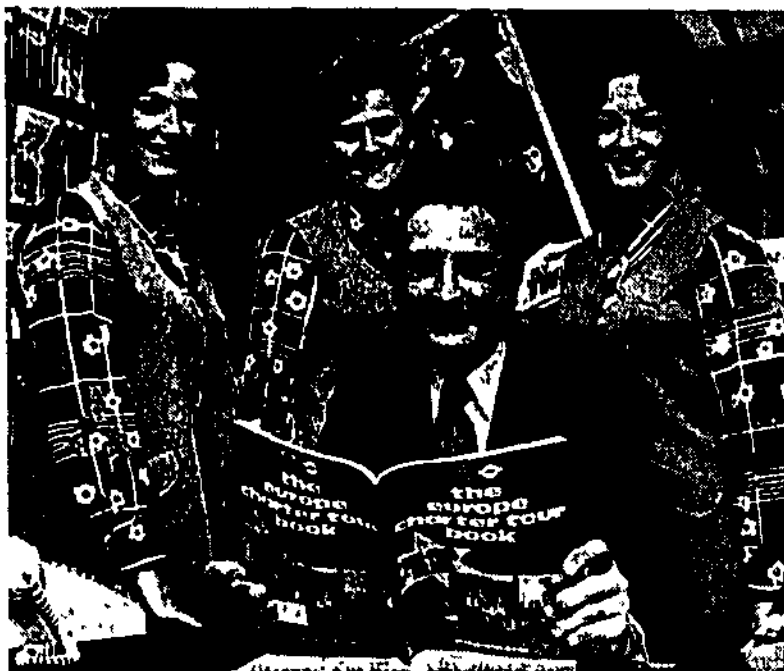

Land of the Midnight Sun in summer, Land of the Northern Lights in winter, the area harbors a host of scenes and sights unique for both seasoned and novice European travelers.

Sarek, Padjelanta and Stora Sjöfallet national parks offer miles of trails for hikers; rugged, untamed terrain is a special challenge for the experienced outdoors man. Snow-capped mountains, thick forests and crystal-clear waters provide hunting and fishing for enthusiasts. "Pioneers" can even pan for gold in the Lemmenjoki area, and the hardy can take an exhilarating Finnish sauna any time of year.

Hosts at the top of the world, often called Lapland, are the native Lapps. Many still wear colorful costumes. The Lapps are renowned craftsmen of reindeer and sealskin boots, slippers and handbags decorated in traditional motifs.

Transportation to Lapland is available via daily SAS flights to Scandinavia. Fly and drive arrangements are available from Copenhagen, Oslo and Stockholm.

Camping facilities are rated excellent. Both comfortable Scandinavian inns and new, modern hotels are available in the area.

BANK-ON-TRAVEL INC. is the newest travel agency to open its doors in Des Plaines, located in the Des Plaines Bank, 1223 Oakton St. Romuald E. Matyszczak, seated, a veteran of 26 years in the travel busi-

GEORGIA STYLE

Callaway Gardens, at Pine Mountain, Ga., has inaugurated a program called Wonderful Winter Weekends, priced at $70 per couple through Feb. 17. The cost for children 12 and over is $20 — for children under 12, it is $10.

Weekends begin with a "get-acquainted" reception Friday night, followed by dinner at the Captain's Galley. Saturday's Cabaret Night includes dinner and dancing, bridge and bingo. All these activities are included in the cost as are breakfast each morning and unlimited golf, tennis, fishing, horseback riding, cycling tours, exhibits, workshops in horticulture, gardening and crafts.

SAY "CHEESE"

First class passengers on Swissair's two daily 747 flights from Switzerland to New York this winter are now being invited to the upper deck lounge for a raclette — a Swiss specialty, originated in the Valais region. Generally prepared in the open air, the raclette (from the French "racier" — "to scrape") is now catching on in the U.S. as a change of pace from fondue. A wheel of Bagnes cheese is cut in half and the flat side set before a crackling fire. As the cheese melts, it is scraped onto a warm plate and served with small boiled potatoes, gherkins and pickled pearl onions.

KENTUCKY HISTORY

Three more Kentucky historical sites have been listed on the National Register of Historic Places. They are the Mordecai Lincoln Home near Springfield, the Centre College administration building at Danville and a newly-discovered ancient Indian encampment at Standford Field in Louisville.

DEEP-ROOTED COMFORT

Vacationers exploring Nassau and Paradise Island discover that the biggest and oldest tree in the Bahamas is the silk cotton. Its floss is still used by local families for stuffing pillows and mattresses. Gigantic silk cotton trees can be viewed just east of Nassau at Fox Hill.

MUSEUM ACQUISITION

The Dallas Museum of Fine Arts has acquired a wool and cotton funerary mantle, part of the most spectacular archaeological find made in Peru — the Paracas Necropolis, excavated by Julio C. Tello in 1929. The embroidered mantle has been dated between 200 and 100 B.C.

Before I joined the

Savings

Plan

save was string.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is an easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Sick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

1. Only those leagues with 3 or more bowlers per team in regulation play are eligible. Qualified substitutes can be used in the tournament, though half of the members of a team must be regular members on that team.
2. Bowlers who have qualified for a prize of $300.00 or more in any event in a tournament within the previous 12 month period must report Actual Score-Position and Amount Won for possible rerating, prior to the time the entry is accepted. If rerated average is not accepted by the bowler, entry fee shall be refunded.
3. Prize fees will be returned 100% — at least 1 prize for each 10 entries.
4. Multiple Participation Permitted. When more than three players bowl together more than once, the teams with which they compete are eligible for only one position standing prize.
5. Winning Teams Averages Must be Certified Before Prizes Can Be Distributed.
6. Each bowler shall report current league average, minimum 21 games, as of eligibility date. All other bowlers who have no such average are ineligible to enter.
7. 3 Games Across 6 Lanes.
8. Entry checks payable to Paddock Tourneys.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Spirit Of Chavez Battle Inspires Suburb Lettuce Boycott

by BARRY SIGALE
If the notorious Francisco "Pancho" Villa were alive today, he would probably bound off his horse and give Rachel Hueman the peace handshake, wrapping his thumb around hers and clapping the rest of her hand with his.

Villa, described in some history books as the Mexican Robin Hood, a daring and vigorous revolutionary in search of freedom for his fellow countrymen, as well as an outlaw, might embrace Mrs. Hueman and whisper, "Viva La Revolucion."

For Mrs. Hueman of Hoffman Estates is among a small band of Northwest suburban residents who have embarked on a grassroots campaign to help the cause of the farm worker. They're doing it by bringing the lettuce boycott to the suburbs.

What Villa and the modern day Latino messiah, Cesar Chavez, was and are after is the better life for Mexican and Mexican-American workers. Though there are whites, blacks, Japanese, Chinese, Hindus, Filipinos and other races represented in the fields across the United States, most farm workers are of Mexican descent.

THROUGHOUT THE economic boycott of head lettuce, local residents are attempting to apply enough pressure on shoppers, store owners and lettuce growers to catapult the common farm laborer out of the poverty pocket and into the better life.

In so doing, they've aligned themselves with Chavez and his United Farm Workers movement.

Just as was done during the successful grape boycott of the late 1960s, UFW members and local volunteers are staging a mini-rebellion. They are urging consumers not to buy any head lettuce picked by anyone other than UFW farm workers. They are trying to persuade store owners and their produce buyers from buying or selling any but UFW head lettuce.

Though the boycott was used to a great deal of success during the union's five year struggle with grape growers and was effective in the northwest suburbs, it is too early to tell if the same results will be wrought from the lettuce boycott out here.

In the Northwest suburbs, about a dozen persons have been actively involved the last few months in spreading the word of the UFW. About 20 to 30 others are also helping. They are involved in a public education program to inform area residents and are appearing at supermarkets, organizing students on campuses and speaking to civic and social organizations.

But so far the movement has been limited to a handful of stores and the activities have been modest.

But why are these basically well-to-do suburbanites coming to the aid of a segment of society far removed from them? THEY ARE following the premise that what's good for them, generally the good life, should be good for every American and each person living in the United States.

So housewives, mainly, supported by their husbands and area young people, are speaking up for what they see as one wrong in society they feel should be righted.

One woman who is devoting much of her energies to the boycott is Mrs. Hueman. Along with the other volunteers, she has visited several grocery stores in past few months, passing out leaflets, talking personally to many customers and attempting to pressure produce buyers into considering the purchase of UFW lettuce. (Only head lettuce is being boycotted, not all lettuce like romaine or endive.)

To sum up, Mrs. Hueman and the other volunteers feel it would take little effort from the average housewife to aid the boycott. Just refrain from buying certain head lettuce. Use the other kinds of lettuce, which are supposedly more nutritious anyway.

"In order for the boycott to be successful," she said, "the movement must have a national basis. I'm concerned with other problems out here, also. But in this way we can change the lives of these people. Why give a damn? It's people like you and me who make a difference. When we think there is injustice involved we should do something about it."

"WHAT WE HAVE is a public education program. We have to make people aware and get more support. People ask us if the price of lettuce will go up, then say they will pay extra if the farm worker is being exploited. But we tell them the price of lettuce really has nothing to do with the farm worker. The price is based on weather, competition and other factors."

The theory is that a successful boycott would move the lettuce workers in California, Arizona and elsewhere away from impoverished housing, poor working conditions and discrimination and upgrade their whole existence.

A more lasting result would be the effect on all types of growers and industry now employing farm workers who would realize the strength of the emerging class of workers and would force them to deal more fairly with them in the future, according to volunteers.

This, it is said, would directly affect the migrant worker employed in the northwest suburbs. Workers here are employed in truck gardens and in nurseries.

For a successful lettuce boycott would buoy the union's confidence and almost certainly result in efforts to improve the lot of workers in the orange and sugar fields and others. The hope of union officials is that the economic sanction is not necessary, that the matter will be settled in negotiations between the growers and the UFW.

ANOTHER VOLUNTEER summed up the role of the average consumer.

"People should be concerned," he said, "because the farm worker is the poorest person in the country today. They are the people who are feeding all of us. They ought to have the rights other people have. They work long days to feed us but don't have enough food to feed themselves. Human dignity would require us to do something about this."

"We're not asking people to give up their jobs or something big like that. We're just asking people to help the farm worker by not buying (certain) lettuce. That's not very difficult to do."

Though the entire lettuce controversy has drawn major charges and countercharges as to what the main points of the struggle are, the overriding issue revolved around the organizing of the farm workers under Chavez or whether the Teamsters' union claim of representing the workers would endure.

That matter was settled a few weeks ago, however, when the California Supreme Court ruled the Teamsters had no jurisdiction in the area of organizing any farm workers and in the process ruled all their contracts with the workers null and void. The farm workers are now free to organize under Chavez or any other union they wish.

The UFW claims that while the grape boycott was coming to a successful conclusion they were quietly establishing a power base from which they would attempt to seek the representation of lettuce pickers.

They were refused recognition and their request for elections to prove they were in demand by the workers was ignored by the growers, they said. Later, the Teamsters union and the growers entered into a contract which obligated the workers to join the Teamsters, even though they never voted on being represented by them.

The contract enabled the growers to safely continue their operation without giving the farm workers any substantial benefits, enriched the coffers of the Teamsters through the dues they received from the workers and left the pickers in the same spot they were in all along, the UFW claimed.

MRS. HUEMAN'S husband, John, a history teacher at Maine South High School in Park Ridge, discussed the importance of the union clash in the contemporary issue and drew an analogy with the bitter union tussles of the early part of the century.

"The growers had a good agreement with the Teamsters so they wanted to keep the UFW down," he said. "It was a jurisdictional dispute between two unions. The Teamsters were benefiting from the membership without giving benefits to the workers. It was a sweetheart contract," Hueman said the UFW contract with grape growers, as an example, provided dozens of benefits not possible under the Teamsters contract.

Hueman then talked of the strife in the U.S. when the union movement in general got started.

"In 1935 the National Labor Relations Act was passed and forced management to bargain collectively with unions. But a lot of the major corporations refused to go along. There was violence on both sides, even killings, because they wouldn't recognize unions as legal bargaining agents."

"Farmers never had to deal with unions (farm unions were excluded from the act). But you can compare the farm workers today with the workers in the early 1900s. There are a lot of women working, there's a lot of child labor, poor living conditions, slums. Management is exploiting the farm worker and a union is needed to balance things."

"People can relate to this. Unions have always said that if it wasn't for them we wouldn't be where we are today as a country. The farm worker is now struggling. Farm workers want justice. They want a healthy, wholesome environment, where their kids can go to school and get a good education and where they can get good medical care. They want a life like every American is having."

The Pro Vs. A Rookie

Lettuce Boycott Debated

by BARRY SIGALE
It was obvious from the outset that this was not to be a normal debate. The setting suggested that it would be. The two speakers made certain it was not.

The topic was the nationwide lettuce boycott and its effects on the farm worker and the American public.

The place was the Church of the Incarnation in Arlington Heights, a neutral ground the sponsors of the debate, the suburban division of the Southern Christian Leadership Council, chose to let opposing ideas be aired out.

The speakers were men with contrasting personalities and views and obviously different "facts," which resulted in charges and countercharges that there was a liar in their midst. Only neither man would confess it was one of them.

ON ONE SIDE was Jack Angell, communications director for the American Farm Bureau Federation. Jack Angell. Elderly. Balding. Grey suit. Wedding ring. Statistical. Oratorical. Smooth. Old pro.

He is sort of the farm owner's trouble-shooter and truth squad rolled into one. He goes where the action is. California, Arizona — where most of the lettuce in question is grown. New York City, Boston, Chicago — the market places where economic pressure is being applied.

Angell is out to "stiffen their spines a little bit," referring to the UFW supporters. "I look at things with a searching eye," he said. He has more information stored in his head than all the computers now at work picking out the best college football players in the land. He rattles off his facts like he is in a Toastmasters Club super bowl for speakers.

On the other side was Cobb Robbins, an organizer for the United Farm Workers. Cobb (pronounced Cove) Robbins. Young. Long hair. Beard. Sport coat. Individual. Emotional. Activist. Naive. Inexperienced.

HE IS SUBURBAN coordinator and organizer of the boycott. He's viewed the plight of the average farm worker first hand. He is out to eradicate the injustices heaped on another of America's invisible have-nots.

Robbins is leading an educational blitz of the north shore and Northwest suburbs to spread the word of Cesar Chavez. It has become increasingly fashionable to follow Chavez but Robbins has stuck to the Chicano leader's ideals rather than his individual mystique.

Angell and Robbins squared off on the pulpit, sitting at a long table. They faced the 20 persons in the audience, almost all of them pro UFW as well as pro peace, pro civil rights, indeed, pro most causes. And this night there wasn't any doubt who they were pulling for.

But even the audience may have had trouble picking out the truth from the two speakers, such was the confusion from the platform as the two men hurled charges of lying and twisting the facts and even twisting the truths.

"I don't envy Cobb tonight," said Angell. "He doesn't represent the farm workers but Chavez does. But the Chavez movement hurts the hell out of the farm workers."

"I DON'T ENVY Cobb who says to himself, 'today is the day I'm going to keep the secondary boycott going on.' This is even though a secondary boycott is illegal and intolerable."

"I don't envy Cobb whose actions are interrupting the flow of food at a time when people are hungry and prices are going up as a result."

"I don't envy Mr. Robbins as hard pressed as he may be to fill the gaps in his false information. If what he says is true then you can run me out of town on a rail. But first I suggest you check where he gets some of his information."

Robbins questioned the very existence of the farm bureau in the UFW-farm owners struggle over representation of farm workers, adding that the bureau is an arm of large corporations who are in the farming business and writing it off as a tax loss.

"The farm bureau has lobbied against everything that's best for the common man," Robbins said. "They would lead you to believe they have more interest in the farm workers than the UFW. This is an insult to the intelligence of all of us. A lot of what Mr. Angell says is a pack of lies."

The two sparred during a question-and-answer period. Angell continually referred to documented facts and figures. "I'm not in the business to get loose estimates," he said. He cited what he called myths perpetrated by the union.

"WE'VE HEARD A myth that most of these people are impoverished," he said. "It is also a myth that most of the farm workers are migrants. Only about one in 10 are migrants. It is a myth that farm workers can't have a union now. They've had the teamsters for over 40 years. It's a myth that Cesar Chavez is non-violent. There have been damage at grocery stores and threats to customers and employees."

In all his statements, Angell did not make any references to the deplorable conditions Robbins talked about. What Robbins had to say overshadowed the cold facts.

"I was brought up to have respect for people," Robbins said in a shy, muffled voice, hesitating to grasp for the right words, all the time stroking his beard with his pen. "I've come to realize that farm workers are really suffering. They face extreme poverty."

Robbins described the poor living and working conditions in existence and told of a town in Florida — Bowling Green — that had a population of 2,000 but was expected to double its size rapidly.

"You'd have to see it to believe it," he said. "The farm workers told me they would have to live in condemned buildings because that's all the room there for the growing population. As long as they did the crops they could live there."

Angell summed up his attitude that the boycott was unnecessary by saying, "At this hour they are negotiating in California. There is nothing we can do here to change it."

Robbins' reply was, "All we want to do is let the people make a choice. All we're doing is telling the people what's going on. They can make their own choices."

VIVA LA REVOLUCION

"VIVA LA REVOLUCION!" was the cry of Francisco "Pancho" Villa as he stormed Mexico in search of freedom for the common man. Today, residents of the Northwest suburbs are coming to the aid of farm workers — mostly Mexican-Americans — in the U.S. by spearheading the boycott of head lettuce. This poster is one of many being sold to support the cause of the United Farm Workers (UFW) who are attempting to represent farm workers.

Supreme Court Overturns 2 State Abortion Laws

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has struck down as unconstitutional, anti-abortion laws in two states in a 7-2 ruling which will require a drastic overhaul of similar statutes in many other states.

The majority opinion by Justice Harry A. Blackmun — in cases specifically involving laws in Georgia and Texas — did not totally prohibit state laws in the abortion field.

But it held they must not interfere with early pregnancy abortions which a doctor feels are needed to safeguard a prospective mother's health.

Blackmun said that up to about the first three months of pregnancy, the medical judgment of the woman's doctor on whether an abortion is needed must prevail.

During the second three months, he held, the state may regulate abortion procedures to promote the interest of the mother's health.

AFTER THE STAGE of "viability" is reached, Blackmun said, a state can even prohibit abortions except when the life or health of the woman is jeopardized.

Supreme Court Agrees To Review Parochial Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has agreed to examine a Pennsylvania law under which parents with children in nonpublic schools receive tuition reimbursement.

A special three-judge federal panel in Philadelphia found the law unconstitutional last April 6. The state appealed. The Supreme Court will hear the case later this term and decide it by written opinion.

The statute, signed by Gov. Milton Shapp last year replaces one struck down by the Court in June of 1971. The earlier law provided for use of public funds to defray the cost of textbooks and to pay teachers' salaries.

He noted that most medical textbooks define viability as when a fetus begins to move, kick or show other major signs of activity. Blackmun said that according to authorities, this usually is placed at 28 weeks (about seven months) but could occur at 24 weeks (about six months).

The Texas statute was more restrictive than that of Georgia. It made it a crime for a doctor to perform an abortion unless the woman's life was at stake.

Twenty-nine other states have such laws on their books. They are:

Arizona, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Fifteen states where abortion is permitted on limited additional grounds in addition to Georgia are Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Virginia.

THE COURT TOOK these other major actions before taking a two-week recess:

—Refused to stay a lower court decision which barred parents of children in Ohio nonpublic schools from receiving income tax credits.

—Voted to stay a lower court ruling which would have allowed antiwar priests, Philip and Daniel Berrigan, to travel to North Vietnam. Both are on parole from federal convictions stemming from their protest activities.

—Agreed to decide whether U.S. district courts can hold administrative hearings while they consider requests for freedom of government records under the Freedom of Information law.

—Blocked for the time being a state court ruling which deprived all Elk lodges in Maine of their liquor licenses on grounds of racial discrimination.

The states which follow the Texas law in barring any abortion except to save the life of a mother seem clearly unconstitutional under Blackmun's ruling.

The Georgia finding seemed less clear cut in its application to other states.

Park Board Issues $125,000 In Tax Warrants

Although the financial situation of the Wheeling Park District is improving, the park board has once again been forced to issue tax anticipation warrants to cover operating expenses until expected tax money arrives in May.

The park board voted last week to issue $125,000 in tax anticipation warrants, even though only $75,000 is needed to cover the four months' operating expenses. The extra $50,000 will be deposited in the bank to draw interest.

Park Atty. Roger Bjorvik said the interest earned by the additional borrowed funds would almost cover the cost of interest for the warrants. He said the park district would save about $500 by borrowing the larger amount and investing it as compared to the cost of issuing only $75,000 in warrants.

PARK BOARD Pres. Lorraine Lark cast the only vote against the project. She said the park district should only borrow the money it needed to operate, instead of the full $125,000. In the past, Mrs. Lark has objected to similar plans, saying that the public will think the park district is in worse financial shape than it actually is.

"I've been saying it for six years, and I'll save myself the trouble of saying it again," she said. "I don't buy it."

The new tax anticipation warrants bring the park district to a total of $150,000 borrowed against the tax money that will be received in May. The park board issued $25,000 in tax anticipation warrants in August to meet operating expenses.

Park board member Bob Ross said this year's tax anticipation warrants show that the park district's financial situation is improving. He said the district needs to borrow less money for a shorter period of time this year than it has in the past.

Park Supt. Dave Phillips agreed that park finances are improving. "The park district is in better shape financially than we were, let's say, a year ago," he said.

Phillips said the park district is now working to maintain a realistic approach towards the tax anticipation warrants. "We're being helped to understand that you can't get rid of these in one year," he said. He said the park district must gradually reduce the size of the warrants each year so that they can finally be eliminated.

ACCORDING TO Phillips, the park district cannot now set a time table for ending the use of tax anticipation warrants.

"It all depends on increased assessed valuation and on the very streamlined and efficient operation in our park district," he said.

Dave Phillips—1-Year Success Story

by LYNN ASINOF

Tomorrow will mark Park Supt. Dave Phillips' first full year of working with the Wheeling Park District. In light of his recent arrival in the village, Phillips was understandably surprised to be named this year's recipient of the Wheeling Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award.

But Phillips interpreted the honor as approval for recent changes in the park district, instead of a personal honor.

"It's an indication that the changes we have been making have reached a favorable community," he said. "In other words, they're ready for the changes we're making."

Phillips, 24, sees himself as a young professional who is working with a young professional staff in a rapidly developing park district.

"It's exciting mainly because of the dynamic development that will be taking place here," he said.

ACCORDING TO Phillips, Wheeling is undergoing a change in its attitude towards its park district. "The people are becoming more aware that they have a park district," he said. "And we are involving more people than we have in the past."

The young superintendent said he was glad to come to Wheeling after the nitty-gritty of getting the park district on its feet was over.

"It's easier to continue and build rather than start from scratch," Phillips said.

He added that the district's present growth is giving him the opportunity to experiment with programs and approaches to recreation that he would not be able to do in a more established park district.

Phillips said this past year has been particularly exciting because each new facet of administering a park district has been a new experience for him.

"It's a learning experience," he said. "It's exciting to go through something and have it succeed the first time you do it."

Phillips first came to Wheeling as director of recreation after working in the Arlington Heights Park District for one year. Early this fall he was promoted to park superintendent after Ferd Arndt retired for health reasons.

Since he has been in Wheeling, Phillips has seen his first park referendum passed, restructured many park programs and worked to improve the park district's financial situation.

BUT HIS activities have not been restricted to the parks. Although he is a resident of Arlington Heights, Phillips has become active in several village civic organizations and serves on the Wheeling Youth Commission.

Phillips said Wheeling activities help him to know the needs of the community he is serving.

"It's a job to meet more people and do a better job," he said.

According to him, his biggest surprise in coming to Wheeling was the spirit of cooperation and the continual support of the community.

"Even with our staff, with young people involved, we seem to have a let's-do-it attitude," he said.

Phillips rarely talks about his personal life. He seems to prefer steering conversation to his work with the park district, perhaps because so much of his time is spent there.

He estimated he spends about 50 or 60 hours at the park district each week, but said he doesn't miss having a lot of spare time. "This is recreation for me also," he said of his work.

Jaycee Award Brings Pride -- And Sorrow -- To Dobler

by STEVE FORSYTH

Frank Dobler's selection Sunday as the Wheeling Jaycees Outstanding Young Educator for 1973 resulted in mixed emotions for him personally.

The choral director at Wheeling High School said, "It's a fantastic award, and it gives me feelings of great pride and honor — but it also brought a feeling of sorrow."

His sorrow is because his father, a St. Louis policeman for 23 years, was shot and killed on a street corner in that city in December. Dobler knows his father would have been proud to hear of the award for his son.

"He wanted me to be a teacher," Dobler said. "He was the leading influence in my life. He encouraged me to go to college and continue my education. Because of him I really did finish, and I went on through and got my master's degree and became a teacher. He was a great Christian — he taught by example."

Dobler learned of his father's death only an hour before the height of the choral music season last December at Wheeling High School — the madrigal dinners. He missed both performances as he returned to his hometown immediately.

HE DID GET to see the performance later, however, when the Madrigal singers were invited to do the show at the Drake Hotel for the National Society of Sales Training Executives. The group was so impressed with the Madrigal performance, Dobler said, that the members agreed to attempt to seek out a Madrigal group from now on for their annual December meetings.

Dobler considered an opening at Dist. 214 for a music teaching job as a great opportunity, and left a newly built home in the St. Louis area, to fly to the Chicago suburbs for an interview five years ago.

With five years of teaching experience, he learned of the opening to teach high school music at what he considered a well-known school district, and was further impressed at the opportunity at Wheeling High School. "Wheeling has a good individual reputation, particularly in the field of music," he said.

His responsibilities now, in addition to the Madrigals, are the freshman girls glee club, freshman boys glee club and the concert choir. He is quick to admit, however, "We don't just teach music."

He explained that students often ap-

Former President Johnson Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lyndon B. Johnson, the 36th President of the United States, is dead.

Johnson, thrust into the presidency by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the man who won the White House with one of the greatest landslide victories in American politics, died of an apparent heart attack Monday.

A spokesman said Johnson was stricken at his ranch in Central Texas and was flown to Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. George McGrawhan.

JOHNSON'S WIDOW, Lady Bird, was notified at her offices in Austin and she immediately flew to San Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending.

Johnson, 64, left Washington in January, 1969 to assume the life of gentleman rancher in the hills of Central Texas where he was raised.

The man who hitchhiked to college, ran for his first elective office 35 years ago and rose to lead a nation and the world had suffered three previous heart attacks.

He suffered his first 17 years ago when he was a U.S. senator, and two years ago was hospitalized for two weeks with angina pectoris — a blockage of blood flow to the heart. He suffered a third attack in Charlottesville, Va., April 7, 1972, while visiting his daughter Lynda and her husband Charles Robb.

AFTER SPENDING less than five days at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville he was brought back to Texas and the Brooke Hospital.

Johnson, robust at 6-3 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success.

He gave it in two words: "Hard work." But he was finally stricken during a life of ease away from pressure politics.

"These are the days and nights I choose to have," he told friends on the first anniversary of his retirement from public office. "This is something I've never been able to do before. I do just what I want to do..."

Johnson, then vice president, became the 36th president when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

A YEAR LATER the former Senate majority leader and vice president won the presidency in his own right. He received 61 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson chose not to run for a second full term and was succeeded by President Richard M. Nixon.

Students Need Example

Quit Smokes, Teachers Told

Teachers should quit smoking and give up their smoking lounges as an example for students, a doctor told more than 200 teachers at a health education workshop in Park Ridge yesterday.

"You can save more lives than we can," Dr. Harold Levine, physician at Illinois Memorial Hospital in Illinois, told the educators at Maine South High School in Park Ridge.

"We deal with the burnt-out ashes of cigarette smokers," he said, but teachers can stop smoking among students before it becomes a health problem. Teachers should work together to quit smoking and give up their private smoking facilities if they want to make health education programs effective and turn down student demands for their own smoking facilities, Dr. Levine said.

Dr. Levine, chief of pulmonary disease at Illinois, and professor in the medical school of Loyola University, was one of the six guest speakers who talked to health education teachers on smoking, drug abuse, and alcoholism during the day-long workshop.

HIGH SCHOOL health education teachers from throughout the Chicago area attended the workshop sponsored by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and the Chicago Lung Association.

In welcoming teachers to the workshop, Cook County Superintendent of Schools Richard J. Martwick, reaffirmed his statement against student smoking facilities in local high schools. He said schools should do whatever they can to discourage student smoking.

The board of education at Dist. 207 held a public hearing on the smoking issue last week. Student smoking is prohibited at all four Dist. 207 high schools but students smoke illegally in the school washrooms which are difficult for teachers and administrators to supervise. Last summer students asked the board to allow student smoking in a confined area on the school grounds because student smoking in the washrooms was becoming a sanitation problem.

Dr. Levine said he is opposed to smoking for anyone, students and teachers alike, and reminded teachers that they do serve as an adult example for many of their students. Dr. Levine also cautioned school administrators against equating smoking with immorality. "I wish you would look at this as a health and education problem without religious or moral overtones," he said.

IN CONTRAST to many other countries, the life expectancy of the population is not rising in the United States, but has leveled off in recent years, said Dr. Levine. The cause of this leveling off is lung cancer which is caused by smoking, he said.

"Smoking doubles your chance of getting a heart attack," said Dr. Levine, and the student who smokes is twice as likely to have a heart attack by middle age as a student who doesn't smoke. While other forms of cancer are causing fewer deaths due to earlier detection, lung cancer deaths are still increasing and are reaching epidemic proportions, he said. More Americans will die of lung cancer in 1973 than died in Indochina since 1963, said Dr. Levine.

Tom Janeway, director of the Illinois Department of Health Education, told teachers that lung cancer is not a medical failure, but an educational failure. The only way known to curb lung cancer is to stop smoking, he said, and teaching the health hazards of cigarette smoking should be the job of the health education teacher.

There is a critical need for more workshops and training programs for health education teachers said Janeway. He praised the Dist. 207 health education curriculum written by Dist. 207 faculty members last summer. The curriculum is now being distributed by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction and was given to teachers who attended yesterday's workshop. The next health education workshop will include lectures on sex education, venereal disease, pollution, acupuncture, and will be held at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge, on Friday, March 2.

Jaycee Award Brings Pride -- And Sorrow -- To Dobler

proach the music teachers to talk about problems. "We end up listening a lot, but often it's best not to try to give them an answer."

DOBLER FEELS that music students may be more inclined to talk to their teachers because of the emotional quality of music and music training. "They feel they can talk to music directors," he said.

A music director is also required to work with the students in the evenings, after school, thus building a more personal relationship, Dobler said.

The 32-year-old Dobler also serves as resource teacher for his department, which means he tries to work as liaison with administration and teachers in his department.

He doesn't foresee his career as extending to college or university teaching. "I see the high school group as the age I want to stay with and work with," he said.

Locally, he is on the board of the Community Concert Association and serves on the advisory board of the Arlington First Methodist Church. He and his wife, Marilyn, reside at 911 Babcock Dr., Palatine, with their three-year-old son, Michael.

The musical background of Dobler began with piano lessons in the fourth grade, but he says he never considered it as a career until he enrolled at the University of Missouri after two years of junior college. "One day I walked past the music department and decided that was what I wanted to make my life."

DOBLER'S FIRST directing experience came when his local church choir director left. Just out of high school, Dobler was asked if he would fill in. He was registered in college in pre-law, aiming for some type of juvenile work, but took the part-time director's responsibilities.

"I didn't know how to move my arms or the time patterns," he says, but the outgoing director worked with him for a while and taught him 4/4 time. "Luckily, most of the hymns were in 4/4 time!"

High schools have opened up a lot since the days when Dobler was a student, and he approves of most of the changes. "Dropping the dress code and arbitrary hair length are good," he said. "But I still like to see girls at least once in a while wear dresses and skirts — and most of them do. For their own peace, they shouldn't wear slacks for four straight years."

On smoking, he says, "I hope they would just not smoke — but since they do, there should be a place provided."

Dobler also approves of the new self-scheduling plan Wheeling High School will have next year, whereby students will have some freedom in selecting classes and teachers. It is more like college, and Dobler said changes such as this "give kids a better chance of adjusting from high school to college."

POWER TO THE PEOPLE and less governmental control Dowd, leader of the Elk Grove Village chapter, speaking is what the John Birch Society is all about, says Phil in the chapter's office at his home.

Dowd, Brooks Sometimes Agree

by CAROL L. RHYNE

"Power to the people" may not remind you of the John Birch Society, but Phil Dowd, leader of the Elk Grove Village chapter, says the popular cry is very similar to the society's objectives.

"I have spent a lot of time talking to people who are active in civil rights, like Clyde Brooks (of Elk Grove Village), and the more I talk with Clyde, the more similarity I see," he said. "The only thing we disagree on is who the bad guy is."

Dowd said that while corruption it was the "insiders" that were oppressing the country and only a few were actually communists. "Most insiders are the tax-free foundations who have stated their objectives to change our economy toward more socialism."

Dowd and his wife, Marie, started the Elk Grove Village John Birch chapter in December 1968, and four years later the chapter has grown to some 20 members as well as fostered many other chapters in the Northwest suburbs. Dowd said as many as 40 persons have belonged to the group at one time, but some left to start other chapters.

The chapter has kept a low profile in the village, and Dowd said the organization was not seeking a lot of publicity.

"THE PURPOSE OF the John Birch Society is not to seek publicity but to educate the public on the various machinations of the government which are trying to change our constitution from a republic to a socialist dictatorship," he said.

Instead Dowd said the chapter gets a listing of new residents and sends the welcome letters and telephones to invite them to the Friday night films and discussions of the chapter.

Dowd said the chapter also avoids involvement in local village elections, mainly because of time limitations. "We take no active role in politics at all," he said. "We feel if we educate the electorate, the change in the political scene will result."

However, Dowd said, refraining from running candidates in village and school board elections did not mean the members did not have opinions on local issues. "In general, we oppose programs that lead to big government because they take power away from the people."

DOWD SAID this meant he did not like the idea of a unit school district, which currently is under study by Elk Grove School Dist. 59. At this time, elementary and high school districts are separate, and a unit district would consolidate both districts under one administration. Dowd said this would further remove control for education away from the people.

Dowd said although people of all ages belonged to the local chapter and the society as a whole was becoming more youth-oriented, there was no major campaign to enlist youth in the local chapter. "The society wants young people, but it also needs elderly and middle-aged people of every race, creed and color if it is to save the country."

The main accomplishments in the four-year history of the village chapter are the "general education of people in the Elk Grove Village area" and the "recruiting of more people in the movement," according to Dowd.

To reach these goals, Dowd said his group distributes films to schools and clubs, sells books on key political figures as part of the society's "operation book sales" and sponsors political speakers.

Village To Ponder Family Crisis Police Methods

by JILL BETTNER

Family disturbances daily account for a large number of entries in the Buffalo Grove police log. The incidents often present real problems for officers because of limited time and training, according to Chief of Police Harry Walsh.

The village board is scheduled to consider on Feb. 13 a program to teach local policemen how to cope with all types of family crises and provide counseling to prevent their recurrence. The crises often lead to juvenile problems, police say.

Titled Project Effective, the program has been developed by Walsh and Tom Jauch, executive director of the Northwest Human Resources Center in Rolling Meadows.

"IT ISN'T THAT we aren't satisfied with the programs for youth that we have," said Walsh. "It's just that we think we can do more."

Because the problems of parents affect their children, part of the goal of Project Effective is to reach troubled youngsters before they turn into juvenile delinquents.

"There's a definite relationship between family problems and delinquency," said juvenile officer Chuck Weldner. "For example, take the case of a husband and wife who fight constantly, but stay together for the sake of the children. To get relief from the situation, their children are bound to go out and associate with other people — some desirable, some undesirable."

Weldner added that often, parents are too wrapped up in their own problems to give their children the guidance they need or to recognize signs of trouble.

Weldner sometimes refers husbands and wives to marriage counselors or suggests family counseling that is offered by the Salvation Army, but he admits family help is limited.

Chief Walsh agreed, saying that about all police can do in the case of a family dispute is to restore the peace.

"BASICALLY, we can only give remedial help," Walsh said. "But it's like putting a band-aid on cancer — we need professionals who can show us how to get at the cause of the problem and prevent it from happening again."

If the village trustees endorse the program, Walsh will apply for a grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission to hire a psychologist and social worker who will become part of the police force for two years. They will train local officers to take over after they leave.

According to a description of Project Effective, the purpose of the program is to research and deal with juvenile problems from all angles.

"Our main goal in this program is to establish a model program of delinquency prevention and control which can be established at the community level," said Jauch in the report. "Combining the skills of mental health, law enforcement and criminal justice systems to bring about a truly effective program of prevention, treatment and rehabilitation for the youth of the Buffalo Grove community." Jauch added that the proposed program may serve as a pilot for other similar programs throughout the state.

THE PROJECT CALLS for the establishment of a "youth bureau team" to carry out the goals of the program.

According to Jauch's report, the main functions of the team, to consist of a juvenile officer, mental health workers, police supervisor and consulting service would be to provide:

—Preventative training for family and youth through Parent Teacher Associations (PTAs), schools, family and church groups, park districts and other community organizations.

—A station adjustment program for early offenders, including weekly group and individual counseling for youngsters.

—Crisis intervention to handle emergency hospitalizations for persons who suffer from emotional illness. Part of this function would be training local officers to handle other types of emergency situations besides family disputes, including drug overdoses and depressed and suicidal people.

—A court referral program that would be used only if local counseling proved ineffective. Part of this program would include a follow-up to prevent a juvenile from committing further crimes.

—A street worker program that calls for the team to spend approximately one-third of its time in places where young people congregate, "in an attempt to establish a relationship and a dialogue with the many segmented youth cultures to educate and prevent delinquency and police involvement."

—A recreation program for the hard to reach youth of the community using community facilities under the direction and supervision of the police youth bureau.

Wheeling Choral Director Honored

Award Brings Pride—And Sorrow

by STEVE FORSYTH

Frank Dobler's selection Sunday as the Wheeling Jaycees Outstanding Young Educator for 1973 resulted in mixed emotions for him personally.

The choral director at Wheeling High School said, "It's a fantastic award, and it gives me feelings of great pride and honor — but it also brought a feeling of sorrow."

His sorrow is because his father, a St.

Louis policeman for 28 years, was shot and killed on a street corner in that city in December. Dobler knows his father would have been proud to hear of the award for his son.

"He wanted me to be a teacher," Dobler said, "he was the leading influence in my life. He encouraged me to go to college and continue my education. Because of him I really did finish, and I went on through and got my master's degree and became a teacher. He was a great Christian — he taught by example."

Dobler learned of his father's death only an hour before the height of the choral music season last December at Wheeling High School — the madrigal dinners. He missed both performances as he returned to his hometown immediately.

HE DID GET to see the performance later, however, when the Madrigal singers were invited to do the show at the Drake Hotel for the National Society of Sales Training Executives. The group was so impressed with the Madrigal performance, Dobler said, that the members agreed to attempt to seek out a Madrigal group from now on for their annual December meetings.

Dobler considered an opening at Dist. 214 for a music teaching job at the opportunity, and left a newly built home in the St. Louis area, to fly to the Chicago suburbs for an interview five years ago.

With five years of teaching experience, he learned of the opening to teach high school music at what he considered a well-known school district, and was further impressed at the opportunity at Wheeling High School. "Wheeling has a good individual reputation, particularly in the field of music," he said.

His responsibilities now, in addition to the Madrigals, are the freshman girls glee club, freshman boys glee club and the concert choir. He is quick to admit, however, "We don't just teach music."

He explained that students often ap-

'Mark Twain' To Visit Local School

Clad in a baggy gray suit and smoking a cigar, famous American author Mark Twain will visit Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling next Tuesday as a guest of the PTA.

Twain is really Mike Baker, a speech and drama teacher at Paddock School in Palatine. He has been portraying Mark Twain for about 4½ years. As a student at Indiana State University, Baker said he was supposed to recite some Shakespeare, but his instructor suggested he do Mark Twain, and he has been doing it since.

Baker said it was difficult establishing Twain's character. "I spent two straight days in preparation, memorizing, determining how he should move and talk. I normally don't smoke, but I smoked for 48 hours so my voice would be hoarse and I would sound like a 70-year-old man," he said.

It takes Baker almost two hours to get on his make-up, bushy eyebrows, wig and suit. He memorizes all the material he presents, and changes it depending on the audience. "Respect your superiors ... if you have any. Obey your parents ... if they're around," says the gravely-voiced humorist.

"An Evening with Mark Twain" will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the school. The public is invited.

Former President Johnson Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th President of the United States, is dead.

Johnson, thrust into the presidency by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the man who won the White House with one of the greatest landslide in American politics, died of an apparent heart attack Monday.

A spokesman said Johnson was stricken at his ranch in Central Texas and was flown to Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. George McGranahan.

JOHNSON'S WIDOW, Lady Bird, was notified at her offices in Austin and she immediately flew to San Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending. Johnson, 64, left Washington in January, 1969 to assume the life of gentleman rancher in the hills of Central Texas where he was raised.

The man who hitchhiked to college, ran for his first elective office 35 years ago and rose to lead a nation and the world had suffered three previous heart attacks.

He suffered his first 17 years ago when he was a U.S. senator, and two years ago was hospitalized for two weeks with angina pectoris — a blockage of blood flow to the heart. He suffered a third attack in Charlottesville, Va., April 7, 1972, while visiting his daughter Lynda and her husband Charles Robb.

AFTER SPENDING less than five days at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville he was brought back to Texas and the Brooke Hospital.

Johnson, robust at 6-3 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success.

He gave it in two words: "Hard work." But he was finally stricken during a life of ease away from pressure politics.

"These are the days and nights I choose to have," he told friends on the first anniversary of his retirement from public office. "This is something I've never been able to do before. I do just what I want to do."

Johnson, then vice president, became the 36th president when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

A YEAR LATER the former Senate majority leader and vice president won the presidency in his own right. He received 61 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson chose not to run for a second full term and was succeeded by President Richard M. Nixon.

Students Need Example

Quit Smokes, Teachers Told

Teachers should quit smoking and give up their smoking lounges as an example for students, a doctor told more than 200 teachers at a health education workshop in Park Ridge yesterday.

"You can save more lives than we can," Dr. Harold Levine, physician at Illinois Memorial Hospital in Illinois, told the educators at Maine South High School in Park Ridge.

"We deal with the burnt-out ashes of cigarette smokers," he said, but teachers can stop smoking among students before it becomes a health problem. Teachers should work together to quit smoking and give up their private smoking facilities if they want to make health education programs effective and turn down student demands for their own smoking facilities, Dr. Levine said.

Dr. Levine, chief of pulmonary disease at Illinois, and professor in the medical school of Loyola University, was one of the six guest speakers who talked to health education teachers on smoking, drug abuse, and alcoholism during the day-long workshop.

HIGH SCHOOL health education teachers from throughout the Chicago area attended the workshop sponsored by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and the Chicago Lung Association.

In welcoming teachers to the workshop, Cook County Superintendent of Schools Richard J. Martwick, reaffirmed his statement against student smoking facilities in local high schools. He said schools should do whatever they can to discourage student smoking.

The board of education at Dist. 207 held a public hearing on the smoking issue last week. Student smoking is prohibited at all four Dist. 207 high schools but students smoke illegally in the school washrooms which are difficult for teachers and administrators to supervise. Last summer students asked the board to allow student smoking in a confined area on the school grounds because student smoking in the washrooms was becoming a sanitation problem.

Dr. Levine said he is opposed to smoking for anyone, students and teachers alike, and reminded teachers that they do serve as an adult example for many of their students. Dr. Levine also cautioned school administrators against equating smoking with immorality. "I wish you would look at this as a health and education problem without religious or moral overtones," he said.

IN CONTRAST to many other countries, the life expectancy of the population is not rising in the United States, but has leveled off in recent years, said Dr. Levine. The cause of this leveling off is lung cancer which is caused by smoking, he said.

"Smoking doubles your chance of getting a heart attack," said Dr. Levine, and the student who smokes is twice as likely to have a heart attack by middle age as a student who doesn't smoke. While other forms of cancer are causing fewer deaths due to earlier detection, lung cancer deaths are still increasing and are reaching epidemic proportions, he said. More Americans will die of lung cancer in 1973 than died in Indochina since 1962, said Dr. Levine.

Tom Janeway, director of the Illinois Department of Health Education, told teachers that lung cancer is not a medical failure, but an educational failure. The only way known to curb lung cancer is to stop smoking, he said, and teaching the health hazards of cigarette smoking should be the job of the health education teacher.

There is a critical need for more workshops and training programs for health education teachers said Janeway. He praised the Dist. 207 health education curriculum written by Dist. 207 faculty members last summer. The curriculum is now being distributed by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction and was given to teachers who attended yesterday's workshop. The next health education workshop will include lectures on sex education, venereal disease, pollution, acupuncture, and will be held at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge, on Friday, March 2.

Dowd, Brooks Sometimes Agree

by CAROL L. RHYNE

"Power to the people" may not remind you of the John Birch Society, but Phil Dowd, leader of the Elk Grove Village chapter, says the popular cry is very similar to the society's objectives.

"I have spent a lot of time talking to people who are active in civil rights, like Clyde Brooks (of Elk Grove Village), and the more I talk with Clyde, the more similarly I see," he said. "The only thing we disagree on is who the bad guy is."

Dowd said in his opinion it was the "insiders" that were corrupting the country and only a few were actually communists. "Most insiders are the tax-free foundations who have stated their objectives to change our economy toward more socialism."

Dowd and his wife, Marie, started the Elk Grove Village John Birch chapter in December 1968, and four years later the chapter has grown to some 20 members as well as fostered many other chapters in the Northwest suburbs. Dowd said as many as 40 persons have belonged to the group at one time, but some left to start other chapters.

The chapter has kept a low profile in the village, and Dowd said the organization was not seeking a lot of publicity.

"THE PURPOSE OF the John Birch Society is not to seek publicity but to educate the public on the various machinations of the government which are trying to change our constitution from a republic to a socialist dictatorship," he said.

Instead Dowd said the chapter gets a

Morton Grove Woman Injured In Accident

A Morton Grove woman was injured in a two-car accident at the intersection of Dundee and Wolf roads early Friday.

Stella Wojciechowski was taken to Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, after her car collided with an auto driven by Robert Lake, 784 Patton Dr., Buffalo Grove.

Lake was making a left turn from the eastbound lane of Dundee Road and was charged with failure to yield while turning left. The Morton Grove woman was charged with having unsafe headlights on her car.

Auto Trunk Theft

Property valued at about $500 was stolen from the trunk of a car parked in the Sandpiper Walk condominiums parking lot Thursday night.

Ken Donbeck who lives in the complex, told police that various items including a vacuum cleaner, binoculars and several watches were taken from the trunk of his auto.

Police found no damage to either the trunk or the trunk lock. They also found several valuables in the car that were not taken by the thief.

listing of new residents and sends the welcome letters and telephones to invite them to the Friday night films and discussions of the chapter.

Dowd said the chapter also avoids involvement in local village elections, mainly because of time limitations. "We take no active role in politics at all," he said. "We feel if we educate the electorate, the change in the political scene will result."

However, Dowd said, refraining from running candidates in village and school board elections did not mean the members did not have opinions on local issues. "In general, we oppose programs that lead to big government because they take power away from the people."

DOWD SAID this meant he did not like the idea of a unit school district, which currently is under study by Elk Grove School Dist. 59. At this time, elementary and high school districts are separate, and a unit district would consolidate both districts under one administration. Dowd said this would further remove control for education away from the people.

Dowd said although people of all ages belonged to the local chapter and the society as a whole was becoming more youth-oriented, there was no major campaign to enlist youth in the local chapter. "The society wants young people, but it also needs elderly and middle-aged people of every race, creed and color if it is to save the country."

The main accomplishments in the four-year history of the village chapter are the "general education of people in the Elk Grove Village area" and the "recruiting of more people in the movement," according to Dowd.

To reach these goals, Dowd said his group distributes films to schools and clubs, sells books on key political figures as part of the society's "operation book sales" and sponsors political speakers.

Local Home Robbed

A gray fishing tackle box containing money was taken from the home of Kurt Rosenberg, 365 Marion Ct., Wheeling, Friday.

Police said entry to the house was apparently made by breaking a glass panel in the rear door of the building. The case is under investigation, police said.

Final Plan Will Go To Congress

Monday Is Review Deadline For Salt Creek Agreement

Monday is the deadline for state and federal agencies to complete the necessary reviews of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement before sending the agreement to Congress for possible federal funding.

Barry Good, legislative assistant to Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., said the completed reviews will be sent to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The SCS will then incorporate the different agencies' comments into a final work plan for the agreement.

This final plan will be sent to Congress for approval of federal funding under the SCS fiscal year 1974 budget.

Good said no date has been set for the final work plan to be submitted to Congress. He said when it will be submitted depends on the amount of revision necessary to the work plan based on the comments from other agencies.

THE AGENCIES that have to review the plan are: the governor's office; State Clearing House; Northeast Illinois Planning Commission; Army Corps of Engineers; Department of the Interior; Department of Commerce; Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Environmental Protection Agency; Federal Power Commission and the U.S. Coast Guard.

If Congress can act on the agreement in time for the 1974 fiscal year, federal funds would be available on July 1, 1973. The agreement that Congress will consider is the original $28.5 million project to build flood controls across the Salt Creek. Federal funds for approximately half the cost of the project are being requested.

This original agreement has already been approved by various local and state government agencies.

After the agreement had been sent to Washington last September, Richard Ogilvie, then governor, announced that the state would not wait for federal funding, but would expand the project and begin work immediately.

THE SCS REVIEWED Ogilvie's proposal and said the state could begin work without risking the loss of federal funding at a later date.

In one of his final acts in office, Ogilvie signed a $170,000 emergency appropriations bill for design work on the flood control structures.

Ogilvie's successor, Daniel Walker, said the Salt Creek project will receive a high priority with his administration, but has not announced any specific details.

The Illinois Division of Water Resource Management has asked Walker to include a $5.6 million appropriation for flood control in his administrative budget for the next fiscal year. The money would be used to start work on flood controls for Salt Creek and other waterways in Cook and DuPage counties.

Draft Campaign Started; McGrenera Is Undecided

A campaign to draft Elk Grove Village Clerk Richard McGrenera to run for the village presidency is under way, and McGrenera said yesterday he was considering running but had made no decision.

"I know I've got to make up my mind soon about running, and I hope to reach a decision this week," he said. Although he has been mentioned as a possible candidate for both clerk and trustee, McGrenera said he was thinking about the presidency at this time.

McGrenera added that he has told Pres. Charles Zettek that he was thinking about seeking the top village office. Incumbent Zettek and Robert "Bud" Lindahl, of 69A Versailles Circle, have both announced their candidacies for president.

McGrenera served on the village Zoning Board of Appeals, Board of Health and Plan Commission before he was elected trustee in 1967. He served as trustee until 1971 when he ran for a two-year term as village clerk. McGrenera also is village Kiwanis Club president.

THE CAMPAIGN to draft McGrenera is being spearheaded by Gerald Smiley, of 1156 Cheltenham Rd., who also is an Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 Board member.

"I'm supporting Dick because I think he is the best qualified man we have, and I feel his business commitments are such, he has the time now to serve as president," Smiley said. Smiley said he also was a Kiwanis Club member and has known McGrenera through the club.

Smiley said he currently was circulating ing petitions for McGrenera without his consent but with his knowledge.

"The reception for Dick has been very good," he said. "He is well known in the community, and people like him."

Smiley said McGrenera has served the village well, and spends a lot of his own time on village business. The deadline for filing is Feb. 12.

Parks Assume Sponsorship Of Seniors Club

The Elk Grove Park District has taken over sponsorship of a local senior citizens' organization.

Bill Hughes, park district recreation supervisor, said the group, "Elk Grove Park District Senior Citizens' Club," now has 35-40 members. Persons interested in joining the club can call the park district at 437-8780. Membership is open to any person over 60 years old who is a resident of the park district.

Hughes said the park district will plan trips and other special events for the senior citizens. A newsletter will be sent out to members to inform them of upcoming activities.

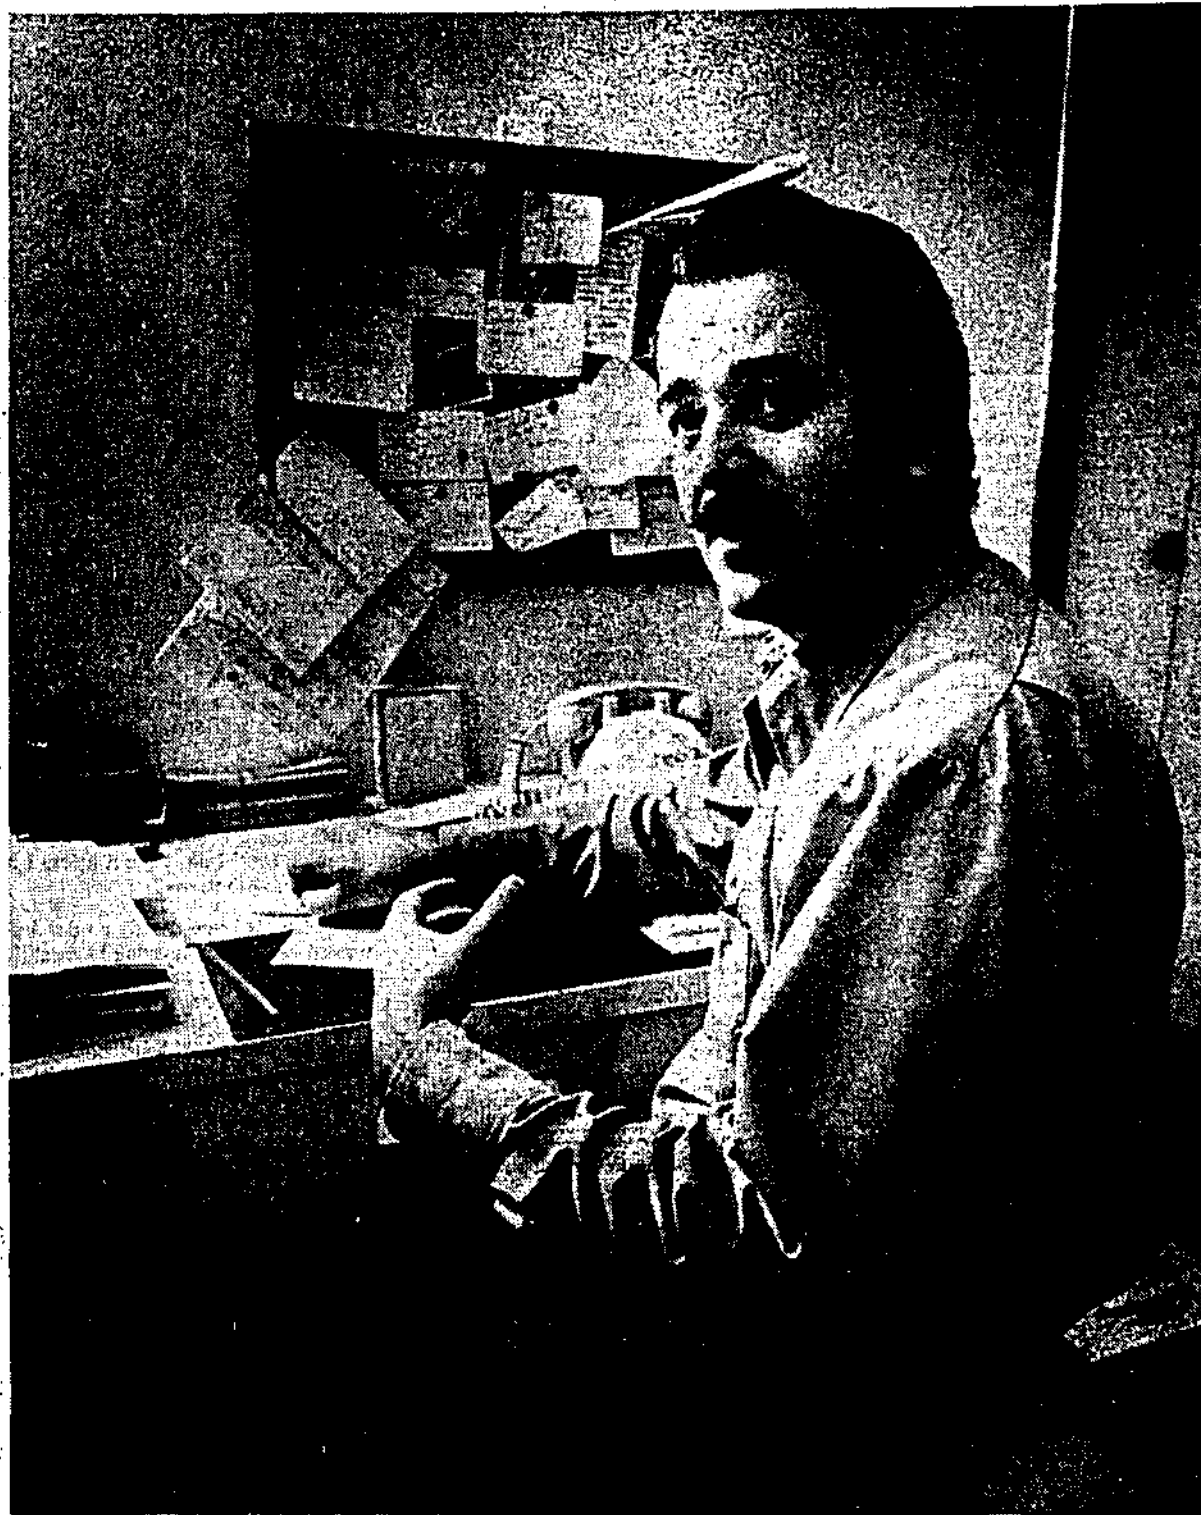

Darlene Greaves, recreation program specialist, said the club will also serve as a "talent resource." Members with certain skills, such as retired accountants, carpenters or dressmakers, will be put in contact with other members who might need these skills.

The group was originally known as the "Elk Grove Senior Citizens' Club" according to Hughes. They met once a month at Queen of the Rosary School, although the club had no affiliation with Queen of the Rosary.

HUGHES SAID the park district plans to hold future meetings, starting with the March or April meeting, at the Lions Park Community Center.

Mrs. Greaves said the original group was formed so that senior citizens could provide help to one another. At the monthly meetings, the members would play cards. "They were happy the way they were, but now they want to do a

Former President Johnson Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th President of the United States, is dead.

Johnson, thrust into the presidency by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the man who won the White House with one of the greatest landslides in American politics, died of an apparent heart attack Monday.

A spokesman said Johnson was stricken at his ranch in Central Texas and was flown to Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. George McGranahan.

JOHNSON'S WIDOW, Lady Bird, was notified at her offices in Austin and she immediately flew to San Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending. Johnson, 64, left Washington in January, 1969 to assume the life of gentleman rancher in the hills of Central Texas where he was raised.

The man who hitchhiked to college, ran for his first elective office 33 years ago and rose to lead a nation and the world had suffered three previous heart attacks.

He suffered his first 17 years ago when he was a U.S. senator, and two years ago was hospitalized for two weeks with angina pectoris — a blockage of blood flow to the heart. He suffered a third attack in Charlottesville, Va., April 7, 1972, while visiting his daughter Lynda and her husband Charles Robb.

AFTER SPENDING less than five days at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville he was brought back to Texas and the Brooke Hospital.

Johnson, robust at 6-3 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success.

He gave it in two words: "Hard work." But he was finally stricken during a life of ease away from pressure politics.

"These are the days and nights I choose to have," he told friends on the first anniversary of his retirement from public office. "This is something I've never been able to do before. I do just what I want to do."

Johnson, then vice president, became the 36th president when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

A YEAR LATER the former Senate majority leader and vice president won the presidency in his own right. He received 61 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson chose not to run for a second full term and was succeeded by President Richard M. Nixon.

Parent Support Asked By Schools

More than 13,000 invitations to attend tonight's Schaumburg Village Board meeting were sent home with students in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 Monday.

The board of education, in a special communique to parents, asked their support for the school board's opposition to the distribution of a builder's donation made by Dunbar Homes, Inc. development proposed in Schaumburg.

The builder's $150,000 cash donation to the proposed Presbyterian-St. Luke's branch hospital in Schaumburg in lieu of a donation to Dist. 54 has prompted a citizen's protest. Letters and calls to The Herald and Schaumburg village offices have been received.

The board of education, at its Jan. 18 meeting, decided to oppose the proposed 1,716-unit condominium development at Schaumburg and Plum Grove roads.

BOARD OF EDUCATION Pres. Miss Dianne Marks will voice the board's opposition to the development at the 7:30 p.m. Schaumburg Zoning Board meeting and the 8 p.m. village board meeting immediately following.

The Board of Education memo to parents states "the Dunbar development is detrimental to the children in the district." Also, the comment that the board opposes Dunbar because of the Schaumburg zoning board's statement that it will no longer recommend builders follow the district's builders donation guidelines.

The memo urges parents who support the board to attend tonight's meeting where final consideration to the plan will be given by the village board.

A group of Elk Grove Village residents whose children attend the Schaumburg Elementary School plan to attend tonight's board meeting. At a meeting in Elk Grove on Friday, the residents united to protest the builder's donation to the hospital and decided to attempt to meet with the builder to discuss alternatives.

MR. AND MRS. Herb Sumerfield of Elk Grove Village, one of those couples that attended the session spoke to a Dunbar representative yesterday on the telephone.

Mrs. Sumerfield's report to the Elk Grove Village group was that village officials in Schaumburg must decide how the builders donation is to be used.

She said the builder told her husband the 20 acres of land and the $150,000 cash donation Dunbar gave the village could be dispersed as Mayor Robert O. Atcher chooses.

"We are not objecting to Dunbar but to the Schaumburg mayor's plans for the use of the donations the builder gave," said Mrs. Sumerfield.

Tentative zoning board approval was granted Jan. 10, along with the $150,000 hospital donation and 20 for the Schaumburg Civic and Cultural Center.

Tonight's meetings will be held in Schaumburg's Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Dr., Schaumburg.

Airport Land Will Be In, Near Village

Possible sites to be investigated in a proposed airport feasibility study will be limited to land in Cook County that is either in or annexable to the Village of Schaumburg.

The only DuPage County land to be included in the site review is that portion of the now privately-owned Schaumburg Airport which is in that county.

This was determined during a working meeting last week between Ray LeBeau, Schaumburg airport study committee chairman, and representative of the Federal Aviation Administration and Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, engineering consultants selected to perform the study.

REVISIONS have brought the study cost down to about $53,000. The FAA is expected to pay for one-third of the cost of the study.

Total cost to the village is not expected to exceed $18,000. The 1973 budget has earmarked a maximum of $20,000 for this purpose.

Contingent on FAA approval of funding, consultants will perform the study in two phases. The first part of the examination will consider need and feasibility of a municipally owned general aviation airport and its cost is estimated at about $29,000.

If that portion proves positive, an environmental impact study, costing an additional $25,000, will follow.

FAA officials have stressed that funding must be applied for in a lump sum rather than on a cost-plus arrangement.

Track Officials Keeping Mum On Woes

by DAVID MAHISMAN

Out of fear of antagonizing the new Illinois Racing Board, Arlington Park Race Track officials are keeping quiet about problems they may be having attracting good horses to the track for the upcoming season.

The Herald learned last week that Arnold Winick, considered the top trainer to race at Arlington Park over the past several seasons, is not planning to race in Illinois this summer. Two other leading trainers — Bob Cramer and Tom Kelley — have also said they may not return to Illinois from Florida this year.

Winick blamed the Illinois Racing Board for forcing him to stay out of the state. He said the best racing is turf (grass) racing, but that the early season opener at Arlington Park (April 19) means that there would be no good turf racing for more than a month. Hawthorne Race Track is the only other Chicago-area track with a turf course.

"The feeling here is that anything we might say about Winick's statements might turn out the wrong way," said one Arlington official. The question of the 1973 schedule is currently before the courts, which may decide to have the new racing board appointed by Gov. Daniel Walker draw up a new schedule.

BUT ARLINGTON officials, in spite of their closed-mouth policy, are worried by statements like Winick's. They admit that losing Winick means losing some of the best horses Arlington has seen recently.

"It's not the numbers, but the quality," said Thomas Rivera, Arlington's information officer, referring to the horses Winick trains. Winick alone accounts for 60 or 70 "top quality" horses. And combined with the other two trainers who have threatened no return to Illinois, Arlington Park is in jeopardy of losing 150 of the best horses out of some 2,000 that run at the track.

Track officials still haven't heard the final decisions of other trainers concerning their summer plans. The three who wired the racing board are the only ones who have made their thoughts public.

RIVERA SAID other trainers are still in the planning stages and haven't made final decisions. But Winick indicated to the Herald that he knows of no trainers coming to Illinois this season if the 1973 racing schedule remains unchanged.

"As far as I'm concerned, I couldn't wait for them (the racing board and courts) to make up their minds," Winick said. He said he had to decide his 1973 schedule, and he opted for Florida and California. In those two states, racing conditions and purses are better than in Illinois, he said. For that reason, Winick said he won't come back here unless more than the racing schedule is changed.

Winick is a native Chicagoan and probably the only trainer written up in full profile in the Wall Street Journal. He's been successful in the game, in Illinois as elsewhere. But he said it would take a racing board made up of "people who know and love racing, not politicians," to bring him home again.

Teachers Told: Quit Smoking, Set Example

Teachers should quit smoking and give up their smoking lounges as an example for students, a doctor told more than 200 teachers at a health education workshop in Park Ridge yesterday.

"You can save more lives than we can," Dr. Harold Levine, physician at Hines Memorial Hospital in Hines, told the educators at Maine South High School in Park Ridge.

"We deal with the burnt-out ashes of cigarette smokers," he said, but teachers can stop smoking among students before it becomes a health problem. Teachers should work together to quit smoking and give up their private smoking facilities if they want to make health education programs effective and turn down student demands for their own smoking facilities, Dr. Levine said.

Dr. Levine, chief of pulmonary disease at Hines, and professor in the medical school of Loyola University, was one of the six guest speakers who talked to health education teachers on smoking, drug abuse, and alcoholism during the day-long workshop.

HIGH SCHOOL health education teachers from throughout the Chicago area attended the workshop sponsored by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and the Chicago Lung Association.

In welcoming teachers to the workshop, Cook County Superintendent of Schools Richard J. Martwick, reaffirmed his statement against student smoking facilities in local high schools. He said schools should do whatever they can to discourage student smoking.

The board of education at Dist. 207 held a public hearing on the smoking issue last week. Student smoking is prohibited at all four Dist. 207 high schools but students smoke illegally in the school washrooms which are difficult for teachers and administrators to supervise. Last summer students asked the board to allow student smoking in a confined area on the school grounds because student smoking in the washrooms was becoming a sanitation problem.

Dr. Levine said he is opposed to smoking for anyone, students and teachers alike, and reminded teachers that they do serve as an adult example for many of their students. Dr. Levine also cautioned school administrators against equating smoking with immorality. "I wish you would look at this as a health and education problem without religious or moral overtones," he said.

IN CONTRAST to many other countries, the life expectancy of the population is not rising in the United States, but has leveled off in recent years, said Dr. Levine. The cause of this leveling off is lung cancer which is caused by smoking, he said.

"Smoking doubles your chance of getting a heart attack," said Dr. Levine, and the student who smokes is twice as likely to have a heart attack by middle age as a student who doesn't smoke. While other forms of cancer are causing fewer deaths due to earlier detection, lung cancer deaths are still increasing and are reaching epidemic proportions, he said. More Americans will die of lung cancer in 1973 than died in Indochina since 1962, said Dr. Levine.

Tom Janeway, director of the Illinois Department of Health Education, told teachers that lung cancer is not a medical failure, but an educational failure. The only way known to curb lung cancer is to stop smoking, he said, and teaching the health hazards of cigarette smoking should be the job of the health education teacher.

There is a critical need for more workshops and training programs for health education teachers said Janeway. He praised the Dist. 207 health education curriculum written by Dist. 207 faculty members last summer. The curriculum is now being distributed by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction and was given to teachers who attended yesterday's workshop. The next health education workshop will include lectures on sex education, venereal disease, pollution, acupuncture, and will be held at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge, on Friday, March 2.

$4,500 Damage In Home Fire

The Elk Grove Village Fire Department is investigating the cause of a fire at 3:05 p.m. yesterday that did $4,500 damage to the home of George Crawford, 185 Shadywood Ln.

Firemen said the blaze started in a lower level bedroom and there was extensive smoke damage. No one was home at the time of the fire.

Currently, the Elk Grove Park District offers a free crafts class to senior citizens. Pool passes also are given to senior citizens at no cost.

High School Dist. 214 has a "Gold Card Club" for school district residents 65 years old and older. The card entitles the person to enroll in any adult education class at no cost, and provides free admission to any high school program or athletic event. The gold card may be obtained by calling the high school district at 259-5300.

Village Board Approves Site For A Library

The Palatine Village Board last night gave its blessings to the library board in its efforts to build a library on Benton Street, near Northwest Highway.

The trustees gave the library board the go-ahead to purchase the 1½-acre site just south of Northwest Highway for $118,000.

Library Board President Dorothea Gilpin said after the meeting: "I'm shaking. Did they really say yes?"

The library board has been seeking a site for a facility since 1968 when its last referendum to acquire property failed. One other request for land was turned down last summer by the village board because trustees considered the cost too high.

Village board approval of the Benton Street site was withheld last week when Mayor Jack Moodie insisted that arrangements be made for the library board to provide an estimated $25,000 in street improvements on Benton, adjacent to the library property.

IN THEIR ACTION LAST night, the trustees put the burden for arranging the improvements on Winn C. Davidson, present owner of the property who plans to develop a bank and office-shop complex on the remaining 5¼-acres of the tract between Benton Street and Plum Grove Road.

Davidson had indicated earlier he did not intend to make street improvements on Benton Street.

However, R. Marlin Smith, attorney for the library board, said last night the board would be willing to foot the bill for the improvements when the library is built.

Mrs. Gilpin indicated a referendum may be held within a year to obtain funds for construction.

She said she did not know if the referendum would be successful, but added: "I should think so. Don't these people know they need a library?"

The library has long outgrown its present facility at 49 N. Broadway St.

THE VILLAGE board vote to allow the library board to enter a contract with Davidson was unanimous, minus absentee trustee Clayton W. Brown.

About 18 members of the Palatine Township Youth Organization (The Joint) attended the meeting in another effort to get the trustees to purchase the 4½-acre PTYO property on Smith Street, north of Northwest Highway for $100,000 for the library.

The trustees indicated however that site selection is the primary obligation of the elected library board members and said the village board's only responsibility is to confirm or reject the library board's proposals.

Colfax Suit Delayed Again

The suit over how to split the cost of road improvements on West Colfax Street in Palatine has once again been postponed.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Helen McGillicuddy yesterday set a March 12 hearing date.

The trial was to have begun yesterday, following preliminary motions over the last several months.

The judge agreed to grant a continuance while several of the Colfax Street property owners attempt to settle the suit with the village out of court.

The suit arose over the village's decision 1½ years ago to provide 70 per cent of the $1.4 million improvements, and to assess the 71 property owners 30 per cent of the cost.

The homeowners say that the split is unreasonable, contending that the road improvements are needed because of the proximity of the Palatine Post Office, Transportation Center and Country YMCA (under construction). The property owners say they would not be the only residents to benefit from those facilities, and should not have to foot a third of the cost for the road improvements.

Loss Of Phone Service Blamed On Wet Cables

Telephone service to Harper College and to numerous businesses and apartments along Algonquin Road in Schaumburg and Rolling Meadows was disrupted for several hours yesterday because of wet cables.

The area affected by the service malfunction stretched from the college, at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine, to the Meadow Trace apartment complex, at Algonquin and Ill. Rte. 53 in Rolling Meadows.

HANK SIEFKIN, a spokesman for Illinois Bell Telephone Co., attributed the breakdown in service to wet cables at Brookdale Lane and Old Plum Grove Road in Palatine Township.

He said moisture apparently seeped through a small hole in a cable, affecting 1,910 lines.

The damage was discovered at 2:40 a.m., but the specific location of the

Township Auditors Weigh Fund Use

Revenue Sharing May Benefit Aged

Senior citizens in Palatine Township may be a chief target for a share of the township's $48,500 in federal revenue sharing funds.

The final decision on the uses of the money will not come before the April town meeting. Auditors last night decided to ask for community interest groups to prepare ways and reasons they could use the funds.

Besides the Palatine Township Council on Aging, other leading groups in the township's possibilities for the money include mental health agencies, a day-care committee, and the Bridge Youth Services Bureau.

"Maybe the way to go at this is to give these various groups an opportunity to present their view of the use of the funds, in their own interest obviously, then have a meeting to try and reach a meeting of the minds on its use," said Township Supervisor Howard I. Olsen.

TOWNSHIP AUDITORS Carl Bals and Richard Bayer expressed concern for the elderly in the township. They claimed that senior citizens living outside of homes for the elderly have little or no available activities.

"Senior citizens' taxes are going up, but in terms of property, not much is returning to them, such as in schools," Bals said. Bayer added that, according to census figures, 64 per cent of the people over 65 years old get an average annual income of only $3,500.

Generally, the board of auditors says it is searching for a program benefiting the whole township. Most of the township is formed of Palatine, Rolling Meadows and unincorporated areas. Inverness and portions of Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Barrington and Arlington Heights are also in the township.

Meetings with special interest groups will be planned before the town meeting, Olsen said. Then residents at the April session will be asked for their comments about the spending priorities set in earlier meetings between the board of auditors and its agencies.

Auditors huddled over data used to figure Palatine Township's cut of the revenue sharing pie. Based on an estimated population of 54,963 the township residents earned more than $241 million in 1970. Property tax, sales tax and license revenues totaled $100,000 for the township, according to federal government figures. That sum did not include road and bridge funds or general assistance, Olsen said, and a further study of the federal formula will be made by township officials.

Clerk Candidates Disagree On Method Of Selection

The two women vying for Palatine village clerk differ in their views of how the clerk should be selected.

One candidate, Marilyn J. Bogen, says the clerk should be elected. The other, Diane Greenlee, says the post should be appointed.

As the office is currently defined, the clerk is elected for a four-year term on a part-time basis.

Village trustees, however, are reviewing the ordinance setting forth the clerk's duties to determine whether to revise the position.

Mrs. Bogen, of 910 E. Jayton Dr., likes the selection procedure just the way it is. The Village Independent Party candidate says the choice of a village clerk "should be something the people decide, not just performed by the clerk."

At the same time, she believes the ordinance defining the clerk's duties should be revised to reflect the actual duties performed by the clerk.

MANY OF THE responsibilities listed in the ordinance actually are handled by

Former President Johnson Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th President of the United States, is dead.

Johnson, thrust into the presidency by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the man who won the White House with one of the greatest landlides in American politics, died of an apparent heart attack Monday.

A spokesman said Johnson was stricken at his ranch in Central Texas and was flown to Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. George McGranahan.

JOHNSON'S WIDOW, Lady Bird, was notified at her offices in Austin and she immediately flew to San Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending. Johnson, 64, left Washington in January, 1969 to assume the life of gentleman rancher in the hills of Central Texas where he was raised.

The man who hitchhiked to college, ran for his first elective office 35 years ago and rose to lead a nation and the world had suffered three previous heart attacks.

He suffered his first 17 years ago when he was a U.S. senator, and two years ago was hospitalized for two weeks with angina pectoris — a blockage of blood flow to the heart. He suffered a third attack in Charlottesville, Va., April 7, 1972, while visiting his daughter Lynda and her husband Charles Robb.

AFTER SPENDING less than five days at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville he was brought back to Texas and the Brooke Hospital.

Johnson, robust at 6-3 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success.

He gave it in two words: "Hard work." But he was finally stricken during a life of ease away from pressure politics.

"These are the days and nights I choose to have," he told friends on the first anniversary of his retirement from public office. "This is something I've never been able to do before. I do just what I want to do."

Johnson, then vice president, became the 36th president when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

A YEAR LATER the former Senate majority leader and vice president won the presidency in his own right. He received 61 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson chose not to run for a second full term and was succeeded by President Richard M. Nixon.

Haskins Property: Multiple Unit

State Court Upholds Zoning Ruling

by NANCY COWGER

An Illinois Appellate Court has upheld a Circuit Court decision granting multiple unit zoning for a 78-acre tract known as the Haskins property in Hoffman Estates.

The site lies between Bradwell and Palatine roads at the village's western boundary, and immediately west of Howle-In-The-Hills.

In reporting the decision to the village board last night, Village Atty. Edward Hofert said:

In reporting the decision to the village board last night Village Atty. Edward Hofert said he would not comment on it. The board went into executive session to discuss any possible future action.

Hofert said the board had four choices: to do nothing; to file a petition seeking a rehearing; to ask permission to appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court; or to approach the owners of the site concerning an alternative proposition.

Hofert said he would not make any recommendation until after the executive session.

The decision handed down Friday had been pending since late last October, when Hofert and Attorney Robert Haskins presented oral arguments before a 3-judge panel. Under the Appeals Court decision, the village must grant building permits for 28 four-story apartment buildings, containing 1,352 units, as soon as adequate water and sanitation facilities are installed and ready to serve the area.

USE OF THE property has been in dispute since 1970, when it first came before Hoffman Estates Zoning board. The property is owned by a group of persons including Chicago Aldermen Thomas Keane and Paul Wigoda; George Keane, Cook County zoning board chairman; Frank Chesrow, former Metropolitan Sanitary District president, and David Chesrow, his brother.

At the time of the public hearings, the property was under B-2 zoning, which allowed commercial development. Haskins, representing the new owners, sought a zoning change to permit the apartment construction. Instead, the village board rezoned the land for single family homes.

Haskins then filed suit seeking court assumption of zoning authority and approval of the desired multiple residential class. Circuit Court Judge Herbert Ellis complied with Haskins' request.

In upholding Judge Ellis' decision, the appellate panel described the village's actions as contradictory and "an infringement upon the liberty and property rights" of the site owners.

The village had argued it wished to maintain the property for development of "luxurious 'estate-type' residence use to the exclusion of apartment housing for ordinary people," noted the Appeals Court. To have done this, it would have been necessary for the village to maintain "a solid and unbroken front" of restricted single family zoning, the court ruled. Instead, the village permitted commercial zoning for more than six years.

THE COURT also noted the long-standing commercial zoning contradicted the village's Comprehensive Master Plan, which was prepared prior to 1969 and designated the property plus a parcel to the east for single family home use.

"Common sense would have dictated that a self-contained apartment project would be more generally desirable than a proliferation of the type of uses authorized by the B-2 (commercial) zoning," said the court.

The village had claimed loss of $1 million to surrounding property values would result from the apartment zoning. The court ruled this was contradictory noting the village also had said no harm would result to these same surrounding properties if another tract, directly east of the Haskins site, were developed in apartments. The bulk of other property in the vicinity is devoted to farming, the court noted.

The village's action in rezoning the Haskins site for single family use would "merely help make certain that the tract will remain vacant and unused" if allowed to stand, said the court.

The Appellate Court ruling was written by Judge Mayer Goldberg, with Judges Joseph Burke and Henry Dieringer concurring.

Golf Teams Forming At Countryside 'Y'

Twilight golf teams are forming now at the Countryside YMCA, with rounds starting the first Monday evening in April.

Openings are available for both high handicaps and scratch golfers. The Thunderbird Golf Club in Barrington on Northwest Highway is the scene of the weekly 8 p.m. rounds.

An organization meeting will be scheduled in February, but those interested in reserving a spot on the team may register for $13 (Y members) or $18 (non-members). Each round played will be $2.50.

Reservation fees and player information may be mailed to the Countryside YMCA Mens Golf League at 115 W. Johnson St., Palatine.

Merchants Seeking Spots At New Mall

Leases are being signed for stores going into the 11-acre Countryside Mall, an enclosed shopping center under construction at Northwest Highway and Baldwin

Road. To date, a 27,000-square-foot Treasure Island supermarket and a pharmacy operated by Lee Shipley of Rolling Meadows are scheduled for the center.

Letters of intent have been signed by operators of a women's clothing store, men's and boy's clothing store and a card and gift shop, according to a spokesman for L. J. Sheridan & Co., the Chicago real estate firm handling the leasing arrangements for the mall.

Other stores in the enclosed mall, scheduled to open in August, include a travel agency, jewelry store and a bookshop. In a separate building will be a 10,000-square-foot gourmet restaurant. All exterior architecture will be rough-sawn wood and brick, similar to the neighboring apartment development.

Parking for 603 cars will accompany the mall. East and north of the shopping center, 1,040 units in Countryside Apartments are under construction extending to Dundee Road on the north.

Adjoining the shopping center is a ten-acre site for the Countryside YMCA, expected to open in September.

The entire development has been annexed to Palatine under a proemxation agreement signed between L. F. Draper and the village in 1970. Zoning for the development was approved in March, 1970, by the Cook County Board of Commissioners when the property was still unincorporated.

The entire apartment project is expected to be finished in September, 1974, according to Harper.

Gun Linked To Killings In Barrington Hills

Police have located a .23 caliber handgun used in the slayings of four persons in suburban Barrington Hills and in the murder of a Chicago girl, the Cook County sheriff's police department reported.

The weapon has been traced to one of four members of the "De Mau Mau" group charged with the Barrington Hills murder, Richard Quaglino, deputy chief of Cook County police, said.

The gun was linked to the Barrington Hills murders last August of the Paul Corbett family, and to the killing of Kathleen Flene, 16, a few doors from her South Side home last June, he said. Nobody had been charged with Miss Flene's death.

Quaglino said police located a youth who said he sold the weapon to Reuben Taylor, 22, one of the four men charged in the Corbett deaths.

SHERIFF RICHARD Elrod announced the arrests of eight members of a gang called De Mau Mau last Oct. 14, and said racial hatred was the prime motive in the slayings of white persons. Miss Flene was not among those mentioned at that time.

Taylor, his brother Donald 21; Michael Clark, 21, and Nathaniel Burse, 23, have been indicted in the murders of Corbett, 67, a retired insurance executive; his wife, Marion, 57; her daughter by a previous marriage, Barbara S. Bond, 22; and Mrs. Corbett's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 60. A gun used in those killings has been recovered.

Donald Taylor, Clark and Burse were indicted by the Lake County grand jury at Waukegan, with Darnell Peatry, 21, Edward Moran Jr., 23, and Robert Wilson, 18, in the Sept. 2 shooting of Army Spec. 5 William Richter, 23, who was shot in his pickup truck alongside Edens Expressway in Highland Park. Richter died Sept. 14.

Clark, Moran, Reuben Taylor and Garland Jackson have been charged but not indicted in the murder of Michael Gerschenson, 19, a Southern Illinois University student who was found slain 40 miles northeast of Carbondale last May 3.

Gang members also have been accused of killing Stephen D. Hawtree, 56, his wife, Judy, 53, and their son, Thomas, 17, last Sept. 3 in their home near Monee in Will County.

Deadline Nears For Salt Creek Plan

Monday is the deadline for state and federal agencies to complete the necessary reviews of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement before sending the agreement to Congress for possible federal funding.

Barry Good, legislative assistant to Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., said the completed reviews will be sent to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The SCS will then incorporate the different agencies' comments into a final work plan for the agreement.

This final plan will be sent to Congress for approval of federal funding under the SCS fiscal year 1974 budget.

Good said no date has been set for the final work plan to be submitted to Congress. He said when it will be submitted depends on the amount of revision necessary to the work plan based on the comments from other agencies.

Teachers Told: Quit Smoking, Set Example

Teachers should quit smoking and give up their smoking lounges as an example for students, a doctor told more than 200 teachers at a health education workshop in Park Ridge yesterday.

"You can save more lives than we can," Dr. Harold Levine, physician at Hines Memorial Hospital in Hines, told the educators at Maine South High School in Park Ridge.

"We deal with the burnt-out ashes of cigarette smokers," he said, but teachers can stop smoking among students before it becomes a health problem. Teachers should work together to quit smoking and give up their private smoking facilities if they want to make health education programs effective and turn down student demands for their own smoking facilities, Dr. Levine said.

Dr. Levine, chief of pulmonary disease at Hines, and professor in the medical school of Loyola University, was one of the six guest speakers who talked to health education teachers on smoking, drug abuse, and alcoholism during the day-long workshop.

HIGH SCHOOL health education teachers from throughout the Chicago area attended the workshop sponsored by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and the Chicago Lung Association.

In welcoming teachers to the workshop, Cook County Superintendent of Schools Richard J. Martwick, reaffirmed his statement against student smoking facilities in local high schools. He said schools should do whatever they can to discourage student smoking.

The board of education at Dist. 207 held a public hearing on the smoking issue last week. Student smoking is prohibited at all four Dist. 207 high schools but students smoke illegally in the school washrooms which are difficult for teachers and administrators to supervise. Last summer students asked the board to allow student smoking in a confined area on the school grounds because student smoking in the washrooms was becoming a sanitation problem.

Dr. Levine said he is opposed to smoking for anyone, students and teachers alike, and reminded teachers that they do serve as an adult example for many of their students. Dr. Levine also cautioned school administrators against equating smoking with immorality. "I wish you would look at this as a health and education problem without religious or moral overtones," he said.

IN CONTRAST TO many other countries, the life expectancy of the population is not rising in the United States, but has leveled off in recent years, said Dr. Levine. The cause of this leveling off is lung cancer which is caused by smoking, he said.

"Smoking doubles your chance of getting a heart attack," said Dr. Levine, and the student who smokes is twice as likely to have a heart attack by middle age as a student who doesn't smoke. While other forms of cancer are causing fewer deaths due to earlier detection, lung cancer deaths are still increasing and are reaching epidemic proportions, he said. More Americans will die of lung cancer in 1973 than died in Indochina since 1962, said Dr. Levine.

Tom Janeway, director of the Illinois Department of Health Education, told teachers that lung cancer is not a medical failure, but an educational failure. The only way known to curb lung cancer is to stop smoking, he said, and teaching the health hazards of cigarette smoking should be the job of the health education teacher.

There is a critical need for more workshops and training programs for health education teachers said Janeway. He praised the Dist. 207 health education curriculum written by Dist. 207 faculty members last summer. The curriculum is now being distributed by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction and was given to teachers who attended yesterday's workshop. The next health education workshop will include lectures on sex education, venereal disease, pollution, acupuncture, and will be held at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge, on Friday, March 2.

Jaycees Smoker Feb. 2

The Palatine Jaycees will hold a membership smoker at 8 p.m. Feb. 2, at the Slade Street Fire Station.

Some 85 Palatine men have been invited to attend the smoker. Others who are interested in joining the Jaycees are asked to contact president Tom Lester, 359-4791.

Prospective members must be between 21 and 35.

Clerk Candidates Disagree On Method Of Selection

Marilyn Bogen

Diane Greenlees

the deputy clerk, a fulltime village employee.

Mrs. Greenlees, of 530 S. Elm St., believes the clerk should be appointed rather than elected, because the clerk does not hold a vote on the village board, and thus is not involved in policy-making decisions.

The selection of a clerk, according to Mrs. Greenlees, should be made by the elected village officials, who are responsible to the electorate. She believes the clerk's office should remain part-time.

Village trustees must decide by early February whether to retain the present system of electing a clerk or to opt for selecting the clerk.

If they choose to select the clerk, the question must be submitted to voters by referendum, probably the same day village elections will be held, April 17.

Neither of the local political parties, the Republicans and the VIPs, has taken a stand on the issue.

Both of the candidates have considerable background in community service.

A former secretary, Mrs. Greenlees, 37, has been a member of the Palatine Junior Women's Club for seven years, including serving on the club's board of directors for four years.

She is currently on the board of directors of the Countryside YMCA Distaff, a ladies auxiliary.

OTHER ACTIVITIES have included volunteer work in the Palatine area, cub scout supervision, Winston Park Homeowners Association membership and Winston Churchill and Pleasant Hill schools PTA membership.

A former teacher, Mrs. Bogen, also 37, is a member of the board of directors of the Northwest suburban unit of the American Cancer Society; 2nd vice president of the Arlington Heights chapter of the American Association of University Women; and a member of the Palatine League of Women Voters.

She also is a member of the Jane Adams School PTA, and formerly did volunteer work in Palatine.

Independent candidates for village clerk can file petitions to be listed on the ballot by Feb. 12.

The present clerk, Louise A. Jones, has indicated she will not seek reelection.

Order From County Election Dept.

City Told To Remove 1,277 Names From Voting Lists

by TONI GINETTI

Rolling Meadows officials have been notified by the Cook County Election Department to remove 1,277 persons from the city voting lists.

The notification came late Friday when the city received from the county voter registration tallies compiled during an October voter canvass.

Voter tallies are currently being sent to all Cook County municipalities.

Mayor Roland Meyer charged yesterday the county tally of 1,277 residents listed as no longer living in the city is incorrect. Many of those listed, still live in the city, he contends. Most of these were not counted in the county October canvass because the persons may not have been home when county officials conducted the voter survey, according to Meyer.

County officials deny the miscalculation charges.

"If a person was not home when the county people came to canvass, (the officials) left a card telling that person to appear on a certain day at the county building to verify his registration," Meyer said. "If the person did not appear, he was taken off the list."

"We had hundreds of calls from people saying they could not go to the county building on the day stated," Meyer added. Because of this, the city may have to disenfranchise many city residents under county orders, he said.

CONTACTED LATE yesterday, a spokesman at the County Election Department said she did not think the county records could be as inaccurate as the 1,277 charged by Meyer. She said because of the problems of canvassing large apartment complexes, cards left at residences were followed up by a mailed form from the county asking persons to clarify their residency status.

To avoid errors in the final tallies, she said the county kept separate in a box all the cards left with persons whose voting status was being examined. Results from the October canvass were also updated shortly before the election on supplemental poll sheets, she said.

"We have had no major complaints of any kind," she said. "I can't imagine that many people being listed (in error) in Rolling Meadows."

Before the city begins removing names, however, Meyer said he has instructed City Clerk Elleen Kornatz to send postcards to persons named on the list advising them of the situation and asking that they register again at city hall if they are still Rolling Meadows residents.

The need to update the city's voting list is currently a vital concern because the city must redistrict its wards before the April election. Because the city is using its binder list to determine the number of registered voters in the city for the redistricting, persons who have moved from the city and in some cases dead persons were being included in the figuring.

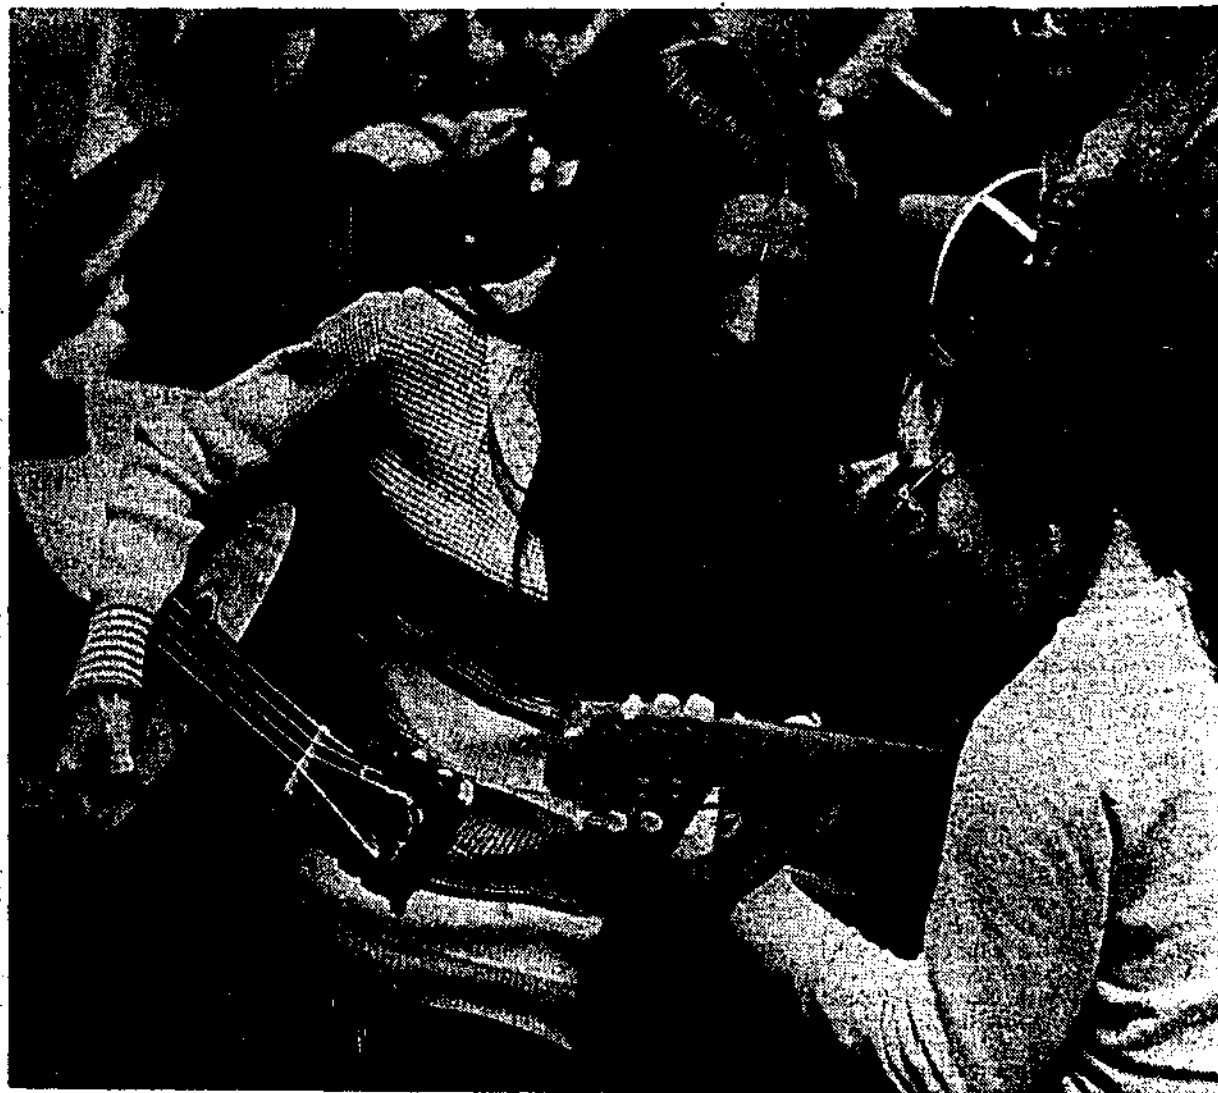

USING THE CITY binder, ward boundaries had been redrawn to include 1,900 registered voters in each of four city wards. The remaining ward, the 4th where the majority of the city's apartment complexes had been placed, was said to contain 2,400 voters.

A Herald study of county poll sheets last week, however, revealed discrepancies in figures used by city officials for redistricting. The poll sheets show Ward 1 to have about 2,100 voters, Ward 2 to have 1,600 voters, Ward 3 to have 1,900 voters, Ward 4 to have 1,900 voters and Ward 5 to have 1,600 voters.

Meyer said Friday the city was aware of the errors in the binder but added that although the city clerk is responsible for the binders, the city officials were not sure whether the authority to pull outdated voter cards had to come from the county.

A spokesman for the county election office, E. P. Steinbrink, said Friday that a city clerk may pull the card of a person known to be dead but may not pull

City Propane Fuel Supply Not Affected By Shortage

The fuel shortage situation currently threatening the country has not yet affected the propane fuel supply for Rolling Meadows city vehicles, according to Supt. of Public Works John Hennessy.

Most of the city's vehicles operate on non-polluting propane fuel, which is among the petroleum products said to be in dwindling supply.

"There is a shortage, but we are on a priority list so we are all right at the moment," Hennessy said yesterday. "We also have two 20-gallon tanks that we can use to take to (the Petrolene Co. in) Elgin in case something goes wrong with the deliveries."

Although the majority of city vehicles have been converted to run on the less expensive propane fuel, Hennessy said "every vehicle is split (to operate) between propane and gasoline just for this kind of situation."

THE CITY, which began converting police squad cars and other city vehicles to propane consumption about a year ago, uses about 1,200 to 1,300 gallons of propane weekly, according to public works department figures.

The fuel, which emits no pollutants, cuts down on maintenance costs and increases the reliability of the vehicles, costs the city 24 cents per gallon. Regular octane gasoline costs the city about 22.5 cents and ethyl costs about 26 cents.

Most city vehicles which do not use propane must use ethyl, Hennessy said.

Diesel fuel is also used by the city to operate garbage trucks, Hennessy said, but he added there is no problem with a shortage of this type of fuel now because city tanks are full.

Despite the public fear of a fuel shortage, Hennessy said "we don't feel insecure." He added, however, that if a shortage situation should become critical, the city would "definitely" institute rationing of fuel.

If that should become necessary, the police and fire departments would get fuel priority, Hennessy said.

Township Auditors Weigh Fund Use

Revenue Sharing May Benefit Aged

Senior citizens in Palatine Township may be a chief target for a share of the township's $48,500 in federal revenue sharing funds.

The final decision on the uses of the money will not come before the April town meeting. Auditors last night decided to ask for community interest groups to prepare ways and reasons they could use the funds.

Besides the Palatine Township Council on Aging, other leading groups in the township's possibilities for the money include mental health agencies, a day-care committee, and the Bridge Youth Services Bureau.

"Maybe the way to go at this is to give these various groups an opportunity to present their view of the use of the funds, in their own interest obviously, then have a meeting to try and reach a meeting of the minds on its use," said Township Supervisor Howard I. Olsen.

TOWNSHIP AUDITORS Carl Bals and

Richard Bayer expressed concern for the elderly in the township. They claimed that senior citizens living outside of homes for the elderly have little or no available activities.

"Senior citizens' taxes are going up, but in terms of property, not much is returning to them, such as in schools," Bals said. Bayer added that, according to census figures, 64 per cent of the people over 65 years old get an average annual income of only $3,500.

Generally, the board of auditors says it is searching for a program benefiting the whole township. Most of the township is formed of Palatine, Rolling Meadows and unincorporated areas. Inverness and portions of Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Barrington and Arlington Heights are also in the township.

Meetings with special interest groups will be planned before the town meeting, Olsen said. Then residents at the April session will be asked for their comments about the spending priorities set in earlier meetings between the board of auditors and its agencies.

Auditors huddled over data used to figure Palatine Township's cut of the revenue sharing pie. Based on an estimated population of 54,963 the township residents earned more than $241 million in 1970. Property tax, sales tax and license revenues totaled $100,000 for the township, according to federal government figures. That sum did not include road and bridge funds or general assistance, Olsen said, and a further study of the federal formula will be made by township officials.

Loss Of Phone Service Blamed On Wet Cables

Telephone service to Harper College and to numerous businesses and apartments along Algonquin Road in Schaumburg and Rolling Meadows was disrupted for several hours yesterday because of wet cables.

The area affected by the service malfunction stretched from the college, at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine, to the Meadow Trace apartment complex, at Algonquin and Ill. Rte. 53 in Rolling Meadows.

HANK SIEFKIN, a spokesman for Illinois Bell Telephone Co., attributed the breakdown in service to wet cables at Brookdale Lane and Old Plum Grove Road in Palatine Township.

He said moisture apparently seeped through a small hole in a cable, affecting 1,910 lines.

The damage was discovered at 2:40 a.m., but the specific location of the breakdown was not determined until 6:15 a.m. Some of the service was restored by 2 p.m., and the rest by later in the afternoon.

The largest firms affected by the malfunction were Motorola Inc., 1400 E. Algonquin Rd., and Polo Food Products Co., 601 E. Algonquin Rd., both in Schaumburg.

Also without phone service were the Lancer Steak House, 50 E. Algonquin Rd., and Beef 'n' Barrel restaurant, 2400 Hammond Dr., also in Schaumburg.

Apartments without service were in the Meadow Trace complex, as well as International Village, 1220 E. Algonquin Rd., and Walden Apartments, Algonquin Road near Plum Grove Road, both in Schaumburg.

The telephone company provided three mobile units along Algonquin Road for emergency calls.

Former President Johnson Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th President of the United States, is dead.

Johnson, thrust into the presidency by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the man who won the White House with one of the greatest landfalls in American politics, died of an apparent heart attack Monday.

A spokesman said Johnson was stricken at his ranch in Central Texas and was flown to Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. George McGranahan.

JOHNSON'S WIDOW, Lady Bird, was notified at her offices in Austin and she immediately flew to San Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending. Johnson, 64, left Washington in January, 1969 to assume the life of gentleman rancher in the hills of Central Texas where he was raised.

The man who hitchhiked to college, ran for his first elective office 35 years ago and rose to lead a nation and the world, had suffered three previous heart attacks.

He suffered his first 17 years ago when he was a U.S. senator, and two years ago was hospitalized for two weeks with angina pectoris — a blockage of blood flow to the heart. He suffered a third attack in Charlottesville, Va., April 7, 1972, while visiting his daughter Lynda and her husband Charles Robb.

AFTER SPENDING less than five days at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville he was brought back to Texas and the Brooke Hospital.

Johnson, robust at 6-3 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success.

He gave it in two words: "Hard work." But he was finally stricken during a life of ease away from pressure politics.

"These are the days and nights I choose to have," he told friends on the first anniversary of his retirement from public office. "This is something I've never been able to do before. I do just what I want to do."

Johnson, then vice president, became the 36th president when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

A YEAR LATER the former Senate majority leader and vice president won the presidency in his own right. He received 61 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson chose not to run for a second full term and was succeeded by President Richard M. Nixon.

Student May Be Hired As City Manager Aide

Rolling Meadows may take part in a program to employ a college student to serve as a part-time assistant to the city manager.

City Mgr. James Watson told members of the city council finance committee Thursday that Elmhurst College has asked the city to take part in the program. The internship program is sponsored by the college's urban studies department.

Under the program, urban studies majors are employed by a municipality to acquaint themselves with the workings of local government. Students are usually paid about $2.50 per hour, which is often reimbursed to the municipality by the federal government.

Finance committee chairman Ald. Fred Jacobson (5th) said a part time assistant for Watson could be used, but he felt the city should look into similar programs that might be offered by other area colleges before accepting the Elmhurst program.

Committee member Ald. Ken Retzke (5th) asked Watson what an assistant would do if hired. Watson said an immediate project could be a review of census figures for the city recently sent by the Northeast Illinois Planning Commission. Watson said assistance might also be used in budget preparations and minor administrative decisions at city hall.

Both Watson and the committee agreed, however, that an assistant would have to be retained for a minimum of one year to maintain continuity in city functioning. Jacobson suggested Watson investigate the proposal further and report back to the committee at its next meeting in February.

teachers at a health education workshop in Park Ridge yesterday.

"You can save more lives than we can," Dr. Harold Levine, physician at Hines Memorial Hospital in Hines, told the educators at Maine South High School in Park Ridge.

"We deal with the burnt-out ashes of cigarette smokers," he said, but teachers can stop smoking among students before it becomes a health problem. Teachers should work together to quit smoking and give up their private smoking facilities if they want to make health education programs effective and turn down student demands for their own smoking facilities, Dr. Levine said.

Dr. Levine, chief of pulmonary disease at Hines, and professor in the medical school of Loyola University, was one of the six guest speakers who talked to health education teachers on smoking, drug abuse, and alcoholism during the day-long workshop.

HIGH SCHOOL health education teachers from throughout the Chicago area attended the workshop sponsored by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and the Chicago Lung Association.

In welcoming teachers to the workshop, Cook County Superintendent of Schools Richard J. Martwick, reaffirmed his statement against student smoking facilities in local high schools. He said schools should do whatever they can to discourage student smoking.

The board of education at Dist. 207 held a public hearing on the smoking issue last week. Student smoking is prohibited at all four Dist. 207 high schools but students smoke illegally in the school washrooms which are difficult for teachers and administrators to supervise. Last summer students asked the board to allow student smoking in a confined area on the school grounds because student smoking in the washrooms was becoming a sanitation problem.

Dr. Levine said he is opposed to smoking for anyone, students and teachers alike, and reminded teachers that they do serve as an adult example for many of their students. Dr. Levine also cautioned school administrators against equating smoking with immorality. "I wish you would look at this as a health and education problem without religious or moral overtones," he said.

IN CONTRAST to many other countries, the life expectancy of the population is not rising in the United States, but has leveled off in recent years, said Dr. Levine. The cause of this leveling off is lung cancer which is caused by smoking, he said.

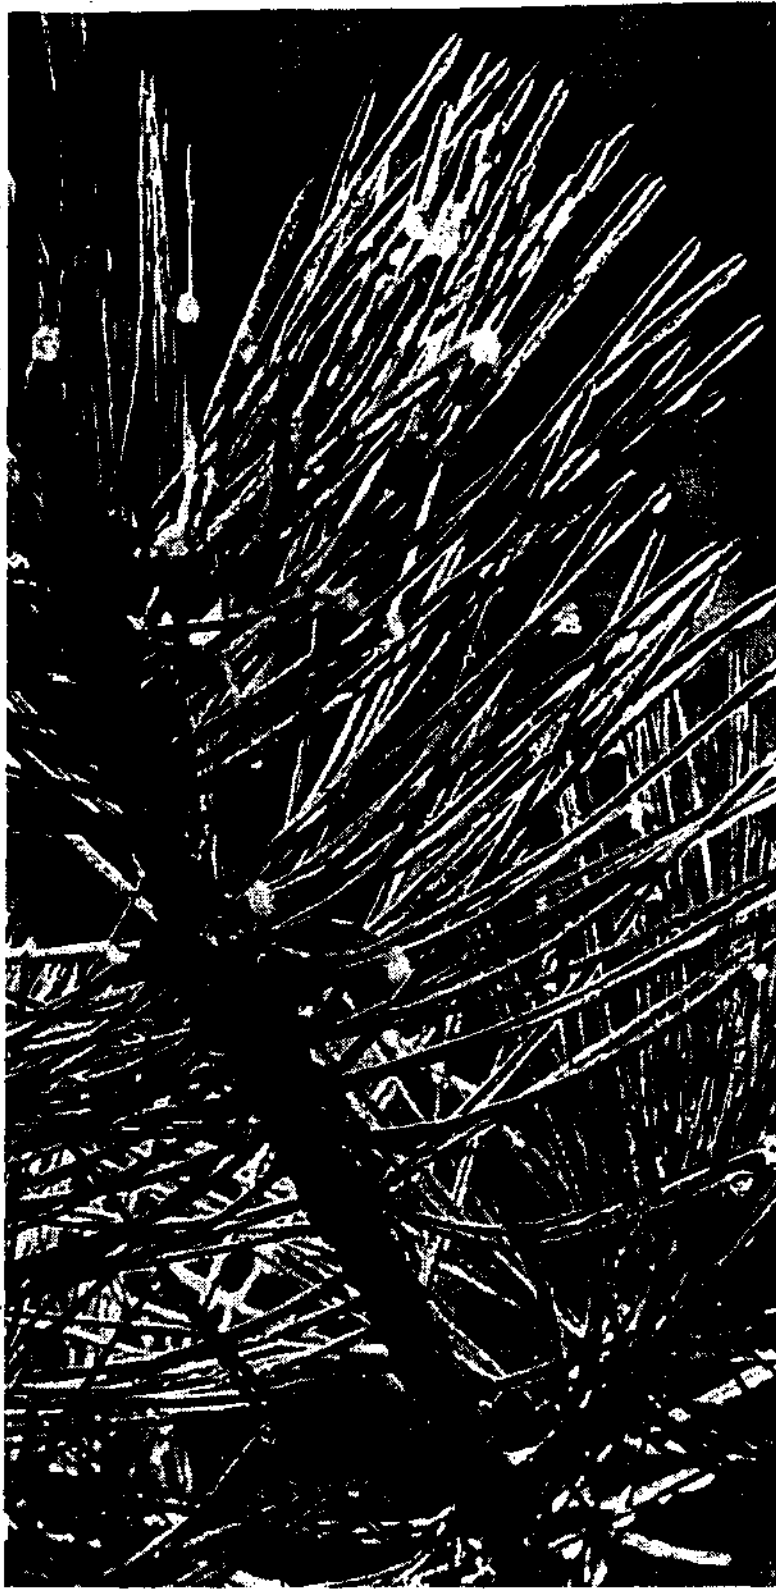

"Smoking doubles your chance of getting a heart attack," said Dr. Levine, and the student who smokes is twice as likely to have a heart attack by middle age as a student who doesn't smoke. While other forms of cancer are causing fewer deaths due to earlier detection, lung cancer deaths are still increasing and are reaching epidemic proportions, he said. More Americans will die of lung cancer in 1973 than died in Indochina since 1962, said Dr. Levine.

Tom Janeway, director of the Illinois Department of Health Education, told teachers that lung cancer is not a medical failure, but an educational failure. The only way known to curb lung cancer is to stop smoking, he said, and teaching the health hazards of cigarette smoking should be the job of the health education teacher.

There is a critical need for more workshops and training programs for health education teachers said Janeway. He praised the Dist. 207 health education curriculum written by Dist. 207 faculty members last summer. The curriculum is now being distributed by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction and was given to teachers who attended yesterday's workshop. The next health education workshop will include lectures on sex education, venereal disease, pollution, acupuncture, and will be held at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge, on Friday, March 2.

a card of a person who has moved from a municipality without notification from the county.

If a person is now removed from the voting lists and does not re-register, he might still be permitted to cast a ballot in the upcoming April municipal elections by an affidavit vote, Meyer said.

"The aldermen in the wards will probably know who is living in the ward or an election judge might know," Meyer said. In this case, they would allow the person to submit a ballot after signing an affidavit.

"The chances are, however, that somebody living in an apartment won't be known," Meyer added. "They are the people being discriminated against in this."

Because of the county notification, the city still does not know whether another ward map will have to be drawn up prior to the election, Meyer said.

"I don't know just what will happen yet," he said. "We may have to have another redistricting or our figures may be correct when this is cleared up."

Police Will Train In Traffic Safety

Illinois Transportation Secretary William F. Cellini has announced approval of a highway safety project which will provide specialized traffic safety training for Rolling Meadows police personnel at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute.

The training is part of a continuing program undertaken by the city under the Illinois Highway Safety Program to enhance the status of traffic safety at the local level, Cellini said.

The total cost of this project will be approximately $2,250, one-half of which will be reimbursed to the city from federal funds made available to the state under provisions of the Federal Highway Safety Act. The act, passed and signed into law in 1966, is designed to assist states in accelerating highway safety programs.

The project is one of more than 950 county and municipal projects being conducted as part of the Illinois Highway Safety Program. Other projects are also being carried out by state agencies to promote highway safety through technology and training.

Third Generation Inkspot Broad Newspaper Background Aids Salesman Steve Witte

As far back as Steve Witte can remember his family has been in the newspaper business. His great grandfather David M. Givler started it all when he bought the only newspaper in DuPage County in 1868 and named it the Naperville Clarion. Since then a family member has worked continuously in some phase of the newspaper industry.

Steve was no exception. As a teenager he literally grew up writing news stories, proofreading and selling advertising. After college and completion of his Army service Steve chose newspaper advertising as his career. His broad range of experience and knowledge has given him an unusual background upon which to draw when assisting such clients as the Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Association and other major accounts.

The father of two sons, Steve and his wife Shirlee live in Schaumburg. Here Steve enjoys his two long time hobbies of photography and scuba diving.

Deadline Nears For Salt Creek Plan

Monday is the deadline for state and federal agencies to complete the necessary reviews of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement before sending the agreement to Congress for possible federal funding.

Barry Good, legislative assistant to Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., said the completed reviews will be sent to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The SCS will then incorporate the different agencies' comments into a final work plan for the agreement.

This final plan will be sent to Congress for approval of federal funding under the SCS fiscal year 1974 budget.

Good said no date has been set for the final work plan to be submitted to Congress. He said when it will be submitted depends on the amount of revision necessary to the work plan based on the comments from other agencies.

THE AGENCIES that have to review the plan are: the governor's office; State Clearing House; Northeast Illinois Planning Commission; Army Corps of Engineers; Department of the Interior; Department of Commerce; Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Environmental Protection Agency; Federal Power Commission and the U.S. Coast Guard.

If Congress can act on the agreement in time for the 1974 fiscal year, federal funds would be available on July 1, 1973. The agreement that Congress will consider is the original $26.5 million project to build flood controls across the Salt Creek. Federal funds for approximately half the cost of the project are being requested.

This original agreement has already been approved by various local and state government agencies.

After the agreement had been sent to Washington last September, Richard Ogilvie, then governor, announced that the state would not wait for federal funding, but would expand the project and begin work immediately.

THE SCS REVIEWED Ogilvie's proposal and said the state could begin work without risking the loss of federal funding at a later date.

In one of his final acts in office, Ogilvie signed a $170,000 emergency appropriations bill for design work on the flood control structures.

Ogilvie's successor, Daniel Walker has said the Salt Creek project will receive a high priority with his administration, but has not announced any specific details.

The Illinois Division of Water Resource Management has asked Walker to include a $5.6 million appropriation for flood control in his administrative budget for the next fiscal year. The money would be used to start work on flood controls for Salt Creek and other waterways in Cook and DuPage counties.

Gun Linked To Killings In Barrington Hills

Police have located a .25 caliber handgun used in the slayings of four persons in suburban Barrington Hills and in the murder of a Chicago girl, the Cook County sheriff's police department reported.

The weapon has been traced to one of four members of the "De Mau Mau" group charged with the Barrington Hills murder, Richard Quagliano, deputy chief of Cook County police, said.

The gun was linked to the Barrington Hills murders last August of the Paul Corbett family, and to the killing of Kathleen Fiene, 16, a few doors from her South Side home last June, he said. No body had been charged with Miss Fiene's death.

Quagliano said police located a youth who said he sold the weapon to Reuben Taylor, 22, one of the four men charged in the Corbett deaths.

SHERIFF RICHARD Elrod announced the arrests of eight members of a gang called De Mau Mau last Oct. 14, and said racial hatred was the prime motive in the slayings of white persons. Miss Fiene was not among those mentioned at that time.

Taylor, his brother Donald 21; Michael Clark, 21, and Nathaniel Burse, 23, have been indicted in the murders of Corbett, 67, a retired insurance executive; his wife, Marion, 57; her daughter by a previous marriage, Barbara S. Board, 22; and Mrs. Corbett's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 60. A gun used in those killings has been recovered.

Donald Taylor, Clark and Burse were indicted by the Lake County grand jury at Waukegan, with Darnell Pearty, 21, Edward Moran Jr., 23, and Robert Wilson, 18, in the Sept. 2 shooting of Army Spec. 5 William Richter, 23, who was shot in his pickup truck alongside Edens Expressway in Highland Park. Richter died Sept. 14.

Clark, Moran, Reuben Taylor and Garland Jackson have been charged but not indicted in the murder of Michael Gershenson, 19, a Southern Illinois University student who was found slain 40 miles northeast of Carbondale last May 3.

Gang members also have been accused of killing Stephen D. Hawtree, 56, his wife, Judy, 53, and their son, Thomas, 17, last Sept. 3 in their home near Monee in Will County.

Area Known As Haskins Property

Appellate Court Upholds Multiple-Unit Zoning OK

by NANCY COWGER

An Illinois Appellate Court has upheld a Circuit Court decision granting multiple unit zoning for a 78-acre tract known as the Haskins property in Hoffman Estates.

The site lies between Bradwell and Palatine roads at the village's western boundary, and immediately west of Howle-In-The-Hills.

In reporting the decision to the village board last night, Village Atty. Edward Hofert said:

In reporting the decision to the village board last night Village Atty. Edward Hofert said he would not comment on it. The board went into executive session to discuss any possible future action.

Hofert said the board had four choices: to do nothing; to file a petition seeking a rehearing; to ask permission to appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court; or to approach the owners of the site concerning an alternative proposition.

Hofert said he would not make any recommendation until after the executive session.

The decision handed down Friday had been pending since late last October, when Hofert and Attorney Robert Haskins presented oral arguments before a 3-judge panel. Under the Appeals Court decision, the village must grant building permits for 28 four-story apartment buildings, containing 1,352 units, as soon as adequate water and sanitation facilities are installed and ready to serve the area.

USE OF THE property has been in dispute since 1970, when it first came before Hoffman Estates Zoning board. The property is owned by a group of persons including Chicago Aldermen Thomas Keane and Paul Wigoda; George Keane, Cook County zoning board chairman; Frank Chesrow, former Metropolitan Sanitary District president; and David Chesrow, his brother.

At the time of the public hearings, the property was under B-2 zoning, which allowed commercial development. Haskins, representing the new owners, sought a zoning change to permit the apartment construction. Instead, the village board rezoned the land for single family homes.

Haskins then filed suit seeking court assumption of zoning authority and approval of the desired multiple residential class. Circuit Court Judge Herbert Ellis complied with Haskins' request.

In upholding Judge Ellis's decision, the appellate panel described the village's actions as contradictory and "an infringement upon the liberty and property rights" of the site owners.

The village had argued it wished to maintain the property for development of "luxurious 'estate-type' residence use to the exclusion of apartment housing for ordinary people," noted the Appeals Court. To have done this, it would have been necessary for the village to maintain "a solid and unbroken front" of restricted single family zoning, the court ruled. Instead, the village permitted commercial zoning for more than six years.

THE COURT also noted the long-standing commercial zoning contradicted the village's Comprehensive Master Plan, which was prepared prior to 1969 and designated the property plus a parcel to the east for single family home use.

"Common sense would have dictated that a self-contained apartment project would be more generally desirable than a proliferation of the type of uses authorized by the B-2 (commercial) zoning," said the court.

The village had claimed loss of $1 million to surrounding property values would result from the apartment zoning. The court ruled this was contradictory noting the village also had said no harm would result to these same surrounding properties if another tract, directly east of the Haskins site, were developed in apartments. The bulk of other property in the vicinity is devoted to farming, the court noted.

The village's action in rezoning the Haskins site for single family use would "merely help make certain that the tract will remain vacant and unused" if allowed to stand, said the court.

The Appellate Court ruling was written by Judge Mayer Goldberg, with Judges Joseph Burke and Henry Dieringer concurring.

Boy Playing With Matches Blamed For $8,000 Blaze

A youngster playing with matches touched off a fire early yesterday evening which caused about $8,000 damage to a home in Schaumburg. The fire, reported at 8:45 p.m., damaged a home belonging to William Jackson of 414 Andrew Lane.

Schaumburg Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamson said that Jackson's five-year-old son started the fire while playing with matches in a utility room. The chief reported that the fire was primarily confined to the utility room but some damage was also done to the attic. He said the fire was brought under control in about 15 minutes.

Abrahamson said there were no injuries. He estimated damage as $5,000 to the structure and $3,000 to contents. Firefighters from Hanover Park were called to Schaumburg Fire Station No. 1 to back up local units but were not called to fight the fire.

Parent Support Asked By Schools

More than 13,000 invitations to attend tonight's Schaumburg Village Board meeting were sent home with students in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 Monday.

The board of education, in a special communique to parents, asked their support for the school board's opposition to the distribution of a builder's donation made by Dunbar Homes, Inc. development proposed in Schaumburg.

FIRE CAUSED $8,000 damage to a Schaumburg home. Schaumburg firemen inspect the utility room where the fire started. Here Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamson and fire started.

Five Seeking Library Posts

With the last day of filing for Schaumburg Township Library posts less than one week away, five township residents have filed for the five posts up for election April 3.

Incumbent library board Trustee Harold Bond appointed to the board last year is the most recent person to file a petition of candidacy. Bond will seek a two-year term.

Others who filed for the remaining two six year terms and two four year terms are, incumbents Deborah Miller and Joseph Mc Auliffe seeking the two six-year terms and John A. Lucas and incumbent Walter North seeking the two four-year terms.

Mrs. Miller resides at 143 Rosedale Ln., Schaumburg; Mc Auliffe, 607 S. Dartmouth Ln., Schaumburg; Lucas lives at 181 Highland Blvd., Hoffman Estates and Bond at 1501 S. Roslyn Ln., Schaumburg.

Mc Auliffe elected to the board in 1967 ends a six-year term in April. The board positions of Mrs. Miller, Bond, North and David Mc Guire expire in April since they were all appointed. Mc Guire is undecided about running for election.

Others presently serving on the board are Mrs. Ruth Tresselt, and Robert Lyons. Their seats on the board are not up for reelection.

Filing closes Monday. Petitions of candidacy are now available in the township offices, 105 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg.

Library trustees must file as independents.

The builder's $150,000 cash donation to the proposed Presbyterian-St. Lukes branch hospital in Schaumburg in lieu of a donation to Dist. 54 has prompted a citizen's protest. Letters and calls to The Herald and Schaumburg village offices have been received.

The board of education, at its Jan. 18 meeting, decided to oppose the proposed 1,716-unit condominium development at Schaumburg and Plum Grove roads.

BOARD OF EDUCATION Pres. Miss Dianne Marks will voice the board's opposition to the development at the 7:30 p.m. Schaumburg Zoning Board meeting and the 8 p.m. village board meeting immediately following.

The Board of Education memo to parents states "the Dunbar development is detrimental to children in the district." Also, the comment that the board opposes Dunbar because of the Schaumburg zoning board's statement that it will no longer recommend builders follow the district's builders donation guidelines.

The memo urges parents who support the board to attend tonight's meeting where final consideration to the plan will be given by the village board.

A group of Elk Grove Village residents whose children attend the Schaumburg Elementary School plan to attend tonight's board meeting. At a meeting in Elk Grove on Friday, the residents united to protest the builder's donation to the hospital and decided to attempt to meet with the builder to discuss alternatives.

MR. AND MRS. Herb Sumerfield of Elk Grove Village, one of those couples that attended the session spoke to a Dunbar representative yesterday on the telephone. Mrs. Sumerfield's report to the Elk Grove Village group was that village officials in Schaumburg must decide how the builders donation is to be used.

She said the builder told her husband the 20 acres of land and the $150,000 cash donation Dunbar gave the village could be dispersed as Mayor Robert O. Atcher chooses.

"We are not objecting to Dunbar but to the Schaumburg mayor's plans for the use of the donations the builder gave," said Mrs. Sumerfield.

Tentative zoning board approval was granted Jan. 10, along with the $150,000 hospital donation and 20 for the Schaumburg Civic and Cultural Center.

Tonight's meetings will be held in Schaumburg's Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Dr., Schaumburg.

Virginia Hayter Endorsed By Woman's Club

Virginia Hayter has been endorsed in her race for mayor of Hoffman Estates by the Hoffman Estates Woman's Club, in which she has been a member 10 years.

Mrs. Hayter currently is a village trustee. She is running against incumbent Mayor Frederick Downey.

In the women's club, Mrs. Hayter has been parliamentarian the past three years, and has also served as membership co-chairman, community improvement coordinator and instructor for members interested in preparing gourmet goods. She has served on other committees also, and assisted in revising club by-laws.

Among Mrs. Hayter's other activities are Girl Scouts, in which she has served nine years and been a board of directors member six years; the League of Women Voters, the PTA Council for Dist. 54 elementary schools and the Salvation Army Community Counseling Center advisory board.

Mrs. Hayter is a past president of the board of education of Dist. 54 and now is assistant chairman of the board's advisory committee on vocational education.

Former President Johnson Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th President of the United States, is dead.

Johnson, thrust into the presidency by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the man who won the White House with one of the greatest land-slides in American politics, died of an apparent heart attack Monday.

A spokesman said Johnson was stricken at his ranch in Central Texas and was flown to Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. George McGranahan.

JOHNSON'S WIDOW, Lady Bird, was notified at her offices in Austin and she immediately flew to San Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending. Johnson, 64, left Washington in January, 1969 to assume the life of gentleman rancher in the hills of Central Texas where he was raised.

The man who hitchhiked to college, ran for his first elective office 35 years ago and rose to lead a nation and the world had suffered three previous heart attacks.

He suffered his first 17 years ago when he was a U.S. senator, and two years ago was hospitalized for two weeks with angina pectoris — a blockage of blood flow to the heart. He suffered a third attack in Charlottesville, Va., April 7, 1972, while visiting his daughter Lynda and her husband Charles Robb.

AFTER SPENDING less than five days at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville he was brought back to Texas and the Brooke Hospital.

Johnson, robust at 6-3 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success.

He gave it in two words: "Hard work." But he was finally stricken during a life of ease away from pressure politics.

"These are the days and nights I choose to have," he told friends on the first anniversary of his retirement from public office. "This is something I've never been able to do before. I do just what I want to do."

Johnson, then vice president, became the 36th president when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

A YEAR LATER the former Senate majority leader and vice president won the presidency in his own right. He received 61 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson chose not to run for a second full term and was succeeded by President Richard M. Nixon.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Otto Kerner's chief defense attorney, Paul Connolly, questioned former Racing Board Chairman William Miller in detail about his story on making stock available to Kerner and Theodore Isaacs.

The Nation

The U.S. Supreme Court voted 7 to 2 to prohibit the states from interfering with a doctor's medical decision to perform an abortion during a woman's first three months of pregnancy.

Sports

The Market

Pat Gerlach

It promises to be standing room only at tonight's village board meeting when Schaumburg trustees will be faced with taking action which could ultimately bring an additional 1,700 high-rise condominium units into the community.

Although members of the village zoning board of appeals have given their unofficial approval to the Dunbar Homes, Inc. proposal, they will meet just prior to the board meeting tonight to formally vote on the matter. That is, unless community reaction to the development forces delay.

At any rate, whenever the question reaches the village board, it cannot help but be an agonizing problem for local decision makers due to controversial diversion of $150,000 in builder donations to a proposed hospital.

Under usual conditions, the "voluntary" builder contribution would have gone to Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

No one questions the need for a hospital to provide for the medical well-being of Schaumburg and surrounding communities.

But by the same token, village government has, in most cases in the past, demonstrated responsiveness to assisting in providing quality education in what has been highly touted as a "complete planned community."

For this reason, this reporter, who has known all six trustees on a more than casual basis for quite a few years, cannot see these men, all of whom either now have or have had children in the local district, shortchanging the educational future of any child living in the village.

This morning there is no question in my mind that they will continue to regard education in a most important light. I hope I still believe this tomorrow.

MEANWHILE, TOM KOSIN, of Schaumburg, has had recent first-hand experience with the need for adequate hospital facilities closer to home. Kosin, who several weeks ago was stricken with a severe respiratory infection, could not be admitted to either Northwest Community Hospital, in Arlington Heights, or Alexian Brothers Medical Center in neighboring Elk Grove Village due to overcrowded conditions at both hospitals. He eventually became a patient at Sherman General Hospital, Elgin.

Andy Winkas, a Schaumburg United Party member, is reported to be looking around for people interested in running for Schaumburg Township governmental positions. The township board and its sub-groups provide governmental services to unincorporated areas of the township and mental health and youth services throughout the township and general assistance.

SOME OF us thought the Hoffman Estates GOP was waiting for Christmas to announce its platform. With no word yet forthcoming, it is hoped they don't plan to wait for Easter since that is the Sunday following the April village election.

Civic Party leaders plan their first public platform meeting Thursday night at Hildale Restaurant.

Maybe the GOP is waiting to hear what CP has to say?

THIS IS the week to send birthday greetings to the Jaycees who provide backbone to many community projects in both Hoffman Estates and Jaycees. And while you're at it happy birthdays are in order this week for Denise Orzolek and Ron Bond of Hoffman Estates.

MANNERS OFTEN make fortunes, says the poet of Payson Street.

Wet Cables Blamed For Phone Loss

Telephone service to Harper College and to numerous businesses and apartments along Algonquin Road in Schaumburg and Rolling Meadows was disrupted for several hours yesterday because of wet cables.

The area affected by the service malfunction stretched from the college, at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine, to the Meadow Trace apartment complex, at Algonquin and Ill. Rte. 53 in Rolling Meadows.

HANK SIEFKIN, a spokesman for Illinois Bell Telephone Co., attributed the breakdown in service to wet cables at Brookdale Lane and Old Plum Grove Road in Palatine Township. He said moisture apparently seeped through a small hole in a cable, affecting 1,910 lines.

The damage was discovered at 2:40 a.m., but the specific location of the breakdown was not determined until 6:15 a.m. Some of the service was restored by 2 p.m., and the rest by later in the afternoon.

The largest firms affected by the malfunction were Motorola Inc., 1400 E. Algonquin Rd., and Polo Food Products Co., 601 E. Algonquin Rd., both in Schaumburg.

Also without phone service were the Lancer Steak House, 50 E. Algonquin Rd., and Beef 'n' Barrel restaurant, 2400 Hammond Dr., also in Schaumburg.

Apartments without service were in the Meadow Tracs complex, as well as International Village, 1220 E. Algonquin Rd.; and Walden Apartments, Algonquin Road near Plum Grove Road, both in Schaumburg.

The telephone company provided three mobile units along Algonquin Road for emergency calls.

Bicycle Club Formation Urged For Enthusiasts

All cycling enthusiasts, get your bikes cleaned and ready. Tom Carolla of Schaumburg Schwinn has proposed that interested persons from Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates form a bicycle club.

The prime purpose of the club would be to promote cycling in the area. The formation of bicycle paths would be a major objective, Carolla said.

The club could also sponsor bike tours of distances ranging from 20 to 100 miles, he said. These could be family tours or ones for young people and be day or weekend activities, Carolla added.

Interested persons should contact Carolla at 882-7728, or at his store, 1228 Roselle Rd. While the shop would act as club sponsor, Carolla said the members would elect their own officers and run the organization.

Carolla said Village Trustee Diane Jensen, who also chairs the environmental committee, has voiced interest in establishing a bike path along Roselle Road to Harper College.

THE PROBLEM, he said, has been in getting easements from the various governmental units involved. Carolla said the club could actively work with the villages in establishing bike paths with other communities.

The paths could also hook up with those proposed for the Ned Brown Forest Preserve in Elk Grove Township.

A bike club in Elk Grove Village has been very active, Carolla said, adding that the enthusiasm of the former mayor, Jack Pahl, sparked interest there.

"Many housewives would ride a bicycle to the shopping center if they had a safe means of getting there. Problems of traffic and air pollution make bike paths additionally necessary," Carolla said.

Deadline Nears For Salt Creek Plan

Monday is the deadline for state and federal agencies to complete the necessary reviews of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement before sending the agreement to Congress for possible federal funding.

Barry Good, legislative assistant to Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., said the completed reviews will be sent to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The SCS will then incorporate the different agencies' comments into a final work plan for the agreement.

This final plan will be sent to Congress for approval of federal funding under the SCS fiscal year 1974 budget.

Good said no date has been set for the final work plan to be submitted to Congress. He said when it will be submitted depends on the amount of revision necessary to the work plan based on the comments from other agencies.

THE AGENCIES that have to review the plan are: the governor's office; State Clearing House; Northeast Illinois Planning Commission; Army Corps of Engineers; Department of the Interior; Department of Commerce; Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Environmental Protection Agency; Federal Power Commission and the U.S. Coast Guard.

If Congress can act on the agreement in time for the 1974 fiscal year, federal funds would be available on July 1, 1973. The agreement that Congress will consider is the original $28.5 million project to build flood controls across the Salt Creek. Federal funds for approximately half the cost of the project are being requested.

This original agreement has already been approved by various local and state government agencies.

After the agreement had been sent to Washington last September, Richard Ogilvie, then governor, announced that the state would not wait for federal funding, but would expand the project and begin work immediately.

THE SCS REVIEWED Ogilvie's proposal and said the state could begin work without risking the loss of federal funding at a later date.

In one of his final acts in office, Ogilvie signed a $170,000 emergency appropriations bill for design work on the flood control structures.

Ogilvie's successor, Daniel Walker has said the Salt Creek project will receive a high priority with his administration, but has not announced any specific details.

The Illinois Division of Water Resource Management has asked Walker to include a $5.6 million appropriation for flood control in his administrative budget for the next fiscal year. The money would be used to start work on flood controls for Salt Creek and other waterways in Cook and DuPage counties.

Ice Skates Found

The Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District has a pair of ice skates that do not belong to it, but it wants to get rid of them.

Fire Chief Carl Selke said the skates were found in front of the fire house last week, but they have been unable to determine who owns the skates.

"We think someone must have left the skates outside when they came into the fire house to get warm," Selke said.

Persons who believe the skates might belong to them are asked to inquire at Fire Station Number One, 160 Flagstaff Ln., Hoffman Estates.

Teachers Told: Quit Smoking, Set Example

Teachers should quit smoking and give up their smoking lounges as an example for students, a doctor told more than 200 teachers at a health education workshop in Park Ridge yesterday.

"You can save more lives than we can," Dr. Harold Levine, physician at Hines Memorial Hospital in Hines, told the educators at Maine South High School in Park Ridge.

"We deal with the burnt-out ashes of cigarette smokers," he said, but teachers can stop smoking among students before it becomes a health problem. Teachers should work together to quit smoking and give up their private smoking facilities if they want to make health education programs effective and turn down student demands for their own smoking facilities, Dr. Levine said.

Dr. Levine, chief of pulmonary disease at Hines, and professor in the medical school of Loyola University, was one of the six guest speakers who talked to health education teachers on smoking, drug abuse, and alcoholism during the day-long workshop.

HIGH SCHOOL health education teachers from throughout the Chicago area attended the workshop sponsored by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and the Chicago Lung Association.

In welcoming teachers to the workshop, Cook County Superintendent of Schools Richard J. Martwick, reaffirmed his statement against student smoking facilities in local high schools. He said schools should do whatever they can to discourage student smoking.

The board of education at Dist. 207 held a public hearing on the smoking issue last week. Student smoking is prohibited at all four Dist. 207 high schools but students smoke illegally in the school washrooms which are difficult for teachers and administrators to supervise. Last summer students asked the board to allow student smoking in a confined area on the school grounds because student smoking in the washrooms was becoming a sanitation problem.

Dr. Levine said he is opposed to smoking for anyone, students and teachers alike, and reminded teachers that they do serve as an adult example for many of their students. Dr. Levine also cautioned school administrators against equating smoking with immorality. "I wish you would look at this as a health and education problem without religious or moral overtones," he said.

IN CONTRAST to many other countries, the life expectancy of the population is not rising in the United States, but has leveled off in recent years, said Dr. Levine. The cause of this leveling off is lung cancer which is caused by smoking, he said.

"Smoking doubles your chance of getting a heart attack," said Dr. Levine, and the student who smokes is twice as likely to have a heart attack by middle age as a student who doesn't smoke. While other forms of cancer are causing fewer deaths due to earlier detection, lung cancer deaths are still increasing and are reaching epidemic proportions, he said. More Americans will die of lung cancer in 1973 than died in Indochina since 1962, said Dr. Levine.

Tom Janeway, director of the Illinois Department of Health Education, told teachers that lung cancer is not a medical failure, but an educational failure. The only way known to curb lung cancer is to stop smoking, he said, and teaching the health hazards of cigarette smoking should be the job of the health education teacher.

There is a critical need for more workshops and training programs for health education teachers said Janeway. He praised the Dist. 207 health education curriculum written by Dist. 207 faculty members last summer. The curriculum is now being distributed by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction and was given to teachers who attended yesterday's workshop. The next health education workshop will include lectures on sex education, venereal disease, pollution, acupuncture, and will be held at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dec Rd., Park Ridge, on Friday, March 2.

Panel Offers Ideas For Village Emblem

Schaumburg's newly formed esthetics committee has contributed a number of ideas for a village emblem for consideration.

Shirley LeBeau, committee chairman, said ideas will be given further study and attempts will be made to prepare several sketches in the near future.

Mrs. LeBeau also indicated that suggested emblems will be taken to village residents first through a community survey prior to presentation to the village board.

Village Receives Ecology Donation

A $40 donation was received by the Village of Hoffman Estates recently from the Barrington Square Ecology Action Group.

The funds are to be used for landscaping around the village recycling center when it is permanently established at the new municipal hall site this spring.

Village Librarian To Head NSLS Panel

Michael J. Madden

Michael J. Madden, librarian of Schaumburg Township Public Library, 32 W. Library Ln., Schaumburg, has been elected chairman of the executive committee of the regional library advisory committee of North Suburban Library System for 1973.

Madden, his wife Patricia and their two daughters live at 1405 Churchill Rd., Schaumburg.

The advisory committee includes the head librarians of the 31 member libraries of the system. It advises the system of library functions, activities and policies.

Among persons named to the executive committee is Kenneth Swanson of Wheeling Public Library.

'Locomotive Chase' Showing Saturday

The movie, "The Great Locomotive Chase" will be shown Saturday by the Hoffman Estates Park District as part of the district's continuing film festival series.

The movie, which stars Fess Parker, Jeffrey Hunter, Claude Jarman Jr. and Jerry Caray, Jr., will be shown at 2 p.m. at the Vogelbe Recreation Center, 650 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

The film relates the true story of how 22 Union spies attempted to wreck the Confederate Army's transportation system during the Civil War. The bravery displayed by the soldiers inspired the Congress to create the first Medal of Honor.

Admission to the film will be 50 cents. Refreshments will be available.

Signup Extended For Winter Session

In order to accommodate more persons in the winter session recreation programs, the Schaumburg Park District has announced that it will extend its registration deadline until Jan. 29.

Recreation Supervisor Sharon Mattioda said there are openings in a number of programs, including knitting, crocheting, sculpture, weaving and ceramics.

Information on the schedule of classes and registration fees may be obtained at the Meineke Community Center, 220 E. Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg or by calling 894-4660.

Play School Sessions Still Have Openings

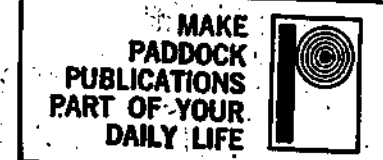

The play school program offered for preschool youngsters by the Hoffman Estates Park District is still accepting registrations for the winter session.

Morning classes from 9:15 to 11:15 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and afternoon sessions 1:15 to 3:15 Monday through Friday are still accepting youngsters.

Arts and crafts, fingerplays, organized games, and special events are planned for the program.

The registration fee for residents of the district is $25 for the two-day per week session and $37 for the three-day per week sessions.

More information can be obtained by calling the district at 829-8801.

Basketball Streak Now At 25 Games

The Hoffman Estates Boys Club men's basketball team has increased its two-season winning streak to 25 games by posting three victories recently.

The Blue Chips beat a team composed of players from last year's Conant High School varsity team, which advanced to state superregionals, 87-67.

The team also posted two victories in the Addison Park District's basketball league by downing the McDonalds, 82 to 74. They beat the McDonalds' team a second time by the score of 94-60 in another contest.

Well Financing Wins Approval

Agreements for the financing of a deep well and two shallow wells in the Village of Schaumburg received approval from the village board recently.

Joe Zgonina, village engineer, told the board he had reached agreements with several developers for the wells, under which the developers will make contributions to the village sufficient to pay construction costs. The village later will waive tap-on fees when the developers connect to the water supply system, in amounts equal to the donations, said Zgonina.

The deep well is to be located in the Del Lago Villas project north of Higgins Road, and donations will be made by a number of developers. The well is expected to be in use by the end of a year, said Zgonina.

The shallow wells are to be located in the Levitt & Sons development and in the Centex Schaumburg Industrial Park development. Each of those firms has agreed to the financing arrangement, said Zgonina. He noted he was seeking the approval so that he can begin engineering work.

Carnival Approved For Jewish

A permit for a carnival was granted by the Hoffman Estates Village Board to the Woodfield Jewish Congregation last night.

Last week the board told the congregation it would not grant the permit if the proposed date of June 16-21 conflicted with plans by Conant High School Booster Club for its annual carnival. Trustee Dyrle Rathman was delegated to check Conant's timetable.

Rathman reported last night Conant's carnival is planned for mid-May. "There is no conflict," he said.

The permit was approved when Mrs. Cecile Jacobs, representing the congregation, provided the board with the name of the carnival firm, Miller Amusement Corp. of La Grange in response to a board request. She also told the board, although the congregation meets in Schaumburg, many of its members are from Hoffman Estates.

Rand-Central Repair Estimate Hiked $140,000

An Illinois Highway Department plan for the improvement of the Rand-Central-Mount Prospect roads intersection would cost at least $140,000 more than the current proposal and calls for relocating Rand more than 25 feet to the east.

The plan is only tentative, and some Mount Prospect officials have expressed reservations over the proposal. They point out the state plan is more costly and involves the use of more right-of-way than the proposal drawn up by Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

Village Eng. Leonard H. Dicke said the local plan to improve the intersection, including the nearby Central-Mount Prospect roads intersection, is estimated to cost $220,000. But he said the state plan would cost about $350,000 for construction alone, plus whatever would have to be spent to buy the necessary right of way. No date for a meeting on the plans has been set.

"WE'RE WILLING TO go along with it, but not the additional cost," Dicke said. He indicated that every attempt would be made to have the state pay any extra cost between the state's plan and Mount Prospect and Des Plaines' proposal.

The intersection improvement project is to be built under the TOPICS program in which the federal government pays 50 per cent and the state and local governments each pay a quarter of the cost. One corner of the intersection is in Des Plaines, and that community has offered to pay 17 per cent of the local government share.

Dicke said the state plan is concerned mainly with a steady flow of traffic on Rand Road, a state highway. Mount Prospect, he said, is more interested in keeping the Central and Mount Prospect roads cross traffic flowing smoothly.

The state wants to shift Rand Road to permit more room for stacking east-bound Central Road traffic that want to turn north onto Rand Road. But Dicke said, "The stacking problem can be circumvented by sequential signalization."

GEORGE MARCH, of Alstot and March, the firm that has done the engineering for the project, said he is not all that sure if the state really intends to move Rand Road.

"I don't know if they are truly recommending this," he said yesterday. He said he feels they were just offering what they considered a better plan than what his firm had proposed.

A true TOPICS project, March said, is a remedial plan, but the state's proposal is more far-reaching. When asked, he said he was unsure whether the state proposal would still qualify as a TOPICS project.

It is now up to the two communities, acting through March, and the state to come up with a plan agreeable to all sides. In a sense, the state has the final say because nothing can be done without its approval.

Girl Scout Troop Plans Pizza Sale

Girl Scout Cadette Troop 397, sponsored by Lincoln Junior High School, is planning a pizza sale.

Orders will be taken today through Feb. 13. Pizzas will be delivered Feb. 17. Customers can use them immediately or freeze them for future use. For more information or to place an order call 437-7281 or 437-4797.

Profits from the sale will be used to finance the girls' trip to Milwaukee this spring in connection with work on their Girl Scout Traveler Badge.

Youths Credited With Dousing Fire

Two fast-thinking youths have been credited with putting out a Christmas tree fire in a Mount Prospect home.

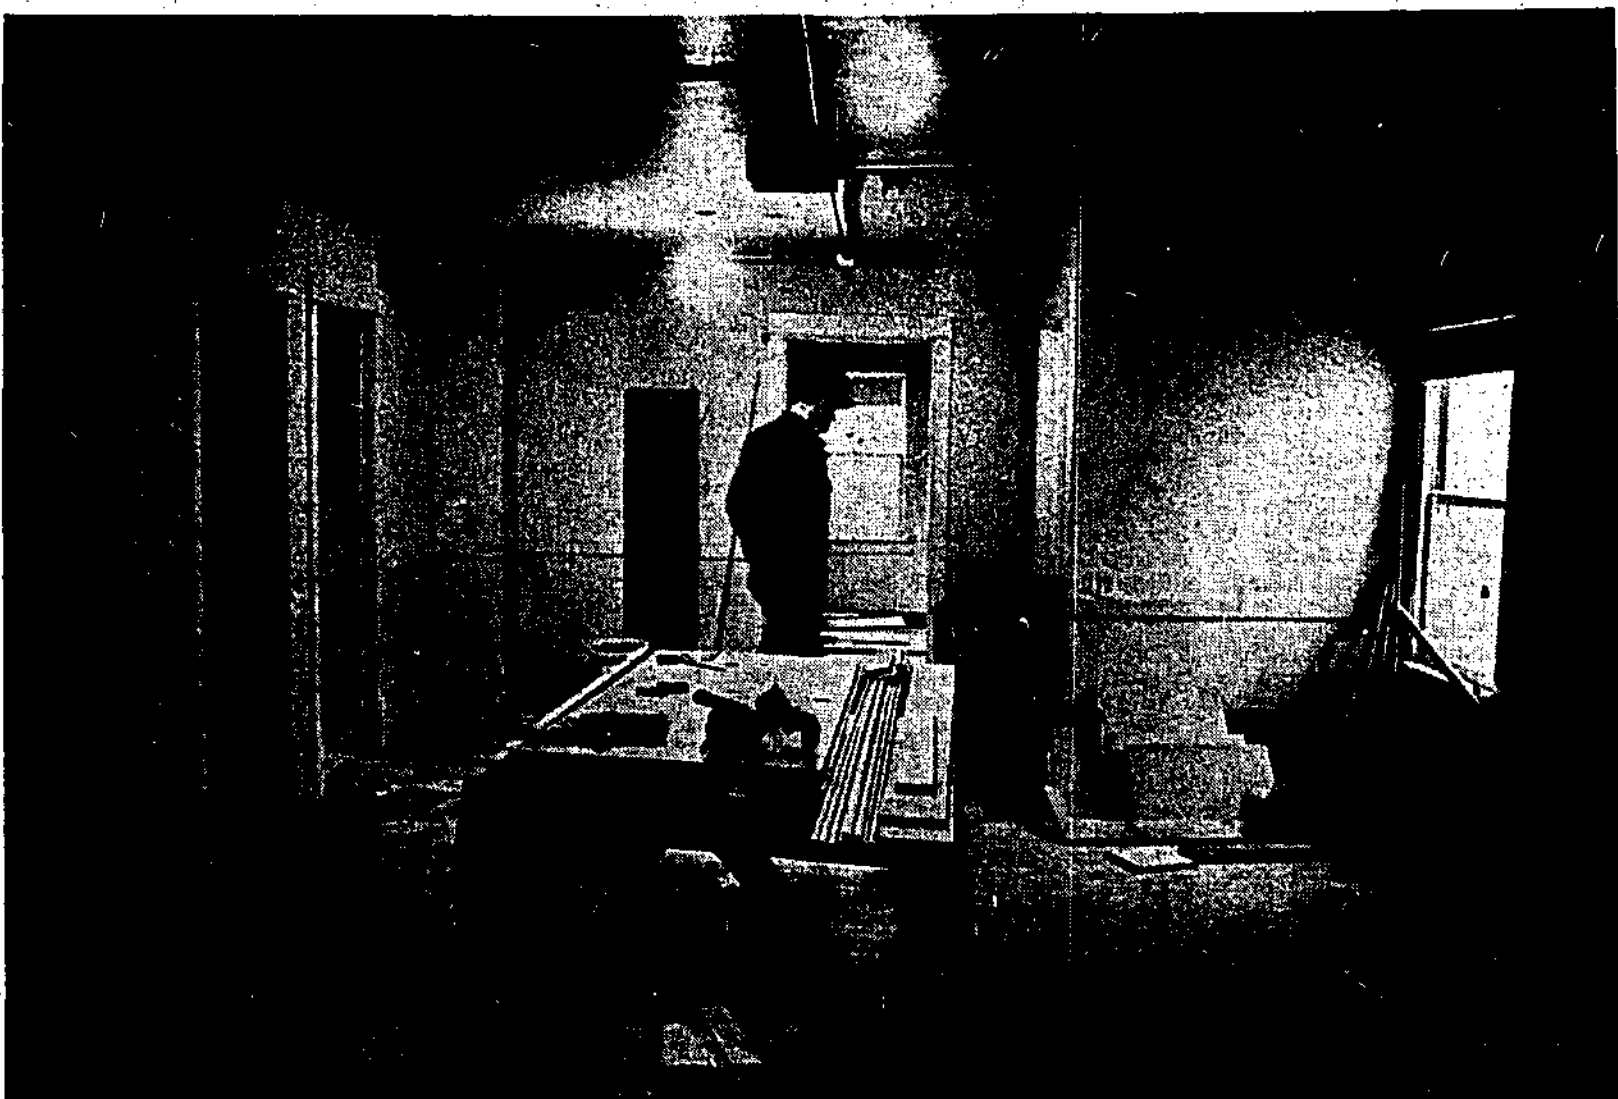

The youths, Bob Pelican, 14, of 20 S. George St., and Mike Latoro, 14, of 21 S. Edward St., both of Mount Prospect, were walking past the Ronald C. Peters home at 214 S. George St. just before 6 p.m. Friday when they noticed a fire in the living room. One youth immediately called the fire department and then helped the other in pouring water on the fire.

According to fire department officials, the boys had extinguished the fire by the time the firemen arrived. They said the boys' quick action possibly saved the lives of the three young children and Mrs. Peters, who were home at the time. Damage was placed at $250.

One child, Matthew, 4, did receive a second degree burn on his left hand when he pulled a tree light extension cord out of its wall socket. Fire officials said they believe this is what caused the fire. They said either there was a short in the extension cord or else the electric charge arced when the child pulled the cord. Some tinsel then caught fire and spread to the tree.

REMODELING CONTINUES on the building that Village Mgr. Robert Eppley said the two agencies will soon house the Mount Prospect ICE House. The building was purchased recently by the village. The building will make the move to their new quarters on the second floor by March 1. The building was purchased recently by the village.

Cynthia Schwartz 'Top Educator'

Cynthia Schwartz, 24, a teacher of the mentally handicapped, has been named the Outstanding Young Educator in Mount Prospect for 1973.

Mrs. Schwartz, a teacher at Gregory School in Mount Prospect Dist. 57, received the award at last night's Mount Prospect Jaycees Public Affairs Banquet at the Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect.

Dolores Haugh, managing editor of the "Mount Prospect Times," received the Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award. A Prospect High School senior, David Kimball, won the Jaycees Outstanding Junior Citizen Award.

Presenting the educator award to Mrs. Schwartz was Francis Black, the 1972 award winner. Mrs. Schwartz, who lives at 280 N. Westgate Rd., Mount Prospect, was graduated from the University of Dayton in 1969. She has been teaching the educable mentally handicapped in Dist. 57 since 1970.

THE WINNER OF the Distinguished Service Award, Dolores Haugh, recently was appointed managing editor of the "Mount Prospect Times." A resident of Mount Prospect for the last 19 years, she is a former feature writer for Paddock Publications. Mrs. Haugh is a member of the Mount Prospect Art League and the Mount Prospect Historical Society. In 1972 she won the Shell Oil Ecology Award, and she has won several journalism awards. She is one of the founders of the Izaak Walton League's Prospect

Jaycees Reveal Nominee List

Here is a list of nominees for the three Mount Prospect Jaycees awards given out last night:

Outstanding Young Educator: Cynthia Schwartz, Gregory School; Penelope Osgood, Sunset Park; James Gelhaar, Prospect High; James Hanert, Prospect High; Judy Boss, River Trails Junior High; Sam Spitali, St. Viator High; John Wollenberg, Forest View High; Sherry Wharton, Busse; Bernadette Gross, Freehanville; Roberta Lewis, Euclid; William De Stefano, Westbrook; Robert Allgaler, Lincoln Junior High; Patricia Finke, Lincoln Junior High; Betty Conway, Forest View High; Elizabeth Schachman, Fairview.

Distinguished Service Award: Dolores Haugh, the Rev. Dennis Wilcox. Outstanding Junior Citizen: David Kimball, Prospect High; Charlotte Goersher, Forest View High; William Carley, St. Viator High.

chapter. David Kimball, recipient of the Outstanding Junior Citizen Award, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Kimball of 600 Go-Wanda Trail in Mount Prospect.

David, 17, is president of the senior class at Prospect High. He served as the Mount Prospect Youth Chairman for the Re-election of U.S. Senator Charles Percy in 1972 and is active in the local teen Republican group. In 1970 he worked at a community center in central Mexico during the summer.

More than 50 persons including Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert and Mrs. Teichert attended last night's banquet. Keynote speaker was Village Mgr. Robert Eppley who lauded the Jaycees for their efforts "in recognizing the worth of others."

THE THREE award winners will receive U.S. Savings Bonds and commemorative plaques. All winners will be eligible to enter the state Jaycee contest later this year.

Last night's banquet was one of a series of events being held as part of Jaycee Week.

Also this week Jaycee tours of the village hall at 112 E. Northwest Hwy. are being held weekday afternoons and evenings and Saturday morning.

On Saturday, the Jaycees will take part in a blood donor project marking the start of the village's 4 per cent blood program. If 4 per cent of the village's population donates blood this year the blood needs of the entire village will be covered for a year under a North Suburban Association for Health Resources program.

Library Expansion Topic Of Meeting

Village officials and Mount Prospect Public Library Board members will meet Monday to discuss ways in which the library can expand its facilities over the next few years.

The meeting had been scheduled for last night, but was moved back a week because of conflicts in scheduling. Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley and Mayor Robert D. Teichert will represent the village in the preliminary talks.

No specific expansion plan is expected to be produced from the meeting. However, in December, the library board indicated it wanted to triple the size of the current library. Members of the library board said that most of the proposed expansion was required just for the library to measure up to current library standards for the village's population size.

Teichert has been pushing for a downtown plan which would renovate the business district and include expanded municipal facilities. Both he and library board members feel that the library could be part of that plan.

Former President Johnson Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th President of the United States, is dead.

Johnson, thrust into the presidency by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the man who won the White House with one of the greatest landslide in American politics, died of an apparent heart attack Monday.

A spokesman said Johnson was stricken at his ranch in Central Texas and was flown to Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. George McGranahan.

JOHNSON'S WIDOW, Lady Bird, was notified at her offices in Austin and she immediately flew to San Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending. Johnson, 64, left Washington in January, 1969 to assume the life of gentleman rancher in the hills of Central Texas where he was raised.

The man who hitchhiked to college, ran for his first elective office 35 years ago and rose to lead a nation and the world had suffered three previous heart attacks.

He suffered his first 17 years ago when he was a U.S. senator, and two years ago was hospitalized for two weeks with angina pectoris — a blockage of blood flow to the heart. He suffered a third attack in Charlottesville, Va., April 7, 1972, while visiting his daughter Lynda and her husband Charles Robb.

AFTER SPENDING less than five days at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville, he was brought back to Texas and the Brooke Hospital.

Johnson, robust at 6-3 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success.

He gave it in two words: "Hard work." But he was finally stricken during a life of ease away from pressure politics.

"These are the days and nights I choose to have," he told friends on the first anniversary of his retirement from public office. "This is something I've never been able to do before. I do just what I want to do."

Johnson, then vice president, became the 36th president when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

A YEAR LATER the former Senate majority leader and vice president won the presidency in his own right. He received 41 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson chose not to run for a second full term and was succeeded by President Richard M. Nixon.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Otto Kerner's chief defense attorney, Paul Connolly, questioned former Racing Board Chairman William Miller in detail about his story on making stock available to Kerner and Theodore Isaacs.

The Nation

The U.S. Supreme Court voted 7 to 2 to prohibit the states from interfering with a doctor's medical decision to perform an abortion during a woman's first three months of pregnancy.

Sports

The Market

Economic uncertainties continued to weigh on the stock market, driving prices lower in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The widely followed Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.38 to 1,018.81. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index dropped 0.57 to 118.21 and the average price of a share of NYSE common stock declined 23 cents.

The Mount Prospect Fire Department recently took first place in its class in the Chicago Chamber of Commerce and Industry's annual fire department activities scrapbook contest. The book covers fire department activities for the year. In 1971 the department's scrapbook won them second place in the same contest for the 30,000 to 60,000 population class.

CHICKEN BOX suppers will be featured tonight at two local PTA gatherings. Fairview School PTA will hold its third annual family dinner at the Prospect High School cafeteria. Entertainment will be provided by the St. Mark Youth Choir. Joan Clanton and Reenie Schmitz are co-chairmen.

Music south of the border will be featured at the Westbrook School dinner. "Estudiantina de San Pio," a group of young Spanish-speaking musicians from Chicago's St. Plus Church, will entertain. This group previously appeared on television and at the Museum of Science and Industry. Program chairman Lynn Streeter and cultural arts chairmen Lynn Streeter and Agnes Meeker are in charge of arrangements. Special speaker will be Dist. 57 Supt. Richard Percy.

PAUL'S LETTER to the Romans is the subject of a five-week Bible study being planned by the Women's Society of Christian Service (WCS) at Trinity United Methodist Church, 605 W. Golf Rd. All area women are invited to attend.

The studies will be held at the church on five consecutive Tuesday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30, beginning Jan. 30.

"Doorway to a New Age," the study guide by James D. Smart, is now available. Anyone interested in further information may call Mrs. Gerald Fossler, WCS spiritual life chairman, at 255-5519.

AIRMAN MICHAEL Wald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wald of 604 N. Maple in Prospect Heights, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aircraft mechanic course at Sheppard Air Force Base in Texas. He has now been assigned to Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., for duty with the Tactical Air Command. Wald is a 1970 graduate of Wheeling High School.

WINNERS IN this season's outdoor holiday decorations contest are Mr. and Mrs. Don Weibel of 1833 Tano Dr. The $15 cash award was announced by Frank Chandler, president of the Euclid-Lake Association at its January meeting. This is the fourth year the association has sponsored the contest.

Second place and a $10 award went to Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Fries of 1758 Corktree Ln. Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Cavaero of 1813 McDonald Rd. won the third prize of $5. Judges were Mr. and Mrs. William Haase and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Coombs.

ON THURSDAY evening Carol Kiner and Carol Gering, local 4-H Club members, will demonstrate how to give a demonstration at the 4-H office building. Both girls have been county delegates to the Illinois State Fair.

This meeting aims to help 4-H members learn to demonstrate their projects effectively to a group. Selection of demonstration delegates to the 1973 State Fair will begin March 12.

Mount Prospect now has 11 4-H units. According to the county extension office, members from cities and towns now outnumber farm members in the organization. Boys and girls between 9 and 18 are eligible to join. Anyone interested in further information about 4-H may call the club office at 253-6460.

Scouts Plan Paper Drive For Saturday

A newspaper recycling drive will be held Saturday by Boy Scout Troop 153 in Mount Prospect. Residents are asked to deliver old newspapers to Gregory School, 400 E. Gregory St. between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Papers will be picked up at the curb in the area bordered by Highland on the north, Weller Creek on the south, Mount Prospect Road on the east and Russell Street on the west. Residents of other areas who want papers picked up at their homes should call Leonard Mosher at 255-8043, or Paul Prechal at 253-5492.

A BIT OF THE FAR EAST has come to Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows. The minicourses are designed to give students an opportunity to pursue interests outside the traditional curriculum.

Few Seek School Caucus Backing

Few prospective school board candidates in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 have submitted their names to the General Caucus for endorsement consideration, according to Robert Fasick, chairman of the caucus nominating committee.

Thus far the names of nine persons including incumbent Peter Oleson have been submitted to the caucus for support in the April school board election. Oleson was appointed to the school board last May to fill the seat of former Board Pres. Harrison Hanson. Oleson's term as well as those of George Foster and Peter Dudrow, expire in April. Both Foster and Dudrow have announced they do not plan to run for reelection.

Discussing the poor turnout of potential candidates, Fasick said, "It seems people don't care as much now since things are going smooth in the district."

FASICK SAID he has sent out information sheets to several residents to find out if any would be interested in serving on the school board. The nominating committee is also calling people they think might be interested. "We have about 10 names in mind that we would like to contact," Fasick said. He would not reveal who they are.

Boxes to collect names of prospective school board candidates have been set up in three locations in the village: Keeler's Pharmacy, 5 W. Prospect Ave., Van Driel's Drug Store, 100 E. Northwest Hwy. and Doretti Pharmacy, 2 N. Main St. According to the Illinois School Code, a school board member must have lived in the district for at least one year.

The caucus nominating committee will hold its first screening meeting Sunday at South Church, Community Baptist, 501 S. Emerson St., Mount Prospect. The meeting is open only to members of the caucus nominating committee.

The final date for requesting a screening by the nominating committee is Feb. 11, Fasick said. Those approved by the committee will appear before the general caucus to seek endorsement on Feb. 27.

Anyone wishing to submit his own or someone else's name to the caucus for consideration should call Robert Fasick at 259-2895.

Caucus Screening Officials Named

The screening committee of the Dist. 57 General Caucus selected Gary Burke as chairman. Vice chairman is Chuck Lutzow.

Persons interested in being interviewed for caucus endorsement in the April 14 school district election may now contact Burke, 537-8323, or Lutzow, 827-1254. Arrangements should be made as soon as possible so statements can be prepared and candidates can be interviewed prior to the delegates' meeting

Feb. 14.

At the Feb. 14 meeting, the 27 qualified caucus delegates will listen to each candidate and select the three they feel are best suited for the three positions that will be open on the board. New caucus bylaws will allow the delegates to select one extra candidate if they feel an additional person is qualified.

THE THREE incumbents whose seats will be up for election have not yet announced whether they will seek reelection.

The three are Ronald Cole of Wheeling, the Rev. L. James Wylie of Prospect Heights and Ed Smith of Buffalo Grove. All three were backed by the caucus in the 1970 election.

Smith and Wylie are completing their first terms on the board, while Cole has served six years. The new terms will be for three years.

To qualify for candidacy a person must be a resident of Dist. 21, be at least 18 years old, and should be a registered voter, according to caucus publicity committee chairman Gary Ellison.

Ellison said the caucus has not yet decided how much support will be given to candidates after endorsements are made.

Feb. 28 is the first day to file petitions with Dist. 21. Each petition must have the names of 50 registered voters. The final day of filing is March 27.

Medic Self-Help Classes Slated

A series of six medical self-help classes will begin Feb. 5 in Mount Prospect.

The free series, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Fire Department's Bureau of Emergency Planning, will be held at the Multigraphics Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect. Subject material will include "necessary emergency treatment that could be administered by a layman when confronted with an accident or other emergency," a spokesman for the bureau said.

Registration will be held the first night when the class begins at 7:30 p.m. The other five classes will be held on successive Monday nights. Program material will be presented by registered physicians and paramedic personnel of the fire department.

The spokesman said the course would be especially useful for those persons whose occupations require them to acquire first aid training through the Occupational Health and Safety Act. The course would satisfy the requirements of that act.

Applications Ready For Lunch Program

Application blanks for the Illinois State Free Lunch Program for children from families receiving public assistance or with gross income that fall below certain established categories, are now available at all Mount Prospect Dist. 57 schools.

The eligible income categories for the free lunch program range from $2,420 per year for a family with one child to an annual gross income of $9,610 for a family with 12 children.

Lunches shall be served free to all children whose family income level meets the eligibility standards and whose application has been approved.

Crafts Program Signup Extended

Registration for the spring holiday crafts program at the Mount Prospect Park District has been extended until Friday, according to Dale Johnson, assistant park director.

The program, designed to present students with spring decorating ideas, begins Feb. 19. Three class sessions are available: from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., from 1 to 3 p.m. or from 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays. Fee for the class is $7.50.

Residents may register for the program by calling the park district office at CL 5-6380 or in person at the Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St., Mount Prospect.

Teachers Told: Quit Smoking, Set Example

Teachers should quit smoking and give up their smoking lounges as an example for students, a doctor told more than 200 teachers at a health education workshop in Park Ridge yesterday.

"You can save more lives than we can," Dr. Harold Levine, physician at Hines Memorial Hospital in Hines, told the educators at Maine South High School in Park Ridge.

"We deal with the burnt-out ashes of cigarette smokers," he said, but teachers can stop smoking among students before it becomes a health problem. Teachers should work together to quit smoking and give up their private smoking facilities if they want to make health education programs effective and turn down student demands for their own smoking facilities, Dr. Levine said.

Dr. Levine, chief of pulmonary disease at Hines, and professor in the medical school of Loyola University, was one of the six guest speakers who talked to health education teachers on smoking, drug abuse, and alcoholism during the day-long workshop.

HIGH SCHOOL health education teachers from throughout the Chicago area attended the workshop sponsored by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and the Chicago Lung Association.

In welcoming teachers to the workshop, Cook County Superintendent of Schools Richard J. Martwick, reaffirmed his statement against student smoking facilities in local high schools. He said schools should do whatever they can to discourage student smoking.

The board of education at Dist. 207 held a public hearing on the smoking issue last week. Student smoking is prohibited at all four Dist. 207 high schools but students smoke illegally in the school washrooms which are difficult for teachers and administrators to supervise. Last summer students asked the board to allow student smoking in a confined area on the school grounds because student smoking in the washrooms was becoming a sanitation problem.

Dr. Levine said he is opposed to smoking for anyone, students and teachers alike, and reminded teachers that they do serve as an adult example for many of their students. Dr. Levine also cautioned school administrators against equating smoking with immorality. "I wish you would look at this as a health and education problem without religious or moral overtones," he said.

IN CONTRAST to many other countries, the life expectancy of the population is not rising in the United States, but has leveled off in recent years, said Dr. Levine. The cause of this leveling off is lung cancer which is caused by smoking, he said.

"Smoking doubles your chance of getting a heart attack," said Dr. Levine, and the student who smokes is twice as likely to have a heart attack by middle age as a student who doesn't smoke. While other forms of cancer are causing fewer deaths due to earlier detection, lung cancer deaths are still increasing and are reaching epidemic proportions, he said. More Americans will die of lung cancer in 1973 than died in Indochina since 1962, said Dr. Levine.

Tom Janeway, director of the Illinois Department of Health Education, told teachers that lung cancer is not a medical failure, but an educational failure. The only way known to curb lung cancer is to stop smoking, he said, and teaching the health hazards of cigarette smoking should be the job of the health education teacher.

There is a critical need for more workshops and training programs for health education teachers, said Janeway. He praised the Dist. 207 health education curriculum written by Dist. 207 faculty members last summer. The curriculum is now being distributed by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction and was given to teachers who attended yesterday's workshop. The next health education workshop will include lectures on sex education, venereal disease, pollution, acupuncture, and will be held at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge, on Friday, March 2.

Charity Fair Plans Under Way

Plans are under way for the third annual Mount Prospect Plaza Charity Fair. The fair, to be held at the Plaza, Rand and Central roads, will be open to all local charitable and civic groups and social organizations with philanthropic purposes or projects. There is no charge to participate, and each group keeps whatever profit it makes.

Each year the charity fair has grown. The proceeds from last year's event totaled more than $5,200.

A breakfast planning meeting for representatives of local groups that plan to participate will be held at 10 a.m. Feb. 6 at the Scando House Restaurant in the plaza. Invitations have been sent out; however, any group that has not gotten an invitation may make reservations for the meeting by calling Adele Jeschke at 255-0644 or writing to the Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Association, 1058 Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect, Ill. before Feb. 2.

At the fair, participating groups set up booths to sell various items that will raise funds for their association. Prizes are awarded for the best decorated booths and the booths with the highest sales.

Live-In Center For Mentally Retarded OK'd

The Arlington Heights Village Board last night approved the creation of a live-in center for mentally retarded young adults at Our Lady of the Wayside Convent, 432 S. Mitchell Ave.

The trustees voted unanimously to approve a land use variation for the convent, which will house a maximum of 20 mildly and moderately retarded adults.

The live-in center will be staffed and supervised by the Clearbrook Center of Rolling Meadows which operates a sheltered workshop for the mentally retarded in Elk Grove Village.

Raymond Soeyra, 404 S. Mitchell Ave., presented the board with petitions bearing the names of 63 residents who said they objected to the establishment of the center.

Upwards of 45 residents attended the meeting to show their support for the facility.

The variation will run for the duration of Clearbrook's three-year lease with the Wayside parish. After that time the live-in program, which was presented as a pilot project, will be reevaluated.

BEFORE THE center can be opened, $15,000 worth of repairs and renovation must be made to the convent building, which was originally built to house 27 nuns.

The convent is now used by only seven nuns and would have been vacated by the start of the next school year, Clearbrook's attorney, Eugene Schlickman, told the board.

Soeyra said residents he represented were concerned that the variation be limited to the convent building and not be applied to all the buildings in the Wayside complex.

He said he also thought the variation would set an undesirable precedent that could be used by the Archdiocese of Chicago in seeking other land use conversions.

Persons speaking in support of the facility said they thought the use of the convent by mildly retarded persons would create less of a problem than now exists from children at the school and in the nearby park.

They also said that if the convent building were allowed to stand vacant it would become an attractive nuisance to children.

CLEARBROOK WILL pay $12,000 a year rent for use of the building.

Byron Wilt, executive director of Clearbrook, said that 30 to 40 per cent of the live-in center's residents would come from Arlington Heights.

He said the residents are not mentally ill and will be capable of living in a residential facility with minimum supervision.

The center director agreed to furnish the village board with a written report on the operation of the facility one year before its lease expires.

Wilt said that during the 15 years the Clearbrook Center has been operating in Rolling Meadows, there have been only two minor instances when young children have strayed from the facility.

He said he foresaw no problems in the creation of a live-in center at the convent.

Chaplain For Aged At 5-Day Seminar

The Rev. Edward H. Elnem, chaplain for the Lutheran Home and Services for the Aged in Arlington Heights, has recently returned from a five-day seminar on recent trends in pastoral care at Zion, Ill.

The seminar was sponsored by the Lutheran Council in the USA Department of Institutional Chaplaincy and Clinical Pastoral Education. The council is the cooperative agency of the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Tomaso Urges Another Park Referendum Try

A $2.35 million park district referendum which was defeated in mid-December could pass if presented in two different questions and the public was given enough information about the questions, Tony Tomaso, chairman of the referendum committee, told the park board last night.

Tomaso gave the board his views on the referendum as a prelude to a meeting tomorrow at which the park board will discuss the past referendum and the possibility of a future one. The Dec. 16 referendum failed by a four to one margin.

"People were voting against the tax increase, not against the park district," Tomaso said. "We underestimated the no-vote of the senior citizen turnout and overestimated the yes-vote turnout."

"I also strongly feel that we did not get our message across. The people have got to know the financial situation the park district is in and how badly we need a money-making facility like the ice rink to pay for future programs," said Tomaso.

Deadline Nears For Salt Creek Plan

Monday is the deadline for state and federal agencies to complete the necessary reviews of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement before sending the agreement to Congress for possible federal funding.

Barry Good, legislative assistant to Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., said the completed reviews will be sent to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The SCS will then incorporate the different agencies' comments into a final work plan for the agreement.

This final plan will be sent to Congress for approval of federal funding under the SCS fiscal year 1974 budget.

Good said no date has been set for the final work plan to be submitted to Congress. He said when it will be submitted depends on the amount of revision necessary to the work plan based on the comments from other agencies.

THE AGENCIES that have to review the plan are: the governor's office; State Clearing House; Northeast Illinois Planning Commission; Army Corps of Engineers; Department of the Interior; Department of Commerce; Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Environmental Protection Agency; Federal Power Commission; and the U.S. Coast Guard.

If Congress can act on the agreement in time for the 1974 fiscal year, federal funds would be available on July 1, 1973. The agreement that Congress will consider is the original $28.5 million project to build flood controls across the Salt Creek. Federal funds for approximately half the cost of the project are being requested.

This original agreement has already been approved by various local and state government agencies.

After the agreement had been sent to Washington last September, Richard Ogilvie, then governor, announced that the state would not wait for federal funding, but would expand the project and begin work immediately.

THE SCS REVIEWED Ogilvie's proposal and said the state could begin work without risking the loss of federal funding at a later date.

In one of his final acts in office, Ogilvie signed a $170,000 emergency appropriations bill for design work on the flood control structures.

Ogilvie's successor, Daniel Walker has said the Salt Creek project will receive a high priority with his administration, but has not announced any specific details.

The Illinois Division of Water Resource Management has asked Walker to include a $5.6 million appropriation for flood control in his administrative budget for the next fiscal year. The money would be used to start work on flood controls for Salt Creek and other waterways in Cook and DuPage counties.

Johnson, then vice president, became the 36th president when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

A YEAR LATER the former Senate majority leader and vice president won the presidency in his own right. He received 61 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson chose not to run for a second full term and was succeeded by President Richard M. Nixon.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Otto Kerner's chief defense attorney, Paul Connolly, questioned former Racing Board Chairman William Miller in detail about his story on making stock available to Kerner and Theodore Isaacs.

The Nation

The U.S. Supreme Court voted 7 to 2 to prohibit the states from interfering with a doctor's medical decision to perform an abortion during a woman's first three months of pregnancy.

Sports

The Market

Economic uncertainties continued to weigh on the stock market, driving prices lower in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The widely followed Dow Jones Industrial average fell 7.38 to 1,015.81; Standard & Poor's 500 stock index dropped 0.57 to 118.21 and the average price of a share of NYSE common stock declined 23 cents.

But Not On All Issues

Even Dowd, Brooks Agree

by CAROL L. RHYNE

"Power to the people" may not remind you of the John Birch Society, but Phil Dowd, leader of the Elk Grove Village chapter, says the popular cry is very similar to the society's objectives.

"I have spent a lot of time talking to people who are active in civil rights, like Clyde Brooks (of Elk Grove Village), and the more I talk with Clyde, the more similarity I see," he said. "The only thing we disagree on is who the bad guy is."

Dowd said in his opinion it was the "insiders" that were corrupting the country and only a few were actually communist. "Most insiders are the tax-free foundations who have stated their objectives to change our economy toward more socialism."

Dowd and his wife, Marie, started the Elk Grove Village John Birch chapter in December 1968, and four years later the chapter has grown to some 20 members as well as fostered many other chapters in the Northwest suburbs. Dowd said as many as 40 persons have belonged to the group at one time, but some left to start other chapters.

The chapter has kept a low profile in the village, and Dowd said the organization was not seeking a lot of publicity.

"THE PURPOSE OF the John Birch Society is not to seek publicity but to educate the public on the various machinations of the government which are trying to change our constitution from a republic to a socialist dictatorship," he said.

Instead Dowd said the chapter gets a listing of new residents and sends the welcome letters and telephones to invite them to the Friday night films and discussions of the chapter.

Dowd said the chapter also avoids involvement in local village elections, mainly because of time limitations. "We take no active role in politics at all," he said. "We feel if we educate the electorate, the change in the political scene will result."

However, Dowd said, refraining from running candidates in village and school board elections did not mean the members did not have opinions on local issues. "In general, we oppose programs that lead to big government because they take power away from the people."

DOWD SAID this meant he did not like the idea of a unit school district, which currently is under study by Elk Grove School Dist. 59. At this time, elementary and high school districts are separate, and a unit district would consolidate both districts under one administration. Dowd said this would further remove control for education away from the people.

Dowd said although people of all ages belonged to the local chapter and the society as a whole was becoming more youth-oriented, there was no major campaign to enlist youth in the local chapter. "The society wants young people, but it also needs elderly and middle-aged people of every race, creed and color if it is to save the country."

The main accomplishments in the four-year history of the village chapter are the "general education of people in the Elk Grove Village area" and the "recruting of more people in the movement," according to Dowd.

To reach these goals, Dowd said his group distributes films to schools and clubs, sells books on key political figures as part of the society's "operation book sales" and sponsors political speakers.

Nurses Club Elects President, Secretary

Loretta Sullivan, Arlington Heights, and Miriam Santow, Palatine, have been elected president and secretary respectively of the Private Duty Nurses Club.

The club provides registered nurses to serve in hospitals and homes in the Northwest suburban area. For more information, call 296-3546.

Arlington Youth Killed In Ohio

An Arlington Heights youth was struck by a car and killed early Saturday morning when he reportedly stopped on the Ohio Turnpike to assist a fellow motorist.

John Howard Link Jr., 18, was killed at 1:47 a.m. Saturday on the Ohio Turnpike near Wauseon, Ohio. Link lived at 1430 W. Concord Dr., Arlington Heights, and was a senior at John Hersey High School.

Reports say Link was in Ohio to visit friends. He apparently had stopped on the highway to help another motorist when he was struck down in the dark morning hours.

He was employed part-time at Tallyho 76 service station, 1800 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

A funeral mass will be said at 10 a.m. (EST) today at St. Mary Catholic Church, St. Clairsville, Ohio. Interment will be in Union Cemetery, St. Clairsville.

1st Winter Concert Tonight At Miner

The first of four winter concerts in Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 will be held tonight at Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner, at 8 o'clock.

POWER TO THE PEOPLE and less governmental control is what the John Birch Society is all about, says Phil Dowd, leader of the Elk Grove Village chapter, speaking in the chapter's office at his home.

Included in the concert will be a medley from the 1890s, Lara's Theme from Dr. Zhivago, a jazz waltz and a rock number.

"The concerts will include music from many different time periods," said Ernie Templeton, band director. "The concerts are part of the band students' basic training. They need some performance experience, and it also gives the parents some idea of what the kids are doing."

Concerts will be held Thursday at South Junior High, 301 W. South St.; Tuesday, Jan. 30 at Rand Junior High, 2550 N. Arlington Heights Road; and Wednesday, Jan. 31 at Thomas Junior High, 303 E. Thomas. All concerts begin at 8 p.m.

The Miner concert tonight will include the Miner Concert and Cadet Bands as well as grade school bands from Kensington, Windsor and North Schools.

The South concert will include the South Concert Band and grade school bands from Westgate, Park, Dryden and Dunton Schools. The Rand concert will include Rand Concert and Cadet bands and grade school bands from Ivy Hill, Berkley, Greenbrier and Patton Schools. The Thomas concert will include Thomas Concert and Cadet bands and grade school bands from Ridge, Wilson and Olive Schools.

Students Need Example

alike, and reminded teachers that they do serve as an adult example for many of their students. Dr. Levine also cautioned school administrators against equating smoking with immorality. "I wish you would look at this as a health and education problem without religious or moral overtones," he said.

IN CONTRAST TO many other countries, the life expectancy of the population is not rising in the United States, but has leveled off in recent years, said Dr. Levine. The cause of this leveling off is lung cancer which is caused by smoking, he said.

"Smoking doubles your chance of getting a heart attack," said Dr. Levine, and the student who smokes is twice as likely to have a heart attack by middle age as a student who doesn't smoke. While other forms of cancer are causing fewer deaths due to earlier detection, lung cancer deaths are still increasing and are reaching epidemic proportions, he said. More Americans will die of lung cancer in 1973 than died in Indochina since 1962, said Dr. Levine.

Tom Janeway, director of the Illinois Department of Health Education, told teachers that lung cancer is not a medical failure, but an educational failure. The only way known to curb lung cancer is to stop smoking, he said, and teaching the health hazards of cigarette smoking should be the job of the health education teacher.

There is a critical need for more workshops and training programs for health education teachers said Janeway. He praised the Dist. 207 health education curriculum written by Dist. 207 faculty members last summer. The curriculum is now being distributed by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction and was given to teachers who attended yesterday's workshop. The next health education workshop will include lectures on sex education, venereal disease, pollution, acupuncture, and will be held at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dee Rd., Park Ridge, on Friday, March 2.

Tomaso Urges Another Park Referendum Try

The ice rink amounted to $1,275,000, or half of the total referendum package.

TOMASO SAID that there would still be a lot of people who would vote against any referendum. But he said if the park board explained the referendum fully it could pass.

Tomaso also suggested that any future referendum be held after the board election in April, after which two members of the five-member board will be new.

Also at the meeting the park board voted unanimously to apply for 13 acres of land recently declared surplus to military needs at the Nike Site, Central and Wilke Roads. Included in the application will be the board's intention to use the L-shaped area for passive recreation and, if funds become available, for a nine-hole pitch and putt golf course.

In an executive session, the board decided to take a new approach to the job of park patrolman.

"There will be no attempt to police the parks, but we will have someone trained in recreation to work with youth after hours," said Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation. The former park patrolman recently resigned.

In other business, the board unanimously approved a resolution stating that it would agree with prohibition of parking along the west side of Fernandez Street, adjacent to Pioneer Park, between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m.

A group of parents concerned about youth delinquency in the park asked for the resolution and plan to ask the village to erect the no-parking signs.

Piano Recital Set Saturday At Hersey

A piano recital which will include 21 students of Arlington Heights piano teacher Edwina Beam will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the choral room of John Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas.

Students performing will include Miles and Mark Bahadur, Sherri Duran, Cheryl and Marilyn Eltemiller, Leslie and Lindsey Gilmer, Mary Handley, Terri Henning, Patti Heyn, Lisa Kallans, Lori Larson, Tarra and Allyson Mohr, Jill and Paul Obermayer, Ann Rolston, Jon and Tom Staley and Christine Weinberg.

Pick Teacher To Head Summer Study Tour

A teacher at St. Vitor High School, Arlington Heights, has been selected to head up a study tour this summer in Spain.

Theodore T. Kane will chaperone a group of students on the tour, which begins in July. The students will attend summer school at the University of Salamanca and will visit Madrid and Paris. The tour is sponsored by the American Institute for Foreign Study.

Kane said that places are still available for interested students, who may contact him at the school or at home, 356-5025.

Library Begins Review Clubs

In an effort to encourage children to read books for fun, the children's department of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library has begun two new book review clubs for children in the fifth through eighth grades.

The library for a long time has sponsored summer reading clubs for elementary-age children, but the concept of a club for older kids is something that's just getting started. Besides simply reviewing books, the club members will discuss books and see dramatic presentations of some of the stories.

Library Book Club No. 5 is for fifth grade students. For those in junior high — grades six through eight — there's the Read 'n' Review program.

The two groups meet on alternating Thursdays in the Dunton Room of the library, 500 N. Dunton Ave. The next fifth grade group meeting will be from 4 to 5 p.m. Thursday. For the junior high schoolers, it will be from 7:30 p.m. Feb. 1.

Both the library staff and participants will review books, and everyone will discuss them.

The two groups have already had one meeting each, and Ruth Griffith, children's librarian, reports a turnout of more than 45 youngsters.

ERRATIC WEATHER BRINGS constantly changing scenes. The branch on a pine tree, one day bending with the weight of rain drops on its needles, will hours later blow in the wind with needles stiffly covered with ice.
